the nineteen fifty-six Melange, volume seventy-seven,

published by the junior class of Lafayette College, Easton, Pa.

The Marquis de Lafayette, Scholar, Statesman, Patriot, and Adopted Son lives on as our spiritual guide, serving with his spirit as a standard to help make us men worthy to bear the name "Lafayette."

edication

The intention of a dedication is a gesture of acknowledgment and affection. And as such, the act of dedication must honestly reflect a sentiment which is general and heart felt. In his position as Dean of Students, he comes in contact with all of us during our college life. He is always ready, willing and quite able to help us in scholastic, financial, or social problems. He is known to all of us for his whole-hearted devotion to Lafayette and the principles on which it stands. No other man knows the student body as well as the Dean. He helps us with our first problem as freshman, and sees to it that all our requirements are fulfilled before he recommends that we be graduated. As a tribute to him for his help and encouragement, and as a sincere and deep honor to us, the staff of the 1956 Melange dedicates this volume to . . .

Prologue

Can the individual facets of the time we spent at Lafayette be analyzed and one above the others singled out as contributing most to the shaping of our lives? The task is as fruitless as impossible. As seen on the following pages, the whole effort is much more than the individual events or activities, per se. It is the many parts of college life all correlated into one cohesive unit — the Lafayette Man. We have divided the Melange into these various areas. When we first come to college, we ask questions; therefore, the first section is composed of those people whom we ask, not only then, but throughout our college life. The other sections, We Listened, We Supplemented, We Lived, We Produced, We Played, We Relaxed, We Graduated, and We Shopped, each and severally depict the Lafayette Way of Life. The difference between the sum of these parts and the complete unity is filled by the thoughts and memories of the events which the words and pictures evoke from you. Much like the end sheets evoke the first sight upon entering Lafayette and the last sight when leaving, it is our hope that we have captured some of the events of this past year so that your impression will complement the incidents themselves, making the book, and in turn our job, complete.

During our years at Lafayette we have asked literally thousands of questions concerning every phase of college life and campus activity. The persons involved in answering these numberless queries, and indeed, in deciding the question of policy for the entire school in every capacity, comprise the administration; that body of personages with whom we never lose contact from our sub-freshmen days until long after graduation. The President, the Deans, the Chaplain of the College, the office personnel and the doctors and nurses at the infirmary all provide the endearing framework of our institution blending a particular philosophy of education into a workable and systematic program. The men and women of the college administration, perhaps far more than the student body, represents Lafayette to the world. It is their industry and activity which determine the character and standing of our school, and the success of their endeavors is attested to by the present outstanding reputation and regard which Lafayette enjoys. On a more personal level, however, these people are vitally concerned with our own progress while in school. In all ways, their constant attention to us, as we burden them with our problems, acted as a soothing and strengthening influence, and added greatly to our regard for them and for the institution of which they are a part.

PRESIDENT RALPH COOPER HUTCHISON

During his first decade as President of Lafayette College, Ralph Cooper Hutchison has guided Lafayette through one of the greatest expansion periods in her long history. During his administration we have seen New McKeen Dormitory, Watson Hall, Soles Hall, Kirby Dormitory, Ord Heating Plant, Alumni Engineering Building, and Olin Science Building come into existence.

His duties keep him busy and he therefore finds it difficult to meet the students on an individual basis, but to those with whom he does come in contact, a well founded impression of a sincere, energetic, and warm friend is left on the now enriched student.

The bulwark of any college is its trustees, and here at Lafayette we are fortunate in having a group of men interested and devoted to their task of furthering both physical plant and academic advancement.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

COLLEGE TREASURER

High finance expert John B. Schlegel, Treasurer of the College, is the guardian of Lafayette's investments and balance sheets.

DIRECTOR OF PROMOTIONS

The pleasing smile of Harvey S. Batdorf, Director of Financial Promotions, helps him to enlighten friends of the college on the necessity of their financial backing.

Dean of Faculty Robert G. Crosen studies a scheduling problem presented to him by a confused student.

DEAN OF FACULTY

As Dean of Faculty, keeping the faculty informed of the progress of committees is one of Dean Crosen's most difficult jobs. As scheduling officer, he has the task of arranging all classes and satisfying both students and instructors. Regardless of how busy he may be, a student always finds him willing to discuss any problem, whether it is of an academic or a personal nature.

The office of the Dean of Students is termed "grand central station" on campus. Perhaps the busiest man at Lafayette, Dean Hunt is always a good listener to any student who has a problem or who seeks his advice. He is not only the attorney for the prosecution, but also acts for the defendant as well; acting for the best interests of school and its student.

Dr. Wayland James of the Religion Department has been acting as Assistant Dean of Students, and his job is far from an easy one. Aside from assisting the Dean, he is charged with the responsibility of maintaining student discipline as well as acting as an advisor to various campus organizations. His congenial smile and warm personality assure a cordial reception and an understanding reception to every undergraduate.

DEANS OF STUDENTS

A helping hand, a word of encouragement, and a bit of fatherly discipline when needed total a real friend in Frank R. Hunt, Dean of Students.

C. Wayland James ably handled the job of assistant dean of students for the first semester.

Our finances are kept in the black due to the efforts of Earl Snyder, Cashier.

All the havoc raised by South College frosh or Lehigh invaders is attended to by Daniel J. Miller, Supervisor of Repairs and Grounds.

The housing problems is adequately handled here on the campus by G. Norman Beling.

Having schedule trouble? See either Miss Kahler (seated), Mrs. Horton, Miss Lyman, Miss Kane, or Mrs. Berg in the scheduling office.

ADMISSIONS

As one class prepares to exit, F. Closs, C. Kelly, G. Fouke, and R. Weitzel select another group of young men to replace it. Their job is a most important one.

SECRETARIES

Lafayette may not be co-ed but Seated: G. Steckel and E. Lerch, Standing: C. Masouras, C. La Bar, B. Weiss, C. Fallon, M. Kichline, V. Edelman, H. Thompson, and M. Frangalis of the Pardee office staffs do add that needed touch of femineity.

OFFICE PERSONNEL

The gallant girls of Pardee, Seated: Merworth. Standing: M. Roseberry, Brotzman, Bigelow, Hendricks, J. Roseberry, and Milheim fight on day after day against IBM machines and balance sheets which don't balance.

PROCTORS

Erwin Jacoby, Ray Cressman, Ray Hatch, Bob Oyer, George Hanks, and Les Dietz (campus proctor) all help to guard the welfare of the "quad" during the day and night.

COLLEGE CHAPLAIN

Chaplain Currie smilingly offers spiritual guidance to the members of the Lafayette family. His inspiration leads us in our darkest hours.

More than once in a student's four-year stay at Lafayette a need for advice to a particular spiritual problem arises. Chaplain Currie as chaplain for the school keeps his door conveniently open, and students find him not only a sympathetic listener but also a good counsellor for their problems. In his job as Chaplain, Reverend Currie tries to see that spiritual needs of students are satisfied by promulgating a religious atmosphere on campus. His other jobs include taking care of Hogg Hall, acting as advisor to organizations such as the Campus Chest, and he is of course, in general charge of the College Church.

A dog, a problem, and a friend.

DEACONS

The Deacons of the College Church; Russell, Davenport, Faust, Brown, Morgan, and Runyon willingly give their time and effort to serve. Their function is extremely important and they ask no thanks for their labor.

ELDERS

The elders of the College Church gather for a session. Clerk of Session Norig Ellison reads to, First Row: Jarden, Ballard, Mooradian, Nelson; Second Row: Murphy, Rev. J. Currie, Venner; Third Row: Rasmussen, Wright. These elders compose the only student run church in the Presbyterian Church and are among the youngest elders in the country.

PARDEE MEMORIAL INFIRMARY

From heartaches through hangovers and head colds, the average student finds a sympathetic ear and a competent man in Dr. Kressler.

DOCTORS

Near the foot of Sullivan Lane stands the Anna Robison Pardee Memorial Infirmary which has been serving Lafayette students since 1928. Drs. Kenneth Kressler and James Quiney, both resident physicians in Easton, attend to the medical needs of the student body, supervising treatment and therapy for the ill. Aside from these and other duties, the doctors also provide inspections and examinations for ROTC cadets and participants in both varsity and intramural sports.

The four registered nurses at the Anna Robison Pardee Infirmary provide the Lafayette student body with constant service and medical care. Directed by Mrs. Cula Uhler, nurses Mrs. Mary Sebolt, Miss Alma Abel and Mrs. Ruth Forsythe not only care for invalid patients but also administer therapy and conduct laboratory work. Together, they treat well over one thousand students every year.

NURSES

Peace and tranquility coupled with mercy and efficiency best describe the infirmary. Its doors are always open. Its function is to serve us all.

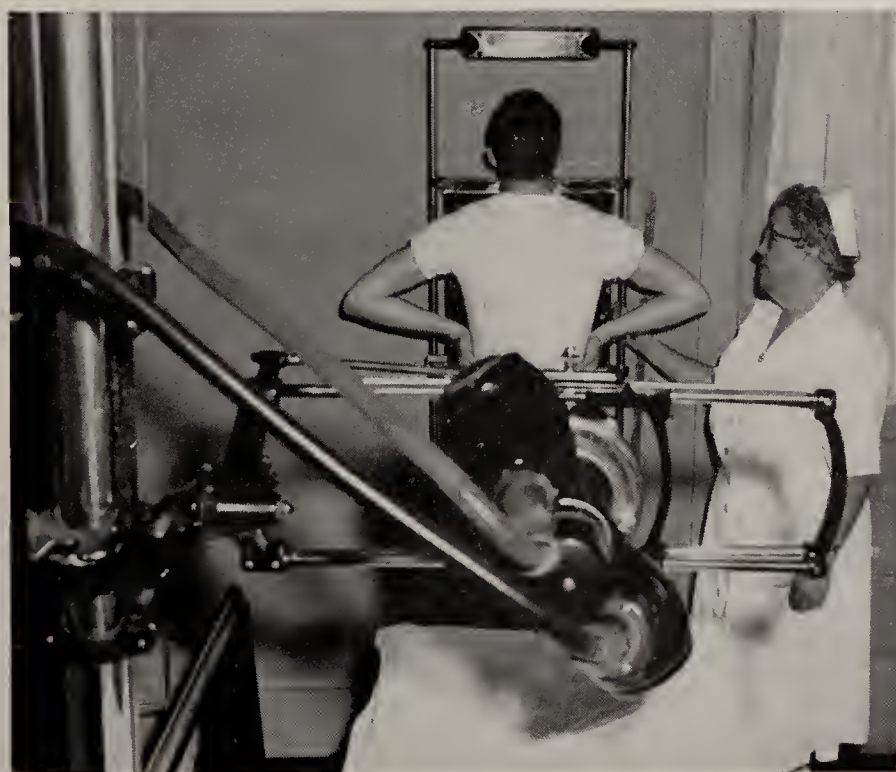

Miss Ruth Forsythe, one of our infirmary nurses bandages a student's finger, gashed in an intramural football game.

Dr. James Quiney is always ready, willing, and able to assist in medical, social, or academic problems.

"Breathe deeply," says Miss Uhler as a student receives a chest x-ray at the Infirmary.

Miss Abel, one of our infirmary nurses offers a word of encouragement and a good dinner to Kent Mitchell, recovering after a case of the "flu."

Perhaps the greatest amount of our time as undergraduates has been spent listening — in conferences, and classrooms, in lectures and in seminars. Focusing our attention on what was being said, we distilled the knowledge preserved to us mentally equipping ourselves with the material which will prove the bulwark of our knowledge throughout life. New ideas, new methods, new formulas all became a part of us, as we individually selected and adapted the wisdom of past and present into a pragmatic philosophy for later years. Exceptionally fortunate in having an excellent faculty, our classroom discussions were made more enjoyable by their willingness to share their knowledge and experiences with us, making our moments together as fruitful as they were interesting. In classes, kept small in numbers, we achieved an intimacy with our advisors that eventually became a friendship, accepting their counsel and advice gratefully, knowing that their interest was entrenched in us. It may well be that in later years our most valuable possession will remain the education we have received at their hands, for in reality they have instilled in us a part of themselves, a part of their being which will go far beyond the near four year span of our acquaint-ship.

The ivy covered walls of South College hold a great deal of tradition. The center of Liberal Arts at Lafayette, it is an old — but majestic building.

Arts Sciences

The Liberal Arts program at Lafayette has been fashioned with painstaking care to provide its undergraduates with an opportunity to achieve a broad, well rounded, liberal education. More than merely providing the student with the implements to retain a certain position, the curriculum offers a wide selection of courses, taking all learning for its province and providing the undergraduate with the background necessary to achieve understanding and fulfilment in today's world.

Upon completion of certain minimum requirements established by the school, the liberal student has a wide variety of departments from which he can select the subject which he decides to make his field of concentration in his junior and senior years. The installation of seminar and honor courses by these departments, coupled with an intense and exacting scheduling in major and related courses insures the undergraduate of both a wide range of study and the opportunity to achieve a proficiency in the subject of his greatest interest. Terminating with an exhaustive comprehensive examination, the liberal arts program demands and achieves the best from its students.

Van Wickle Library is frequented by all of us for studying, term papers, and reports.

HISTORY

The professors of the History Department gather by South College to discuss its doubtful historical value. From left to right: Brown, Christie, Heath, Coddington, Gendebien, and Coleman.

The History department, according to Dr. Coddington, aims its curriculum not only at those men interested in graduate study, but also at students of the liberal arts in general. Close inter-departmental cooperation insures the arts students of a well rounded education with full opportunities for both fundamental and advanced studies in history, while majors in history and related fields are given every encouragement to broaden and increase their education by a program of specialized concentration.

GOVERNMENT

The department of Government and Law strives to cover the broadening field of political science and public law, to create a general interest in practical politics, and to prepare students for professional life in law and public service. This department, housed in the Kirby Hall of Civil Rights, concentrates primarily on the basic concepts of American Government and provides advanced surveys into the political and administrative procedures of various other countries.

Distinguished men of law and government Hourtoule, Edwards, Chase (seated), and Pfretzschner gather in Kirby Hall library to discuss developments on the political scene.

PHILOSOPHY

Strodach, Clark, and Reuman gather on the lawn in beach chairs to discuss the philosophy of everyday life with all its trials and smiles.

The purpose of the Philosophy Department is primarily to instill in its students an understanding and an appreciation of the practice of ordered and logical thought. A free exchange and examination of idea is encouraged so that the undergraduate may achieve his own sound conceptions of ethical, aesthetic and logical problems.

LANGUAGES

A new plan for student instruction in modern foreign languages has recently been instituted at Lafayette. This linguistic method, involving use of tape recordings of the students own voices, permits the self detection and correction of mistakes and leads to a more easily understood and appreciated knowledge of the subject.

"Je ne comprend pas," "Ich verstehe nicht," "Jacta est Alea," in any tongue you are liable to hear, Sitting: Gaertner, Danielson, Funk, Obrecht, Gallo, Pascal, Streeter, Brown, and Anders; Standing: Schwarz and Zabuesnic, the members of the languages department conversing.

A misprint in a theology textbook amuses James, Weber, Tilden, Kelly, and Staples of the Religion department.

RELIGION

The purpose of the Religion Department is to give every Lafayette student an opportunity to study the history of the major religions of the world, and an opportunity to understand their philosophies. Although Lafayette is a Presbyterian endowed college, the department believes in giving its students a non-segregational course of instruction, hence its main objective is not to prepare students for ministerial work. It does, however, offer a seminar course for those students who plan to take graduate work in this field.

ENGLISH

The primary goal of Lafayette's Department of English is to instill in its students a thorough knowledge of the language, and to provide them with the means to employ it effectively. The Department sponsored Reading and Study Program aids student reading comprehension, while the reorganized Honors course and the interdepartmental creative centuries course add a wider area for advanced study on the undergraduate level.

Dr. Watt chats informally with the members of the English Department. Seated on Table: Assoc Prof. Magnus; Standing: Asst. Prof. Vitelli, Ins. Doehler, Ins. Gibb, Ins. Rudden, Ins. Jauch, Assoc. Prof. Thomas, and Asst. Prof. Coombs; Seated: Ins. Winston, Asst. Prof. McClusky, Mrs. Ketcham, and Prof. Watt.

PSYCHOLOGY

When the Psychology Department, Brown, Rogers, and Kogler get together someone is sure to be psychoanalyzed!

Dr. Herbert W. Rogers, head of the Psychology Department has announced two major projects which the department hopes to undertake in the near future. The first project, the creation of a mental hygiene center will provide students with the opportunity to consult a trained mental hygienist while the second would provide for a vocational testing service to aid students in selecting their future occupations.

Dr. Johannes A. Gaertner, Fine Arts Department Chairman, is at present contemplating a curriculum permitting students to major in Fine Arts. The Fine Arts Society offers an extra-curricular opportunity for students to increase their understanding and appreciation of the subject.

Dr. Fred V. Roeder, of the Education Department, heads a group whose purpose it is to prepare students for secondary teaching in a program designed specifically to meet the requirements of the Department of Education.

ED. and FINE ARTS

To those students of Lafayette preparing to enter secondary school teaching, Dr. Fred Roeder offers himself both as a professor and an advisor.

Dr. Johannes A. Gaertner of the Fine Arts Department enlivens interest in the development of art through the ages and helps the average student realize that an appreciation of art is a necessary part of a liberal education.

With the addition of the Business Administration curriculum in the field of economics, Lafayette's department of economics has increased until at the present moment it has become the largest single department in the school. Since the major aim of the department is to provide its students with a general course in business administration and at the same time to prepare them for the specific field of industry in which they are the most interested, the staff has added many new courses....

ECONOMICS

Dr. Handsaker, seated, discusses the economic life of America with Ins. Rett, Ins. Holbik, Ins. Hsiao, Assoc. Prof. Tarbell, Ins. Greening, Ass. Prof. Small, and Ass. Prof. Sause of the Economics Department.

The smiles of this group of mathematicians, sitting: Ins. Howard, Ins. Raleigh; standing: Assoc. Prof. Smith, Ins. Gavala, Ins. Kerr, Ins. Rhodes, Prof. Saalfrank, Ins. Therrien, Ass. Prof. Playfoot, Ass. Prof. Stoddard, proves that mathematics can be fun.

Not only is Mathematics the basis of all modern science, but also a medium through which a student may gain the power of reasoning. Lafayette offers many varied mathematics courses under the capable supervision of Dr. Saalfrank, the department head. Among its recent innovations is a five year program offering a B.S. in engineering plus an A.B. in mathematics.

Standing "At Ease" are Sgt. Magner, Sgt. Landon, Sgt. Adair, Sgt. Handeland, Sgt. Mahin, and Sgt. Altepeter of the ROTC Dept.

For the first time since the establishment of R.O.T.C. at Lafayette, the enlisted man is no longer a classroom instructor. His chief responsibility now is to assist the officer in instruction and to control the distribution of uniforms and supplies for use in the classroom or on the drill field. He also plays a major role in the training of the drill platoon and the college rifle team.

MILITARY SCIENCE

Lafayette boasts one of the largest R.O.T.C. units in the East, handled by a staff of experienced officers whose chief purpose it is to develop leadership in the cadet corps. The initiation of student direction of the weekly drills, combined with student lead class instruction helps the cadet by developing in him character traits valuable in his pursuit of a military career and in civilian life.

Sitting are Maj. Giacco, Lt. Col. Schipporeit, Col. Boyt, Maj. Phillips, and CWO Hauser who look happy as this is a "1000 demerit day." Also of the ROTC Dept. are standing: Capt. Douthitt, Capt. Feld, Capt. Mattison, Capt. Davis, and Capt. Clinedinst.

OFFICERS

BIOLOGY

Hunt, Stableford, Cribbins and Gese, members of the Biology Department, get together to discuss "their" topic—life.

A large amount of equipment has been added to the laboratories at Jenk's Hall this year. Both the Microbiology and Comparative Vertebrate Anatomy courses have been equipped with new lab tables while new sinks have been placed throughout the building, and a sound movie projector has been added. A course in Evolution, which will be taught by Dr. James M. Cribbins has been added to the curriculum, in an attempt to provide the biology student with the maximum in selection of courses of study in the field of biology.

The chemistry department gathers for a departmental meeting. Ass. Prof. Mutuszko, Assoc. Prof. McGraw, Prof. White, Ins. G. Siemencow, Ins. Smith (standing) Prof. Wilson, Prof. Hart, Prof. Marklein, Ins. A. Siemencow, and Ins. Goodin.

CHEMISTRY

The completion of the new Olin Hall of Science should not only provide a new and more modern building for scientific study at Lafayette, but should also increase laboratory and research facilities for the chemistry department's students and its staff. The building, whose erection was made possible by a grant by the Olin Foundation, will permit a larger and more rounded education for Lafayette students in the field of science.

Donated by the late Ario Pardee, Pardee Hall contains the departments of Economics and Philosophy. Pardee Auditorium serves as a general lecture hall in courses in English, history and Military Science.

Kirby Hall of Civil Rights contains the department of Government and Religion. It has an extensive library for legal research and a museum of early Americana.

Once the center of all natural sciences at Lafayette, Jenks Hall has become the home of the Biology Department. Completely renovated a few years ago, it houses the school's pre-medical activities.

Engineering

The modern age of science in which we live has brought to bear a heavy demand on engineering colleges to make their curriculum more attractive. Lafayette presents seven branches of engineering from which an incoming student may choose, but students are first prepared for the general field of engineering rather than for immediate specialization in any one division. Encouraged to widen their education with elective courses in the arts, engineers may elect to study such subjects as English, economics, government, and psychology. Thus subjected to other non-technical influences, the engineers are enabled to put their technical courses to work in a practical sense and to broaden their education, thus achieving a thorough understanding of the needs of the world.

Although the heavy class schedule required of freshmen engineering students, keeps them continuously busy in learning the fundamentals of this craft, later years will permit specialization in a particular field, leading to a degree of Bachelor of Science upon graduation. Augmented by increased facilities and opportunities, the engineer at Lafayette has every chance to become a polished craftsman in his department.

The new and very functional Alumni Engineering Building is the center of the Engineering curriculum at Lafayette College.

The Physics Dept. gets a big kick out of a portable electrocution machine. Seated as they examine the apparatus are Assoc. Prof. McQuarrie, Prof. Larsen, and Prof. Balderston. Standing are Ins. Altemose, Assoc. Prof. Keck, Ins. Erich, Ins. Schearer and Ass. Prof. Amar.

Because of the vastly expanding future in the field of physics the Physics Department at Lafayette has undertaken to supplement the traditional four year program B.S. curriculum with a five year course of study leading to a degree in Electrical Engineering and Physics. Coupled with the broadened schedule the department has increased its student facilities for research and the practical application of their principles.

PHYSICS

This department has all its students in the revised curriculum which had been changed to modernize and eliminate specialization in the program. The courses now deal with fundamentals. The student work week has also been defined by an evaluation of class preparation and credits.

The physical plant for the department is now excellent. The equipment, the laboratory, and supplies now make the laboratory work most effective.

The department is well staffed with its several members engaged in consulting the summer industrial work.

ELECTRICAL ENGR.

Prof. Smith, Prof. Conover, Prof. Emeritus Moreland King, Asst. Prof. Slantz, Asst. Prof. Kosso, Assoc. Prof. Reifsnnyder of the Electrical Engineering Department, discuss the new curriculum changes.

The Geology Department, Beerbower, Dyson, Montgomery, and Cabeen, meet to plan the work for next semester.

GEOLOGY

The Mining and Metallurgical Engineering Department has consistently tried to provide its undergraduates with an adequate preparation in the basic fundamentals of the mining and metallurgical sciences. Because of the changing economic emphasis in our area where a change to oil and metal instead of coal has occurred, a course in petroleum engineering has been added to the curriculum. Engineering specialization on the undergraduate level has at present given way to a broader scheduling program to allow more time for the engineer to concentrate in the field of liberal arts.

The major improvement in this department was the recent acquisition of mineral specimens from the Pohl, Schuster, and Gehman collections. Because of their rarity, beauty and scientific worth, these excellent collections make Lafayette College's mineral collection one of the outstanding in the country. Members of the department, meanwhile, are directing a large measure of their efforts to outside projects. Professor Dyson is working on a survey for a new cement quarry in the Easton area, while Doctor Montgomery is conducting research for the American Museum of Natural History.

METALLURGY

Dr. Clark goes over the Metallurgy course with the other members of the Department; McGeady, Jones, and Childs.

Goodspeed, Poore, and Merrick, members of the Industrial Engineering Department gather for a chat concerning the problems created by the rise of industrialism in the past century.

MECHANICAL ENGR.

At Lafayette, the mechanical engineering curriculum is designed to provide adequate instruction in the fundamentals of applied science and an approach to the more advanced applications in machines and engines. Mechanical engineering deals with the design, construction and operation of machines and no attempt has been made at specialization since the curriculum is designed for a broad coverage of the field. The aim of the department is to develop competent engineers with a thorough knowledge of fundamentals and a broad general education which will enable them to acquire specialized skills and assume positions of responsibility after entering industry.

INDUSTRIAL ENGR.

At the present moment, the department is moving away from the traditional engineering emphasis in specialization by replacing mechanical engineering courses with a more and varied curriculum, including social science courses. It must be emphasized however, that the main function of the department remains the mastery of efficient operation in industry.

The Industrial Engineering Department, as one of the engineering divisions at Lafayette College, has only been established as a department within the past few years. Despite its youth its students make it the third largest branch of the engineering field in the college.

Prof. Luce outlines the coming year's curriculum to Ins. Feridun. Assoc. Prof. Blakeslee, Ins. Jones, Ins. McLane, Assoc. Prof. Weishampel, and Asst. Prof. Fernandes, members of the Mechanical Engineering Department.

CHEMICAL ENGR.

During the past year this department has accelerated several engineering courses allowing the student greater opportunity for selection in the social sciences and arts courses. However, the chemical engineer is given a sound education in major branches of Chemistry, and in the basic engineering studies of mathematics, physics, and mechanics. The department offers the advanced student courses stressing the applications of fundamental principles of thermodynamics and physical chemistry in the various unit operations employed in chemical manufacture. With the completion of the new engineering building the department will be able to expand its facilities for both instruction and laboratory work and will be even better prepared to fulfill the demands of its students.

Since a study of mechanics is fundamental to the engineering curriculum, the department aims to train its students to think clearly, accurately and rapidly, and to develop within its undergraduates a systematic technique of problem analysis. This emphasis presents situations to the student similar to those he must face in industry, and prepares him in both theory and practice for the situation he must face in his chosen career.

Within the last year, laboratory demonstrations have been introduced enabling the student to better coordinate classroom theory and modern industrial practices. In addition, these demonstrations promote within the pupil a more thorough understanding of the nature of the materials he is studying.

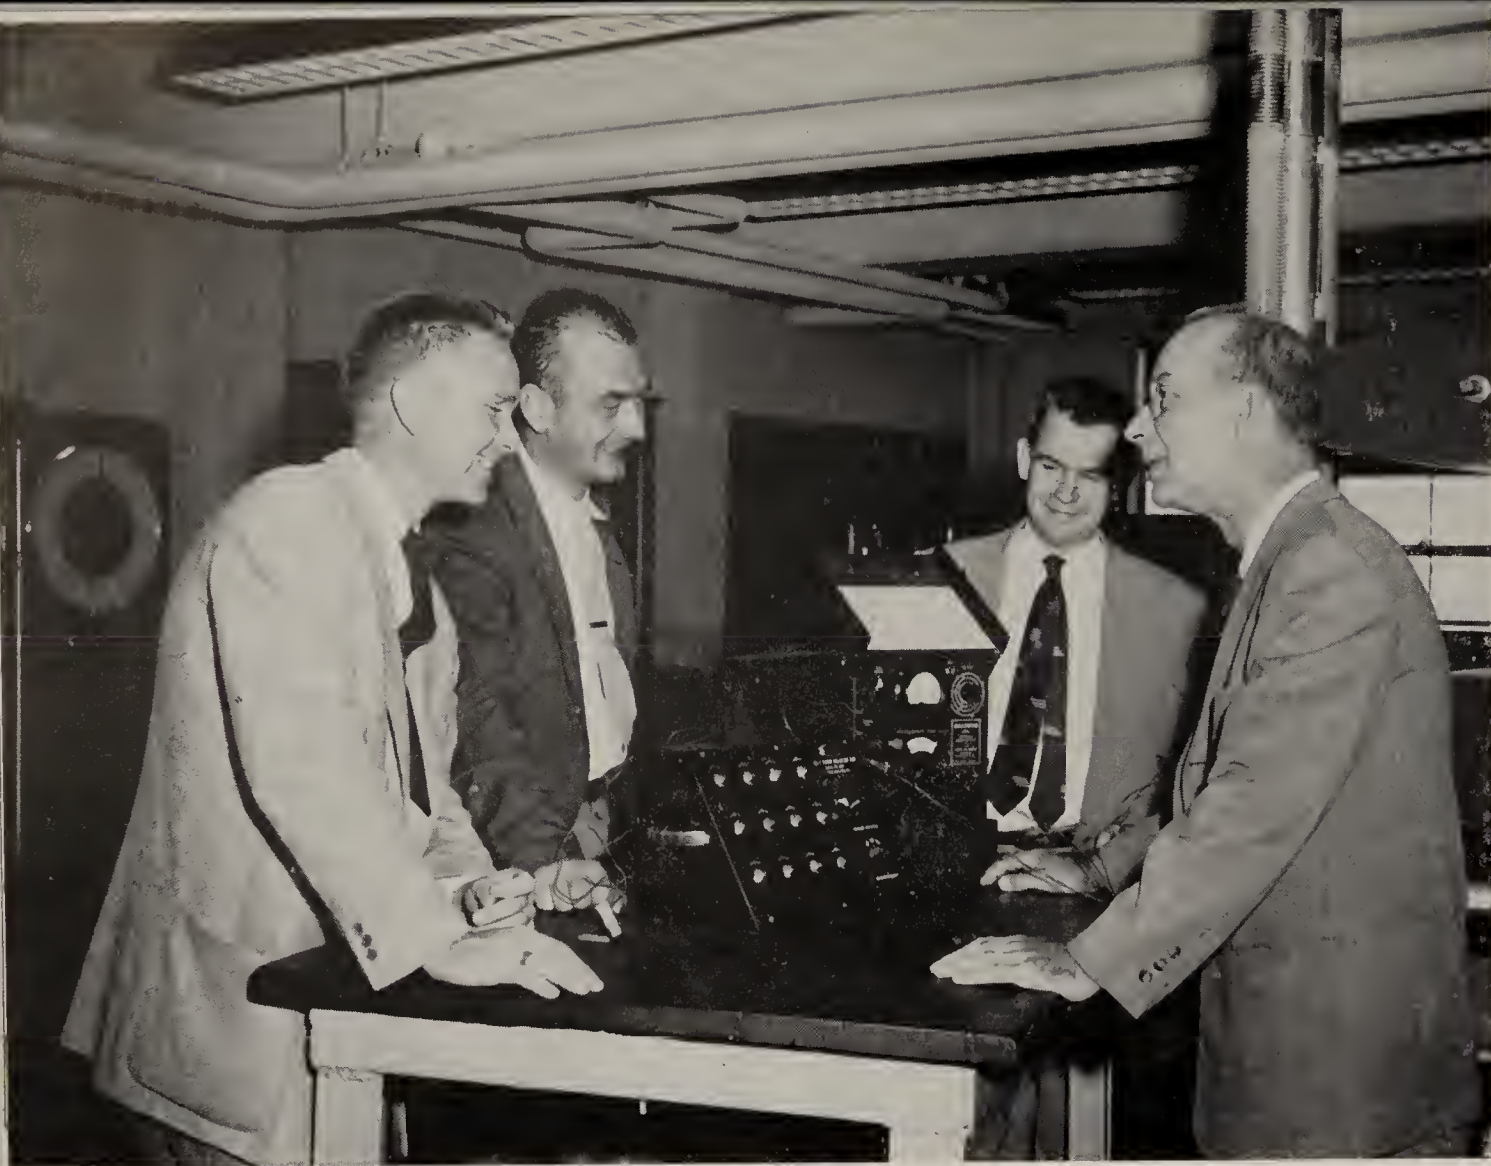

Ins. Tumeinski, Assoc. Prof. Jastrzebski and Prof. McMillen of the Chemical Engineering Department inspect a new dryer in their laboratory in the Alumni Hall of Engineering.

MECHANICS

The members of the Mechanics Department, Ferrante, McLean, Philipp (Standing in rear), Best, and Goodspeed are discussing the latest developments in their field.

A new instrument in the materials testing lab is of special interest to Brown, Schmid, Forss, DeMoyer, members of the Civil Engineering Department.

The interest shown recently in introducing basic liberal arts courses into the engineering curriculum is reflected by the civil engineering department's curriculum revision which will be completed in the fall of 1956. Some of the major innovations in the engineering studies will include surveying work on a full time basis during the summer and full use of the newly equipped engineering laboratories. Also newly instituted this year is a program providing for a limited amount of testing in fields designed specifically for industrial research and construction.

CIVIL ENGR.

Drawing implements in hand, Reese, Slantz, Hamilton, and Kerr, check an example of a student's effort in the office of the Graphic's Department atop Old Pardee.

GRAPHICS

The objective in graphics is not primarily to make draftsmen out of its students, but to enable these prospective engineers to understand the language and exact specifications of architectural and engineering blueprints. Though it may not always be necessary for some practicing engineers to draw these plans, as engineers, they nevertheless must be able to check their meaning and accuracy, and to use it to direct the activities of those who carry out the work specified.

The graphics course is intended to provide engineers with both a median for their exchange of ideas and information and a means of scientific presentations and rendering of theory into practicality.

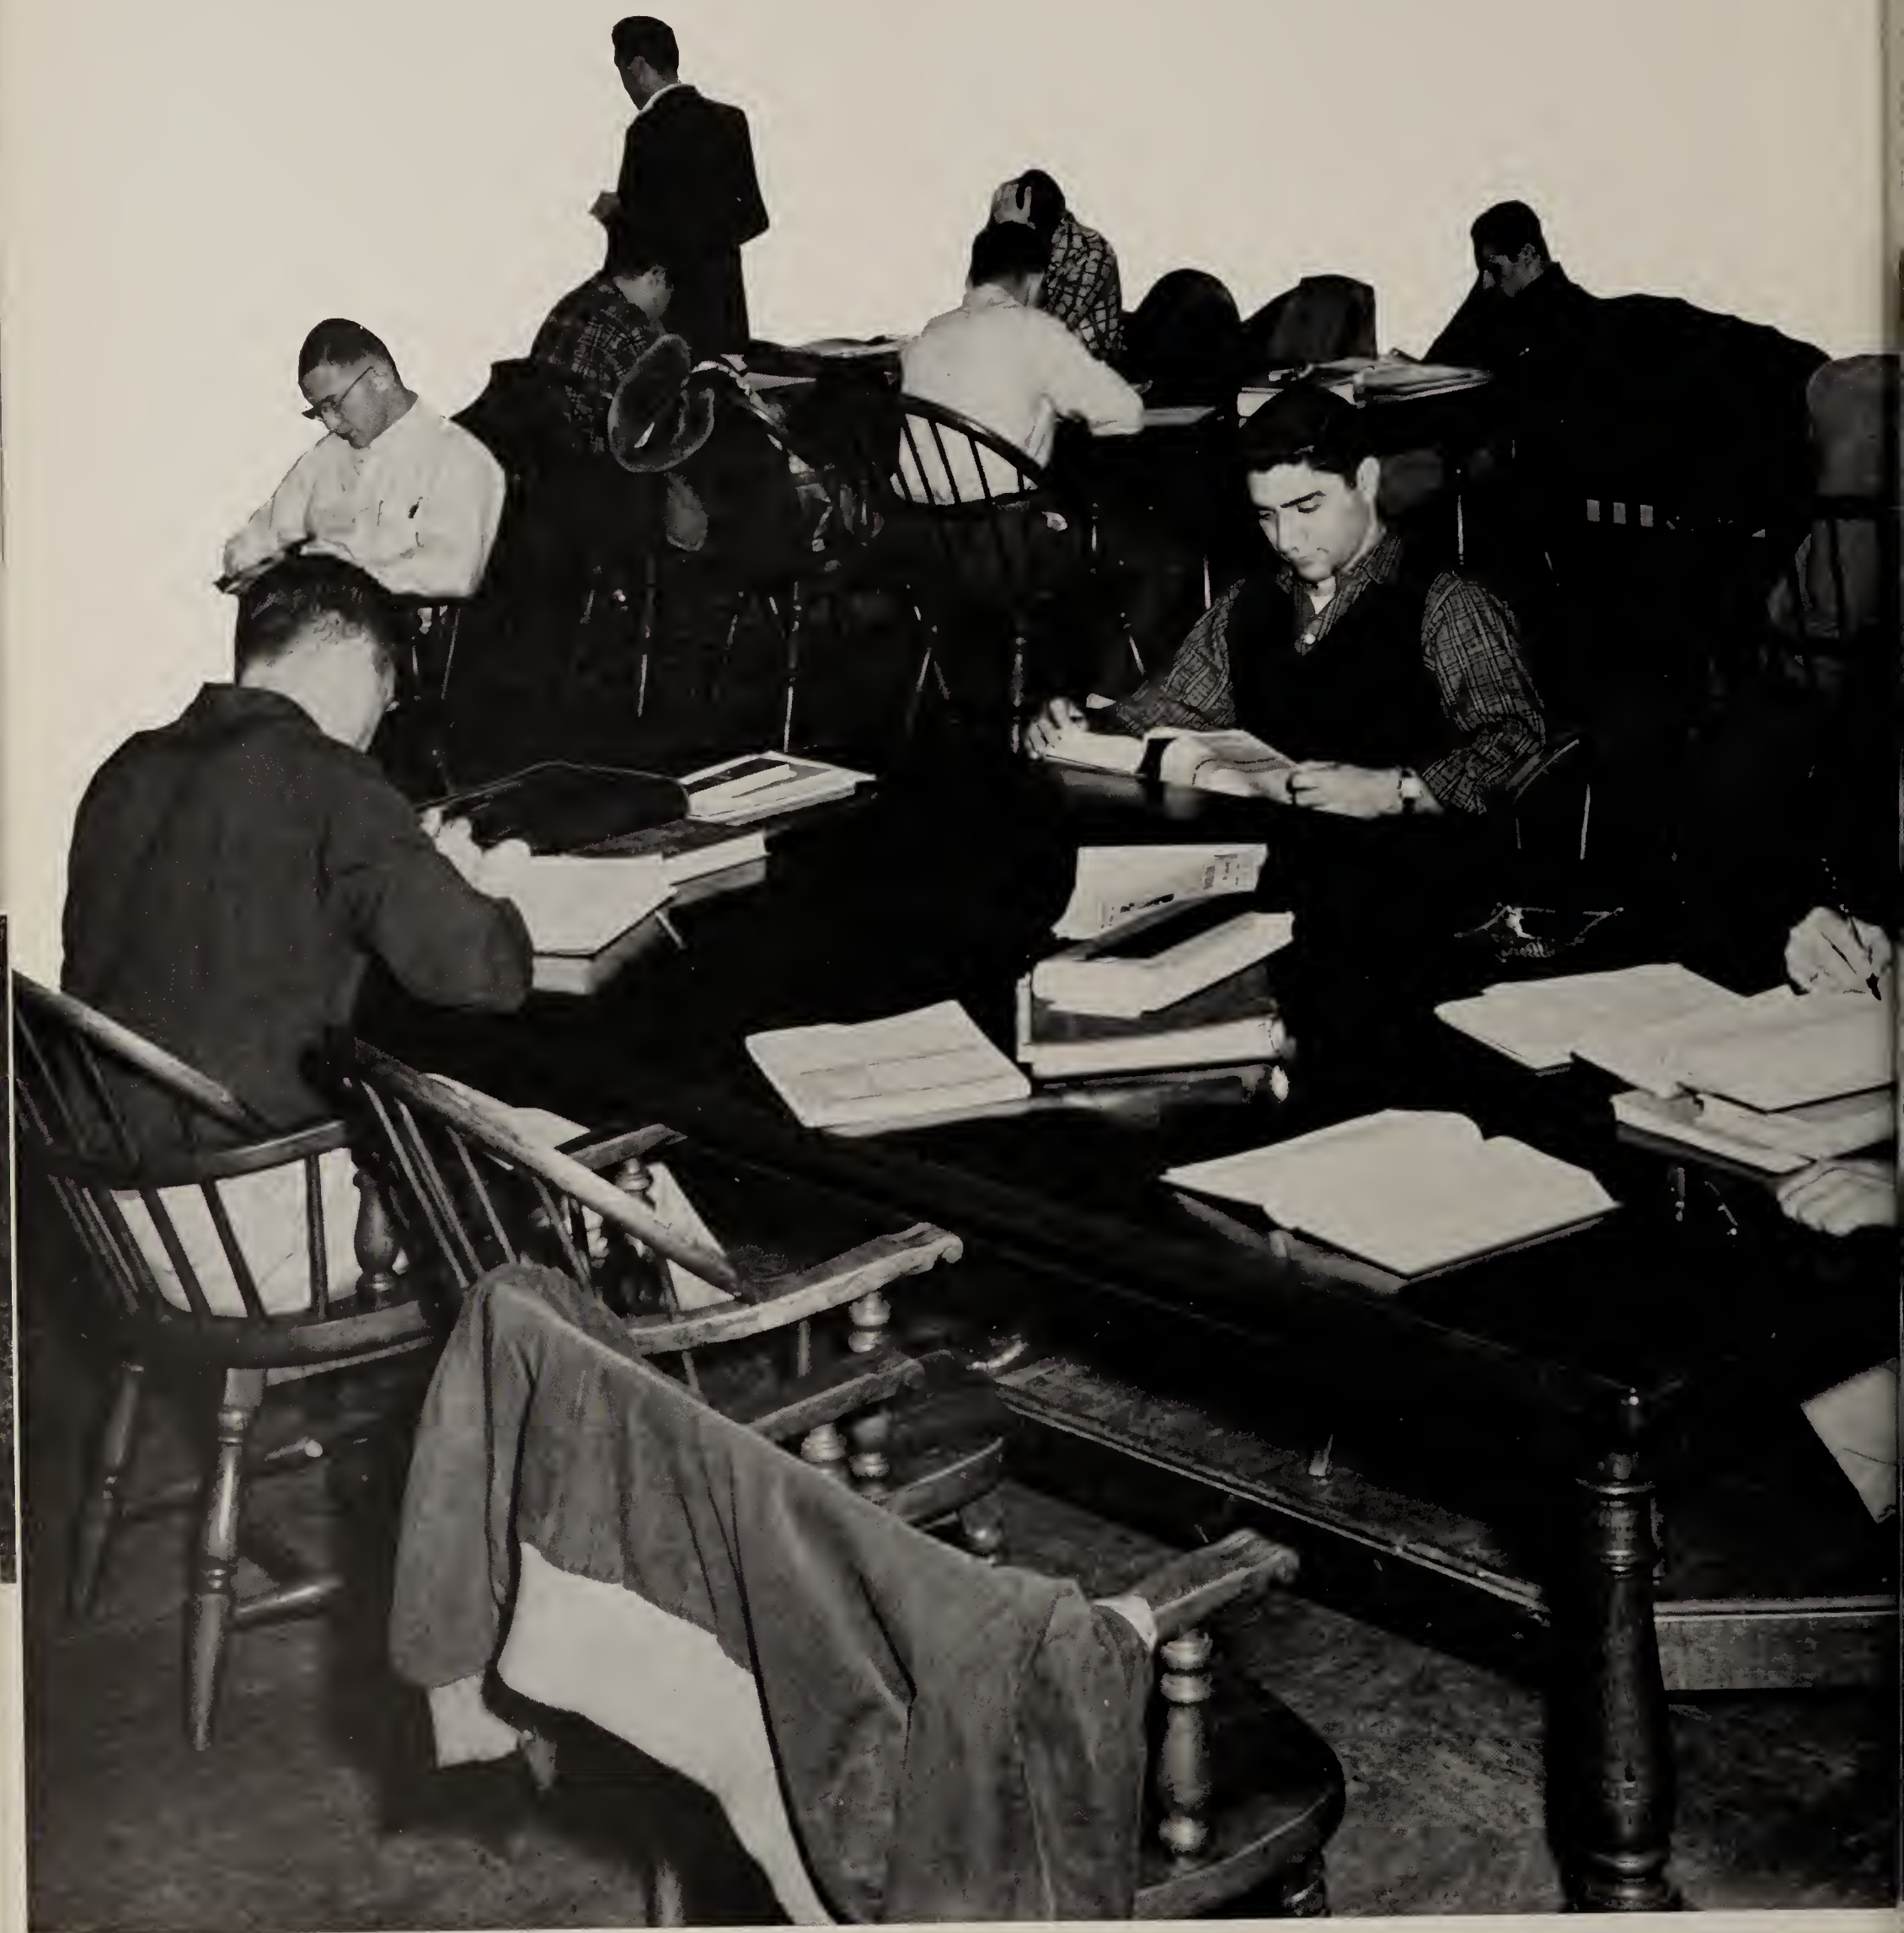

As the home of the Chemical Engineering department, Gayley Hall offers students an excellent opportunity to acquire skill and proficiency in the field of chemistry. Laboratories and lecture rooms provide the necessary facilities for students to achieve the required proficiency in the science.

Markle Hall is the home of the Mining and Metallurgical Engineering departments. With its outstanding research facilities and fully equipped laboratories, it offers students the opportunity to explore these two important fields of engineering.

Freshmen and Sophomore engineering students who frequent historic Pardee Hall receive instruction in the fundamentals of graphics and physics. Their basic knowledge of the courses will equip them mentally with the means to undertake further study in today's world of science.

Over and above the instruction provided in classrooms and conferences, a necessary part of our education has been supplied by a series of experiences to the practical application of our knowledge. A wide range and variety of clubs, organizations and societies provide a useful insight into the needs and necessities of our chosen professions, whether as future engineers, lawyers, teachers, or doctors, the unique facets of our future life are introduced to us through live contact with men well advanced in our particular field. Speakers from industry, from graduate schools and from the various professions abound at Lafayette filling over four years with a wealth of knowledge and information gleaned from their personal experience. Additional readings in the various libraries maintained by the college and the various departments and societies, supplement our textbook knowledge and class room experience, granting us the wealth of centuries literally at our fingertips. Part of our education indeed, is the skill which we acquire in adding to our own store of information. Literally, it is true that "we are a part of all that we have met," but it is also true that the ability to use this experience as a touchstone and mainspring to further knowledge is as much a part of education as the fact and figures acquired during our undergraduate years.

As Librarian, Mr. Harold Thompson sees to it that all the latest literature, both technical and light, is readily available to both students and faculty.

Built in 1899 and later enlarged in 1909 and 1939, the Van Wickle Memorial Library stands as the center of academic and cultural activity at Lafayette. Within its mellowed brick walls are contained books of "a carefully developed working library of literary, scholarly, and scientific works, designed to serve undergraduates and faculty and the general college constituency." The library is noted for its special collections, and for a particularly complete file of general periodicals and learned journals, many dating back to the 18th and 19th centuries. At the present moment, over 134,000 volumes are contained in the library, including many rare volumes in the Rare Book room. Other notable collections are the Stephen Crane Collection and the collection of The American Friends of Lafayette.

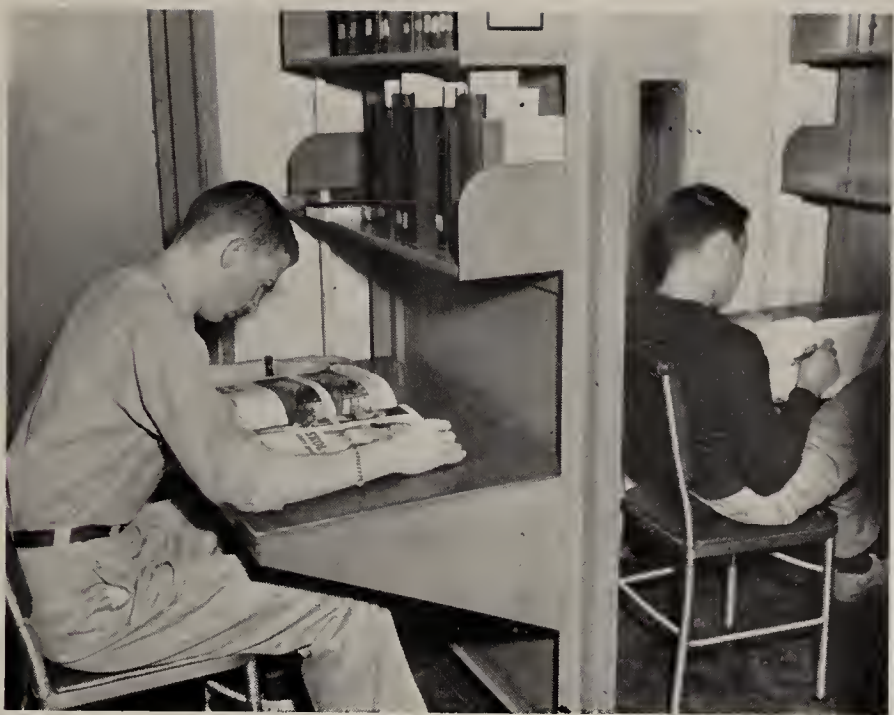

The ladies of the library, Miss Margaret H. Taylor, Mrs. Grace McCray and Mrs. Helen Cabeen keep watch over circulation and are ready at all times to help students gain more use and better understanding of the library.

VAN WICKLE LIBRARY

The library affords the diligent student a place in which to learn, to study, to think, and to find solace.

The cubicles serve as the perfect spot to relax or to study for that all important hour exam.

This year, for the first time, the library was operated on the "open stack" principle. Formerly, only students who were on Dean's List or who were reading for honors or other special projects were allowed access to the stacks. Now, however, under the direction of Librarian Harold Thompson, any undergraduate may enter the stacks to read, study, and select the books he wishes to borrow. Since this innovation, an increasingly large number of students are making use of the library's facilities; and an evening seldom passes when the rooms of Van Wickle are not brimming with students collecting data, doing research, studying, or just reading—for the fun of it.

The reference room in Van Wickle affords a wealth of knowledge for the student who has to do a research paper.

Term papers? The stacks hold wealths of knowledge which can be had if only the time is spent to seek it out.

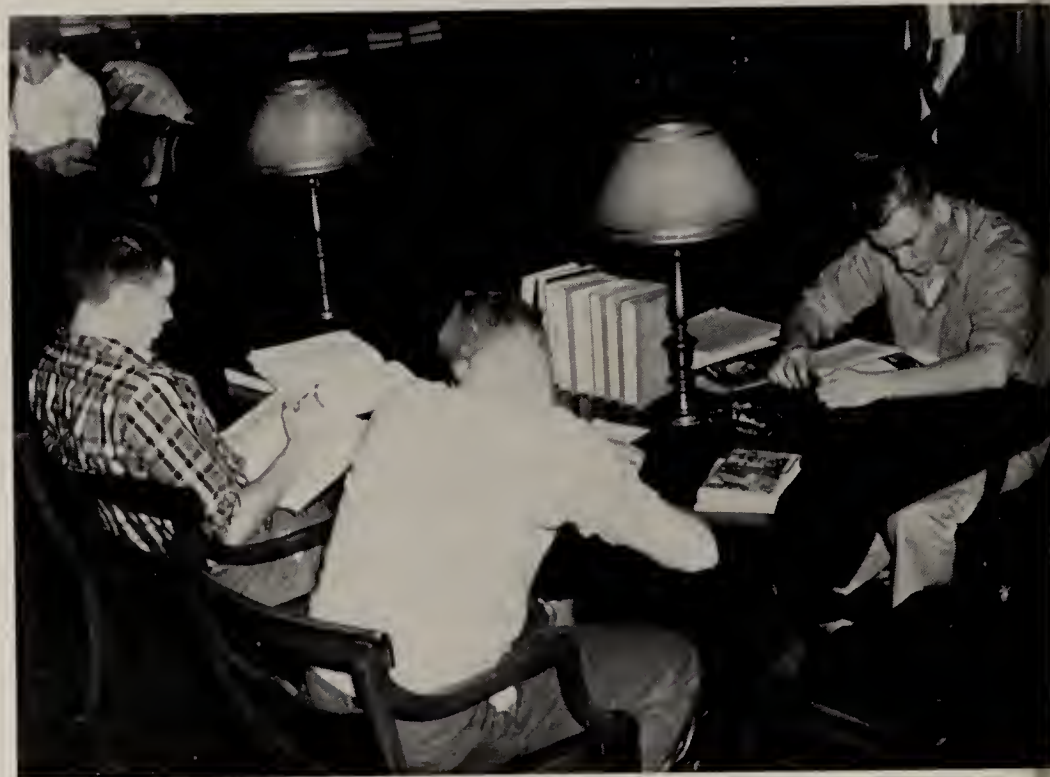

Mr. Sandman send us a dream. Make her the cutest prof we've ever seen. Give her two lips and plenty of money, teach her to say 100's and honey.

KIRBY LIBRARY

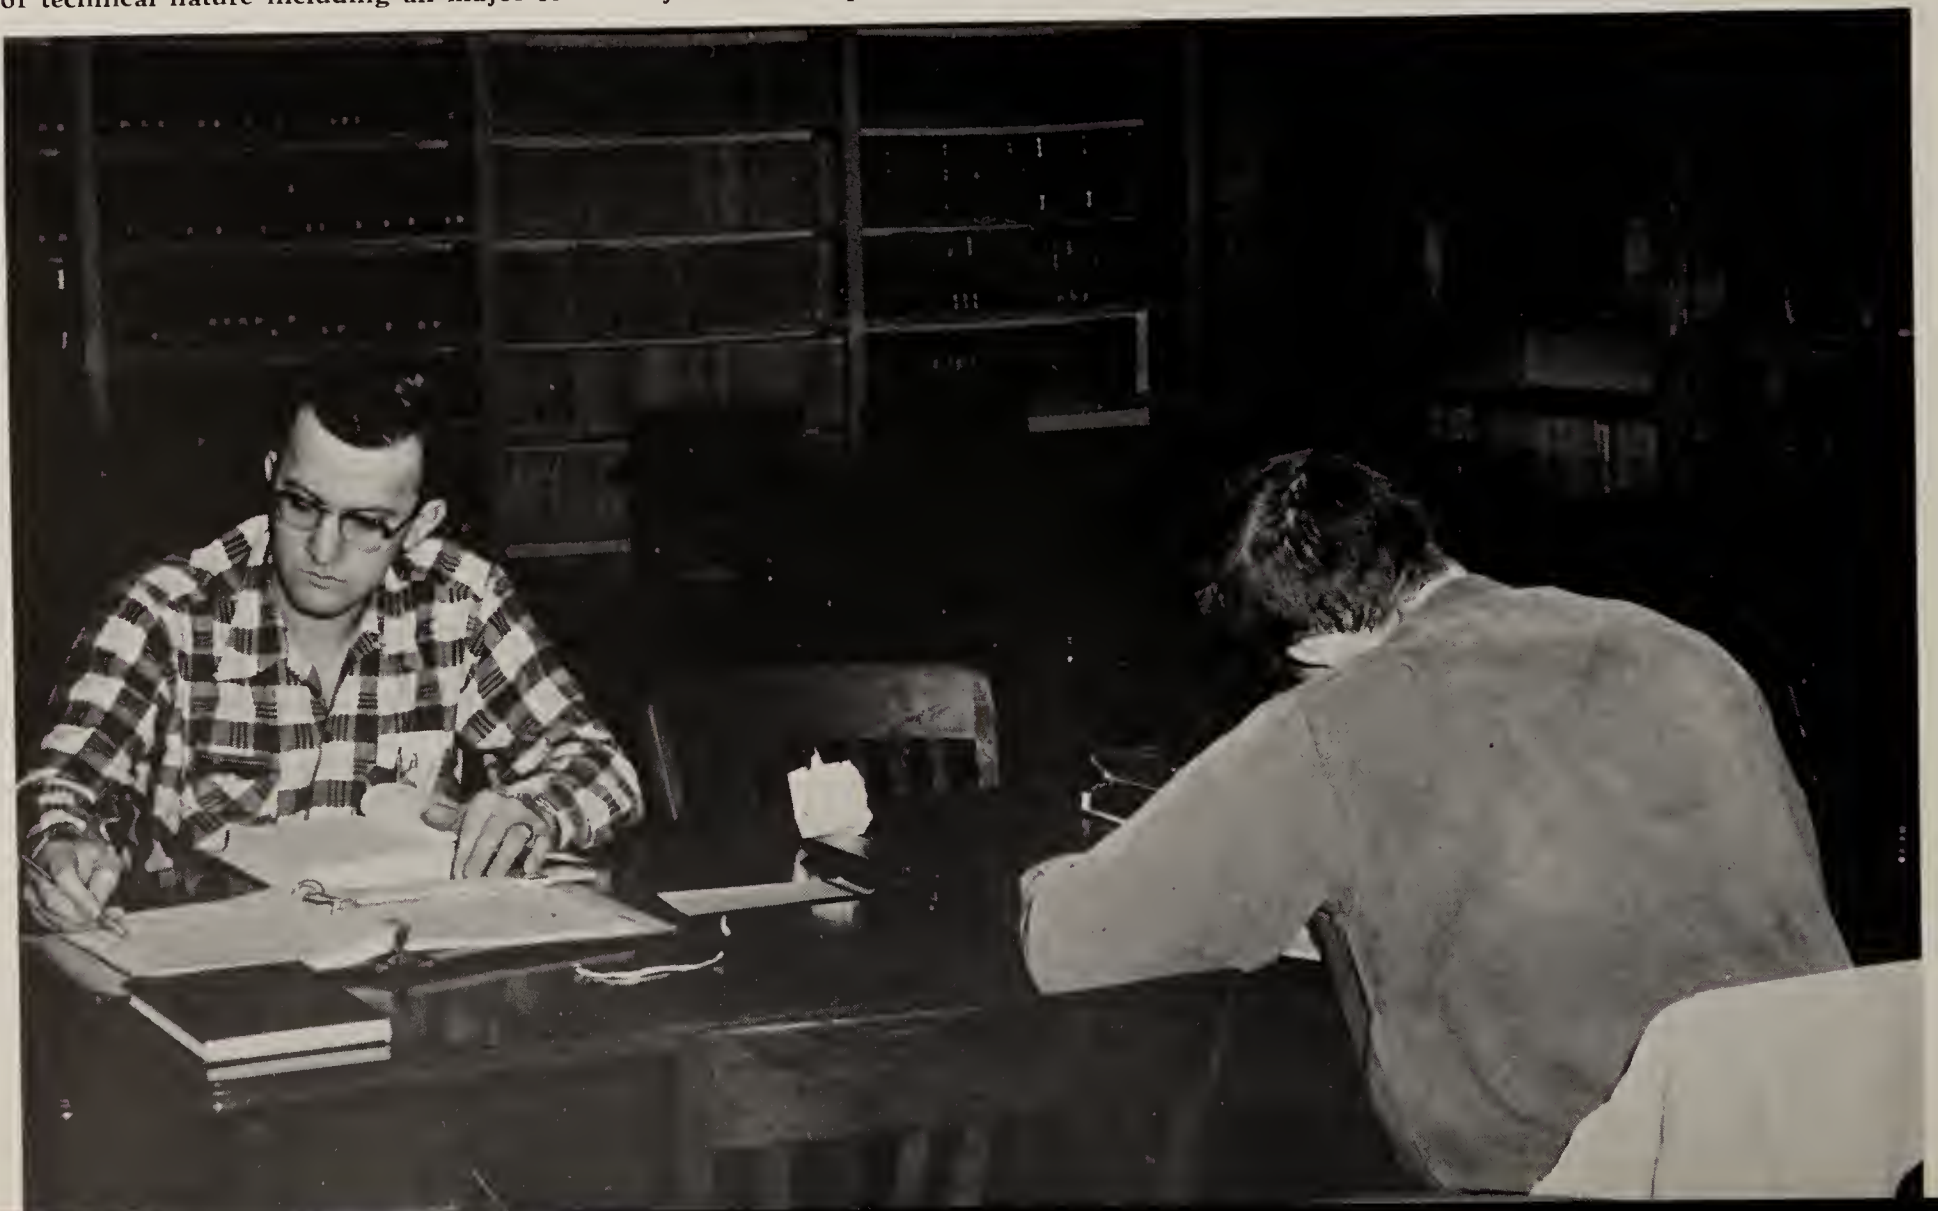

Thanks to a well equipped Kirby Library, government term papers no longer loom as large a problem as they once did.

"Oh, no ! more hour exams!" Kirby Library affords a place to alleviate that agonized cry.

PATTON LIBRARY

"Just the place to write that Physic's report," Patton Library in the Alumni Engineering Building provides our student body with literature of technical nature including all major scientific journals and periodicals.

PHI BETA KAPPA

Organized in 1776 at William and Mary College, Phi Beta Kappa has long stood at the head of honorary liberal arts fraternities in America. It is the purpose of the society to recognize superior accomplishment in the academic world by electing to membership each year, a selected number of undergraduates of high scholarship. Men of either the junior or senior classes are eligible for membership in Phi Beta Kappa if they have maintained a high scholastic record for at least five semesters or more, and have shown themselves to be men of unquestioned academic attainment while in college.

Phi Beta Kappa was first established as a secret fraternity, in much the same manner as other fraternal societies and in this respect it holds the distinction of being the first such fraternity organized in the United States. In its meetings, a literary program and atmosphere was emphasized, as essays were read, orations delivered, and subjects for discussion debated. In addition, all of the essential characteristics of Greek-letter fraternities were adopted and maintained, including an elaborate ritual, a secret grip, the spirit of fraternity and a requirement for regular attendance. Gradually, however, as the fraternity expanded and other chapters were founded in the East (Lafayette receiving its chapter in 1890), the society became an honorary one, maintaining its original objectives of morality, fraternity, and literature, and its interest in culture and liberal education.

KIRBY GOVERNMENT AND LAW SOCIETY

Among the various social and political groups which hold their meetings within the imposing marble of Kirby Hall, is the Kirby Government and Law Society. The Society, composed mainly of pre-law students and government and history majors, aspires to "a study of political science in order to foster a closer relationship between established legal principles and the theory and practices of government." The Kirby Society, which boasts a large and enthusiastic membership, is noted for the outstanding speakers it regularly presents, and the interest of the topics and lectures presented. Senators, and Congressmen (on both the local and national level), have spoken of the fields of politics and administration; while businessmen from the world of industry and economics; lawyers from the legal world; and deans and professors of graduate schools provide much valuable information for the potential lawyers regarding admission procedures to law schools and other areas of higher learning.

PHI ALPHA THETA

For budding historians, Phi Alpha Theta stands as a haven for kindred souls. Recognizing outstanding scholarship and an interest in history, this national honorary society serves as a forum to stimulate new ideas and approaches to the study of an earlier day. One of 115 national chapters, Phi Alpha Theta's Lafayette chapter maintains in its monthly meetings, the spirit of scholarship and good fellowship.

PHILOSOPHY CLUB

Following the tradition of Aristotle and other great teachers of men, the Philosophy Club attempts, through its discussions and forums, to aid and promote the academic achievement of its members. In its meetings, which are open to all interested students, the questions and problems which have beset men for centuries are aired before a new generation of incipient philosophers.

DeSpirito, Hudson, Escala, Morrow, Wilson (president), and Kent, members of the philosophy club discuss the theories of Socrates, Aristotle and Plato.

I.R.A.

The Investments Research Association, Skillman, Wardell, Fedor, Andrews, Mergott, Dannehower, Hogue, Smith, Dunne, Prof. Tarbell, Seibert, and Stelling, meet bi-weekly to discuss trends in investments and finance.

Active in the Model General Assembly and Model Security Council of the United Nations, and associated with the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, Lafayette's International Relations Society provides an opportunity for a practical study of foreign affairs.

Their meetings are highlighted by addresses from guest speakers, while well led discussions and debates after the lectures, aid the members in achieving a closer understanding of the forces and events that shape the world's history today.

First Row: Morrow, Hudson, Bennett, Wilson, DeSpirito, and Andrews. Second Row: Keyser, Shaddock, Murphy, R. Smith, H. Smith, F. Smith, and E. Smith. Third Row: Kuder, Garbee, H. I.C.G.

The field of working politics is often a restricted one for the undergraduate; but in the Intercollegiate Conference on Government, students are given an opportunity to participate on a college level, in the workings of government. At the annual Harrisburg convention of all Pennsylvania I.C.G. clubs, the interested student can put his textbooks to work in the practical give and take of the political arena.

SCABBARD and BLADE

The Scabbard and Blade Society, a national organization, adds a necessary element of esprit de corps to the R.O.T.C. program at Lafayette. Administering as it does to the prospective officers social life as well, its sponsorship of the annual Military Ball is an important adjunct to the societies fundamental purpose: the instillation in its members of a spirit of leadership and bearing becoming an officer of the United States Army.

KAPPA PHI KAPPA

Although the subject of education may seem a dry one to some people, the men of Kappa Phi Kappa find it a topic of absorbing interest. Through the facilities of this educational fraternity, present and future educators are able to meet on a common level of interest to discuss the problems of education, and to gain an insight into the difficulties that beset it.

SPANISH CLUB

Founded but a scant two years ago, Lafayette's Spanish Club has nevertheless succeeded in establishing itself as a practical functioning organization. Supplementing the college language course, the club provides its members with the opportunity to hear and enjoy the Spanish language. Guest speakers, movies, and music of Latin America brighten the meetings while students present short reports on topics of interest to the group.

Ehrlich, V.P.; Voyagis, Pres.; and Yerger, Sec., together with Dr. Hunt make up the muscles of the pre-professional society.

Lafayette's Pre-Professional Society is designed to provide guidance and instruction to future medical, dental, and veterinarial students. Under the guidance of its faculty advisor Dr. Willis R. Hunt, the society aids the students in designing and planning their curriculum so as to provide them with the most feasible background for their later course of study. Guest speakers at the society's meetings provide the members with the latest information and development in medical practices and research, thus enabling him to become more familiar with both practical and theoretical medicine, while at the same time it provides him with the latest information regarding entrance and admission requirements to the nation's medical graduate schools. Informal discussion following the meetings gave a forum for the transference and dissemination of information.

The success of the society in placing its members in the graduate schools of their choice is in large measure due to the influence of Dr. Hunt and the Society's able direction of its undergraduate members while at Lafayette.

Rare books and yellowed documents serve to keep the attention of sitting: Andrews, Abdu, and Knickerbocker; standing: Schleikorn, Mr. Thompson, Schildkret, Wilson, Ladewig, and Wheeler, all members of the Stephen Crane Society.

STEPHEN CRANE

Founded in 1952, the Stephen Crane Society is the youngest of Lafayette's honorary societies. It is the purpose of the Society to recognize outstanding scholarships and interest in the fields of English, writing, and literary pursuits. Membership is limited to those undergraduates with an average of 80 or better and who, in the opinion of the Society, have in their work and activities, made a definite contribution to Lafayette. The Society holds bi-weekly seminars and undertakes to promote a general interest in the campus libraries and their collections.

PSYCHOLOGY CLUB

Working closely with the Psychology Department, the popular Psychology Club promotes the investigation of man in relation to the world around him, and seeks to aid the interested student in psychological study and research. Noted guest speakers bring news and information to the club's monthly meetings, and the organization sponsors many field trips to neighboring colleges for group meetings with other such clubs; investigating psychology in action at local hospitals and institutions for the benefit of its members.

The Psychology Club, Standing: Johnson, Piper, Sandford, and Wyckoff; Sitting: Mack, Thomas, Lemen, and Millili meet weekly to present and discuss interesting aspects of one of our youngest sciences, psychology.

Tau Beta Pi, Standing: Slantz, Wild, Fellin, and Herring; Sitting: Diell, Goldberg, Burcak, Gehman, Layden, Shinal, and Shotwell, is the honorary engineering fraternity which recognizes scholarship and campus participation among the engineers.

TAU BETA PI

Tau Beta Pi is the highest engineering society an engineer may aspire to at Lafayette. Founded at Lehigh University in 1885, the society today has a membership of seventy thousand students in some ninety active chapters in the country's leading schools of engineering. Membership in Tau Beta Pi is limited to those in the engineering curriculum who have attained high scholastic averages and who have proven campus leadership ability by their participation in college activities. Membership may be offered to graduates of engineering colleges where there is no chapter, providing the recipient has fulfilled the regular eligibility requirement as a student. Membership may also be offered to other outstanding engineers who have shown a decided interest in engineering education.

The purpose of Tau Beta Pi, as set forth in its constitution, is "To mark in a fitting manner those who have conferred honor upon their Alma Mater by distinguished scholarship and exemplary character in the field of engineering, and to foster a spirit of liberal culture in the engineering colleges of America." To be accepted as a member of Tau Beta Pi, a candidate must pass a four-hour exam, know the Constitution and By-Laws of the society and write an acceptable theme on some phase of engineering.

A group of physicists, seated: Boettler, Howard, and Layden; standing: Oliver, Koffsky, Kuljian, and Jones get together weekly to discuss the topics of interest in the world of physics today.

PHYSICS CLUB

In order to foster interest in the fields of physics and associated sciences, the American Institute of Physics established a student chapter at Lafayette in 1947. Since then, the Physics Club has strived to further the study of Physics through a program of guest speakers, who inform the club members on the latest developments in this field. During the academic year, club members go on field trips to research laboratories and other installations and industries of interest to undergraduates with an eye to physics and the Atomic Age.

GEOLOGY CLUB

An extremely popular society on the Lafayette campus, the Geology Club (formerly, the Student Geological Society of Lafayette College) has attracted many members from both inside and outside of the department who are interested in the study of the earth and its history. The regular monthly meetings feature noted films and notable personalities in the field of the geological sciences; and through such extra-curricular activities as seminars and field trips, the members are able to gain a new perspective on the subject of geology and its vital importance in the world of today.

Looking in at Markle Hall we find Prof. Beerbower surrounded by Erb, Bing, Anderson, Russell, Wollard, Drummey, Platt, Rhodes, Luman, and Schoen of the Geology Club.

A.S.C.E.

One of the chief values of membership in the various engineer societies is the contacts its members are able to make with men in their prospective field of endeavor. The undergraduate chapters of the American Society of Civil Engineers are no exception, and the A.S.C.E. branch at Lafayette is particularly conscious of its function, providing the beginnings of professional associations and contacts with the technical and professional leaders in the engineering field who are responsible for such progress.

In the A.S.C.E.'s regular meetings, technical and professional problems are aired by visiting speakers often supplemented by the lecturers with interesting slides and movies. Moreover, constructive activities such as discussing contemporary problems in specific fields of engineering, presenting and discussing papers and reports, and attending demonstrations and field trips to local points of engineering interest also help to round out the student's academic life and supplement his work in the classroom and the laboratory. Membership in A.S.C.E. is not entirely of a business nature, however, since the society is well aware of the value of social activities and maintains an extensive social program, featuring smokers, dances, and picnics as part of its chapter activities. Through the A.S.C.E., the achievements of the society are related to the development of the student.

The Lafayette College Chapter of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers is composed of students enrolled in the electrical engineering program and in other related fields who are anxious to gain knowledge and experience of the various facets of an engineering career. These men find in the A.I.E.E. a spirit of fellowship and good will, and a kindred interest in broadening their acquaintances with the practical sides of electrical engineering.

The Lafayette Chapter of A.I.E.E. was organized in 1920 and joined with the Institute of Radio Engineers in 1949 to become a joint branch of the A.I.E.E. and the I.R.E. Thus, within the confines of the society are a wide number of varied interests, from the pure theoretical study to the very practical applications required to operate a "ham" radio station. As part of an attempt to provide practical experience in the various fields of electrical engineering, the A.I.E.E. regularly sponsors informative lectures by men in the electrical field, and a program of selected films are scheduled to illustrate graphically the different facets of the study involved. The individual society member is not neglected when it comes to discussion and reading of papers, for participation by the members in presenting independent research problems and new ideas is an integral part of the function of the society.

A.I.E.E.

A.S.M.E.

Composed of both mechanical and administrative engineering students, the Lafayette Chapter of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers strives to present a well rounded program of activities, both professional and social to the individual interested in making this field of engineering his career. The main objective of the society is to make the subject of engineering in general, take on a new light of interest and to broaden the student's acquaintances with the more practical sides of mechanical and administrative engineering. Through contact with graduates, executives, and representatives of engineering and industry the purpose and place of the various fields of engineering are brought home to the undergraduate via the presentation of reports and speeches, and in general discussions often highlighted by practical examples from the workaday world.

As is the case with the other engineering societies here at Lafayette, field trips and other outside activities play an important part in adding a new dimension to the work of the actual engineering courses themselves; and the activities of the A.S.M.E. are no exception. Local and regional visits to plants and factories makes principles and textbook theories come alive; and frequent get-togethers of a more social nature enliven the proceedings and make the regular meetings of the A.S.M.E. very pleasant ones indeed.

A.I.C.H.E.

Lafayette College has the honor of being the first college in the country to become associated with the American Chemical Society when, in 1937, such an affiliation was authorized by the national organization. Since then, the Lafayette branch of A.C.S. has stimulated the development of the professional side of the chemical student's life, developing in the undergraduate a professional pride in the industry. Believing this to be a necessary ingredient in a successful chemical career. The society supplements the work of the student in the classroom.

Education, and the liberal arts; atomic energy, chemical engineering economics, instrumentation, distillation, processing, synthetics—the list of interests of the Lafayette branch of the American Society of Chemical Engineers goes on and on. Chemical engineering is a course distinct from the department of chemistry and since 1940, when their petition was approved, undergraduate chemical engineers have had the opportunity to affiliate themselves with the parent body. Through its sponsorship of outside speakers, field trips and general discussion on the many points of chemistry and engineering, the society aids the interested undergraduate.

JOHN MARKLE SOCIETY

Housed in the spacious facilities of Markle Hall, the John Markle Mining, Metallurgical and Geological Society has, since 1921 enjoyed an undergraduate affiliation with the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. The society is named for Mr. Markle, class of 1880, who was one of the most renowned graduates of mining engineering from Lafayette College, and who furnished the college with Markle Hall and an endowment fund for the department.

The purpose of the Markle Society is "to promote among its members an increased knowledge of the mining, metallurgical, and geological sciences, to instill a professional pride in the life work its members have chosen and to establish a closer contact between the students of the department and the instructors." In order to fulfill these aims, the society meets regularly to discuss contemporary problems and questions in these three fields; augmenting its program of student and faculty discussions with guest speakers from the various fields. Because few activities are more interesting to the engineer than investigations in the field, be they of a geologic, or an industrial nature, the society frequently sponsors and promotes such outings. This extensive practical program coupled with frequent social activities and a general program furnishing information and aid to the undergraduate, aids the society in maintaining and encouraging the interest of the student in his chosen field.

Autumn shadows lengthen, leaves fall, and the sun sinks as we end our daily classroom schedule.

Perhaps more than anything else, our arrival at college signifies an entry into an entirely new experience in life. Faced with this unique, indeed almost frightening change, the freshman is confronted with the necessary and difficult choice of selecting his friends and associates for his college years. Fraternities, social dormitories and other college sponsored groups provide a wide selection of associates where the freshman can find a congenial atmosphere with men of like interest. The great freedom enjoyed by the undergraduate in his day to day living offer him the best opportunity to develop himself to the greatest degree possible. A large intramural program, our external student governing organizations, along with a full schedule of special events insure the Lafayette student a life of wide and varied experiences. Indeed, because of the wide variety of opportunities and events which make up our life at Lafayette, our four years seem to be spent in a world apart from anything too beautiful to encounter. Shaped by our intimate contacts with faculty, students and administration, we emerge from Lafayette with new ideas, experiences, and concepts, excellently equipped to encounter another life where the rich experiences of college will bear their fullest fruit.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

Don Van Arsdale, president of I.F.C. saw a revision of rushing policy and better inter-fraternity relations become a reality.

Although most students think of the Inter-Fraternity Council as the organization which sponsors the I-F dance-weekends, few realize that this group, composed of the 19 fraternities' presidents, deals with all fraternity problems from Rushing Plans to the gathering of funds for the care of a foster child in Korea. Its responsibilities include the drawing-up of the annual Rushing Agreements and Greek Week Regulations, both of which are made in cooperation with the Fraternity Council.

The Council also sponsors community projects aiming at the improvement of college and community relations, deriving its finance for the most part from profits from the two school social weekends.

FRATERNITY COUNCIL

The Fraternity Council serves as a link between the Administration, the faculty, and the fraternities. Consisting of President Hutchison, the deans and other faculty members, it also includes all nineteen fraternity presidents and various alumni representatives. Most of the proposals made by the fraternities at the I.F.C. are presented to the administration through this organization, at which time the faculty can add or suggest remedies or improvements to the proposal and bring it up to the administration. Such plans as Rushing and Help Week are brought before the F.C. Virtually all plans affecting the student body and their life here at Lafayette pass through the F.C. where the views of men from all phases of campus life are exposed.

Among the organization's other duties, is their annual award of a trophy to that fraternity which shows the greatest scholastic improvement for the past academic year.

Sam Jackson, president of the Fraternity Council, checks over the new rushing agreement for next year.

ALPHA CHI RHO

In 1894, the Reverend Paul Ziegler, a graduate of Trinity College in Hartford, Connecticut, proposed plans for a new Greek letter fraternity to his son and a former pupil. As a result of their endeavors, the first formal meeting of Alpha Chi Rho was held in June of 1895 and in 1903 Phi Alpha Chapter was given a charter on the Lafayette campus. Inactive during the war, the chapter reorganized in 1947 and at present the active chapters throughout the country total eighteen.

Last fall, the "Crows" gave what they judged to be their biggest and most successful party of this or any previous years and the fraternity is looking forward to more of the same. But amidst the pleasure of successful social events can be found somberness as the result of one of the worst accidents in this college's history. After visiting the "Crow" chapter at Lehigh, one pledge was killed and another paralyzed for life in a diastrous auto accident. The members of Phi Alpha Chapter pay written tribute to John Sutherland and remind Jerry Dunham of their deep sorrow over his misfortune.

This year Phi Alpha Chapter continued to follow through on a rebuilding and redecorating program started last year by installing improved recreation facilities in the cellar of their house.

CHI PHI

The Chi Phi Fraternity, as it exists today, is the outgrowth of three older organizations, each of which bore the name Chi Phi. These were Chi Phi Society, founded at Princeton University in 1824, the Chi Phi Fraternity, established at the University of North Carolina in 1858, and the Secret Order of Chi Phi, founded at Hobart College in 1860. These organizations united to form Chi Phi Fraternity in 1874.

The Rho Chapter of Chi Phi was founded here at Lafayette in 1868 by Walter M. L. Ziegler, although the present chapter house was not completed until 1910.

The house, "Vallemont," was put to active duty during both world wars. A bronze plaque in the billiard room testifies that 97 brothers participated in the first World War and four of these gave their lives.

Reorganized and redecorated after the war by returning brothers, Chi Phi Chapter has become one of the most popular on the campus. Evidence of this fact is the acceptance of some 28 pledges and three social members, to swell this year's ranks of brothers; at the present moment Rho has 40 brothers, several of whom are married. The house is owned by the Rho Chapter Association and the day-to-day details are handled by the Town House Committee.

Chi Phi's officers inspect the premises to find some profitable work for the pledges. In the front row are: Hampton, Sec.; VanArsdale, Pres.; Lermond, Sgt. at Arms; while in the back are: Gaccione, Historian; Ritchie, V.P.; Mudge, Treas.

Phelps points the finger of suspicion at Murphy while Larson and Richmond survey their hands. Looking on are "Dekes" Bing, Drummey, Schaible and Voltz.

DELTA KAPPA EPSILON

Rho chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon came to Lafayette in 1855, a mere eleven years after the inauguration of the national fraternity. The oldest fraternity at our college, the Dekes are embarking on their second century of their existence with a renewed vigor.

This past summer the brothers made improvements on the house, but as the fall semester began the most notable addition to the chapter house was a fine hi-fidelity sound system. Now, at the Deke house the traditional habit of gathering around the piano for a round of song is giving way to the more modern turning of an amplifier dial. The house spirit lives on, however, and the Deke is still recognized by his careful spirit and his adeptness at the various phases of college life. Dekes are found active in all major campus activities and Deke teams participate extensively in the intramural athletic program.

This year the breaking of ground next to the fraternity house was faced by the Dekes with mixed emotion, but as construction on the science building progresses, it is evident that the campus adjacent to "the house with the red light" is becoming more beautiful than ever before.

DELTA TAU DELTA

Based upon the belief that the elements of a successful life are to be found in the union of a refined social character, a wise choice of confidential friends, a system of irreproachable honor and perpetual fidelity to our country in the furtherance of higher education and a thorough discipline of the mind, Delta Tau Delta was founded.

Founded in 1858 at Bethany, Virginia, the fraternity of Delta Tau Delta had originally established its Nu Chapter at Lafayette in 1874, and was re-established in 1906 after a brief period of inactivity; the Delts will celebrate the Fiftieth Anniversary of its re-establishment at Lafayette on April 7, 1956.

Nu's "Shelter" was built by their active Alumni in 1915 and has been kept in excellent condition by the continued interest of the latter undergraduates who followed. A new heating plant, new rugs and an extensive interior painting project have been some of their most recent improvements, while a new coat of paint has been added to the exterior of the house as the final step in the Delt's complete renovation program.

Nu's active participation in intramural athletics, college organizations and other phases of campus life are indicative of its position here at Lafayette.

DELTA UPSILON

Delta Upsilon Fraternity is one of the oldest fraternities on the Lafayette campus, its local founding date having been recorded in 1866. Existing as an independent organization for some years, in May of 1885 the local fraternity became a chapter of Delta Upsilon. This national fraternity was initiated in 1834 at Williams College, and in the 122 years since its founding it has spread to include seventy chapters throughout the United States and Canada. Delta Upsilon was organized in protest of the secrecy of other fraternities and of the segregation clauses found in their charters. The purposes of DU are the promotion of friendship, the advancement of justice, the development of character, and the diffusion of liberal culture. Since its original founding, the men of Delta Upsilon have strived to follow these purposes, and in so doing, have raised this non-secret organization to a prominent position among national Greek letter fraternities.

DU's role on the Lafayette campus has been in keeping with this national prominence. The brothers of the Lafayette chapter have consistently maintained a well balanced organization, which has been outstanding in every phase of college life. In scholastics the DU's are third on the campus with an overall average well above the all college mark, while in athletics Delta Upsilon's men also have been highly successful.

KAPPA DELTA RHO

Chartered at Lafayette College February 11, 1918, Rho Chapter of Kappa Delta Rho fraternity swelled its ranks when in 1931 it incorporated the Tarms, a local fraternity, into its membership. Having as its ideals the promotion of good fellowship and the advancement of truth, justice and virtue, the men of KDR claim for their motto "Honor over all," and have taken it as their special charge.

Claiming over 400 living alumni, Rho Chapter points with pride to such men as Ralph K. Gottshall, B.S. '27, trustee of the college and president of Atlas Powder Company; Robert B. Thompson, A.B. '24, executive vice-president of the Hamilton Watch Company; and Donald B. Prentice, M.E., Sc.D., LL.D., Eng.D., Honorary, trustee of the college and past president of Rose Polytechnic Institute.

Among KDR's present members on the faculty and administration are Prof. Dyson, geology; Prof. McLean, mechanics; Mr. Kogler, psychology; Dean of Faculty Crosen, former national president of the fraternity; and Mr. Closs and Mr. Fouke, admissions office.

Rho's position on the campus has always been a prominent one in both scholarship and extra-curricular activities because of its energetic and enthusiastic membership.

KAPPA SIGMA

Kappa Sigma Fraternity was founded December 10, 1869 at the University of Virginia, by William Grigsby McCormick, Frank Courtney Nicodemus, Edmund Law Rogers, George Miles Arnold, and John Covert Boyd. Their purpose in founding the fraternity was, "To enjoy and increase the pleasures which may only be obtained by the intercourse of congenial spirits." Kappa Sigma has a total of 126 chapters distributed all over the United States and Canada.

Here at Lafayette, Delta Beta Chapter was founded May 5, 1921, and the original chapter house was located on Sullivan Lane. Deactivated during the war, Delta Beta was formally reactivated February 10, 1948 and the present chapter house on East Campus was opened.

Annually, a prize of $75 is given to the "Ideal Pledge." This year during "Help Week," the pledges and brothers collaborated to redecorate the Living room and T.V. room. Future plans for the house include a redecoration of the kitchen.

In the realm of social activity, the fraternity has planned several noteworthy events. February 18, the annual Initiation Dinner Dance was held. March 2, 3, and 4 the Delta Beta plays host to the District conclave of Kappa Sigma. Chapters from Bucknell, Lehigh, Dickinson, Franklin and Marshall, Swarthmore and Pennsylvania sent representatives who met in various conferences to discuss the achievements and also problems encountered in running a fraternity.

PHI DELTA THETA

During the winter of 1847, antagonism between the administration and members of the two established Greek letter societies at Miami University of Ohio, led to the expulsion of most of the fraternity men until by 1848, there was only one Greek letter society remaining at Miami.

A group of six students under the leadership of Robert Morrison and John McMillon Wilson, feeling the need for another active fraternity at Miami, joined to found a new fraternity, additional chapters were established in the mid-west, but the advent of the Civil War severely crippled the fraternity's development and it was not until the 70's that expansion could again proceed. At this time the fraternity was centered principally in the mid-west and as there was a desire among the national officers to expand to the East coast, Wilson corresponded with J. C. Irwin, then a freshman at Lafayette, asking him to aid in establishing a new chapter. Irwin, along with Asa Leard, T. W. Leard, and W. V. McCurdy of the class of '76 united in founding Pennsylvania Alpha chapter at Lafayette to which the Miami chapter granted a charter on June 5, 1873. The entrance to Lafayette by the fraternity was viewed as a major step in the development of Phi Delta Theta for it was through the acquisition of this strong eastern foothold that further expansion along the Eastern seaboard was facilitated.

During its early years the local chapter of the fraternity held its meetings in club rooms downtown until the present chapter house was built for it in 1908. The Phi Delts have distinguished themselves in all facets of college activity.

PHI GAMMA DELTA

Phi Gamma Delta's history began on the Lafayette College campus in 1883 when Sigma Deuteron Chapter was officially inaugurated. Since that time, many outstanding political, military, medical, and business men have passed through its halls. Built in 1915, the present Fiji lodge has been kept in excellent physical condition by the constant attention of its undergraduates and the cooperation with the House Alumni Association.

The national history of the fraternity dates back to May 1, 1848, when The Immortal Six, McCarty, Wilson, Elliot, Gregg, Crofts and Fletcher met and founded the fraternal organization at old Jefferson College, now Washington and Jefferson College, Canonsburg, Pennsylvania. In the 108 years since the founding of Phi Gamma Delta, it has spread to some eighty-two chapters in colleges, universities, encompassing the entire United States and Canada.

The forty-seven brothers and pledges of Phi Gamma Delta have maintained the prominent position attained on campus by the past undergraduate members and have exhibited, whether by exceptional ability in the fields of college publications, athletics, church, or the more social aspects of campus life, their adeptness in keeping their standing. In stepsinging, skit night, and intramural sports the Fiji's have consistently placed high in inter-fraternity competitions.

Next year the Phi Gams are looking forward to another successful rushing season and the maintenance and improvement of what is already an excellent college record.

PHI KAPPA PSI

Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity was founded in 1852 by Charles P. T. Moore and William K. Letterman, students at Jefferson College. The founding was in distinct contrast to the beginning of most other Fraternities, which grew, for the most part from local clubs, formed without any idea of expansion. The purpose from the beginning was to assemble outstanding students of kindred spirits at well established colleges throughout the country. The Fraternity grew, survived and gradually spread among the college men of the country. The founders of Phi Kappa Psi planned a fraternity which should supplement the work of the College by cultivating those humanities without which the educated man fails of his greatest usefulness.

The Pennsylvania Theta chapter was founded in 1869 by C. G. Voris and Dr. E. L. Evans. The first initiates were Alex Bryden and Horace Glover, both of the class of '71. The residence of the Fraternity at that time was on Ferry Street above 4th.

During the past year the men of Phi Psi have concentrated on maintaining the appearance of their chapter house, having redone both kitchen and bathroom, and at present the brothers are planning yet further improvements in their dwelling.

Waiting to go to convocation are the officers of Phi Kappa Psi: Rogers, custodian; Hewitt, historian; Veitch, Recording Sec.; Hume, Pres.; Hamm, V.P.; Perrine, Chaplin; Tiger, Treas.; Murphy, Corres. Sec.

PHI KAPPA TAU

At Miami University on March 17, 1906 Taylor Borradaile, Clinton Boyd, William Shideler and Dwight Douglass banded together in the forming of a society opposed to the monopoly of the campus by Greek-letter societies. Operating in a democratic nature and putting emphasis on the true worth of the man, the society combined with a similar group called Phrenecon from Ohio State University and took on a national character. Accepting the title of Phi Kappa Tau, the fraternity advocated standards of high scholarship and culture as it spread its membership across the United States. Recognizing the need for adequate direction, Phi Kappa Tau became the second college fraternity to establish a building solely for its national undergraduate administration, these permanent headquarters at present are located in Oxford, Ohio.

Alpha Omicron Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau was founded on the Easton campus December 8, 1928 and reorganized in March of 1948. Concerned especially with social work, the fraternity undertakes voluntary projects for the Salvation Army, most notable during the school's annual Greek Week. Worthy of mention during the past year, were the services rendered by the brothers of Alpha Omicron to aid and relieve the flood victims of the Delaware and Lehigh Valleys.

PI LAMBDA PHI

On March 21, 1895, at Yale University, three men who felt the need for a fraternity, which would eliminate all prejudice and sectarianism founded what has become the Pi Lambda Phi national fraternity.

Perhaps the word "tolerance" can best describe the highest ideal of this organization in which honesty and justice are revered. Its growth has been rapid with new chapters being absorbed only after stringent requirements. Present total enrollment is about 13,000 with 32 active chapters in the United States and Canada. In 1940 Sigma Chapter at Lafayette was added to the active roll. This, the youngest fraternity at Lafayette sprang from the Towers Club, a one-time local fraternity on the Lafayette Campus.

Shortly after its creation, the fraternity moved to its present location on Sullivan Lane and in recent years has enjoyed one of the largest memberships of any fraternity at the college. A well-rounded organization, Sigma Chapter competes with ability in both scholastic and athletic competition on the campus.

The Pi Lam's have held the scholastic lead on campus for the past four years. They have also won the intramural swimming championship for the past two years, and have been very active in social and community affairs.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

One hundred years ago, on March 9, 1856 at the University of Alabama, a group of eight men banded together to form an association which they called Sigma Alpha Epsilon Fraternity. Based on the ideals of friendship and academic achievement, the fraternity, now in its centennial year, has extended throughout the country, encompassing the largest total active membership in the Greek World.

SAE came to the Lafayette campus in 1919 when the Friar's Club, a local group organized in 1908, petitioned the growing National Fraternity for a charter. Throughout the years, the Pennsylvania Gamma Chapter, as it came to be known, has developed many leaders in American Life including Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison, President of Lafayette College; Dr. Philip S. Hench, Nobel Prize winner and Mr. J. Alfred LeConey, Olympic star—to mention only a few.

Today the chapter presents one of the best cross-sections of the campus as the SAE's strive for a varied group of men, well-versed in activities. During the past year, the Sig Alphas moved to fourth position in campus scholarship and captured the Intramural Bowling Trophy amid a host of strong competition.

During the Centennial Week, the highpoint of the year, the chapter embarked on a program of banquets, an initiation ceremony, an open house, a spring formal dance, and it took part in a joint fraternity celebration held in Harrisburg.

SIGMA CHI

Founded on June 28, 1855 at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio, the fraternity of Sigma Chi ranks as one of the most famous of Greek letter fraternities. At the present moment, it numbers over 80,000 men, all of whom are dedicated to maintaining the ideals and principles espoused by the original founders.

Phi Chapter of Sigma Chi was established at Lafayette on May 11, 1867 by Robert E. James, a member of the fraternity who transferred to this campus from Bucknell University and created the sixth national society to obtain a charter at our school.

Maintenance of close ties between undergraduates and alumni has long been a special charge of Phi Chapter, and the wisdom of this policy has most recently borne fruit in the fulfillment of a long-cherished dream of the local chapter, the erection of a new chapter house. Large financial support from the alumni association, together with some hard work on the part of the undergraduates has combined to make the dream a reality.

Active in all phases of college life, the Sigma Chi's most recently won the intramural cross country championship and successfully competed in many other athletic contests. At the moment the brothers are greatly interested in scholastic improvement, and this year the "Sigs" donated a trophy to be presented to the fraternity having the highest pledge class academic average.

The officers of Sigma Chi, Nelson, Consul; Parker, Pro-Consul; Thompson, Annotator; and Barber, Quaestor discuss the possibilities for building a new Sigma Chi house in the near future.

SIGMA NU

Sigma Nu fraternity was founded at the Virginia Military Institute in 1869 by three young men who met on the V.M.I. Parade grounds next to the "Sigma Nu Rock" to form a society to repeal influence of an influential fraternity which at that time controlled the student body. The Legion of Honor, as it was called, prospered and in a short while a strong society had been established. With an eye turned toward expansion, Sigma Nu slowly spread to other campuses and then grew rapidly as many new chapters were created in the west.

Boasting 122 chapters throughout the country, Sigma Nu's position as a national fraternity is undisputed as it ranks as the fourth largest national fraternity of college men.

Gamma Epsilon Chapter of Sigma Nu was organized at Lafayette in 1900 to become the 53rd national chapter. For 17 years, the brothers met in rented rooms and then in 1920, the brothers took possession of their present Chapter House. Over the years the many men of Sigma Nu have slowly transformed the home at College Hill and Cattell Streets into a completely functional fraternity dwelling. The past few years alone have seen many improvements in the house including the addition of two study rooms and a chapter meeting room to the building.

THETA CHI

On April 10, 1856, exactly one hundred years ago, the first link of Theta Chi Fraternity was founded by Frederick Norton Freeman and Arthur Chase. Since this small beginning which took place in the South Barracks of Norwich University, Norwich, Vermont, this brotherhood has developed into a national organization containing chapters in some 119 colleges and universities.

The Lafayette chapter has tried to strengthen its fraternal relationship during the past year by forming a closer bond with other related chapters. On November 12, 1955, a barometer game, which by tradition indicates the eventual outcome of the two schools varsity basketball encounter was played between the Lehigh and Lafayette Chapters, and once again, this annual forecast predicted correctly as the Lafayette Chapter emerged victorious. During mid-semester vacation, relations were furthered with the Syracuse Chapter when several brothers spent the weekend there. After football games moreover, joint parties with brothers from Rutgers, Lehigh, and Delaware added to already well-established friendships while kinship is actively fostered with such chapters as that at Cornell.

The men of Theta Chi at Lafayette are anticipating the fraternity centennial to be held at the national convention in September where they can increase their already broad familiarity with other chapters.

THETA DELTA CHI

Theta Delta Chi was founded at Union College in 1847 thus becoming the ninth nationally constituted Greek letter fraternity. Conservative in policy, it has grown to thirty Charges (chapters) in selected colleges from the Atlantic to the Pacific, including two in Canada and over 13,000 living members. Theta Delta Chi is a pioneer in many fraternity movements, being first to wear pledge pins, publish a magazine, fly a flag, and to establish an Educational Foundation.

The purpose of its founding, as stated by its six founders, is "to maintain and promote the higher qualities and values of life in an atmosphere of brotherhood, always being a positive addition and credit to its school."

It was with that purpose in mind, that Phi Charge was founded at Lafayette in 1867. At present the third oldest fraternity at Lafayette. The fraternity house, situated next to Kirby hall, was opened in 1905.

The past year has seen much physical improvement in Phi's chapter house. Beginning last summer, the exterior of the House was painted, and several new rugs purchased, plus a host of minor repairs accomplished. During the school year, the Ladies' room has been redecorated, finishing touches have been added to the recreation room, the poolroom has been remodelled, and a complete renovation of the kitchen, and several other projects, was accomplished.

THETA XI

Theta Xi was founded at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute on April 29, 1864, by eight members of a local student group who had split off from the other members of a national society. These eight founders of Theta Xi considered unity and fellowship essential to any fraternal organization and it was upon these principles that the present fraternity was founded. The principles and ideal of the fraternity are set forth in The Purpose of Theta Xi, which outlines the standards of manhood which the men of Theta Xi strive to meet; Intellectual curiosity, Development of habits contributing to better mental and physical health, Sincerity in relationship with others, Responsibility to others, Leadership in the practise of democratic self government, Interests and activities apart from regular studies, and a Spiritual understanding that provides a reservoir of strength to meet the problems of life.

The Alpha Theta chapter of Theta Xi was founded November 6, 1931, and is the outgrowth of a local fraternity, the Elms. The Alpa Theta Chapter of Theta Xi has been located at Lafayette for twenty-five years and during that time it has been a true representative of the spirit of Theta Xi. Every year the Theta Xi's hold competition between themselves and nearby chapters, this helps to promote a real feeling of fraternalism and understanding.

ZETA PSI

Founded at New York in 1847, the Zeta Psi Fraternity has since established thirty-two chapters throughout the United States and Canada to become the first fraternity of international scope.

Tau of Zeta Psi, one of the oldest fraternities on the Lafayette campus, was chartered in 1857. Offering comfortable living accommodations for thirty-five men, the Chapter House and its congenial atmosphere are points of pride to Zetes old and new, while the active Tau Chapter Association, comprised of former Lafayette Zetes, vigorously supports the Fraternity at all times from its headquarters in Easton.

During the past year, Zeta Psi was awarded the much coveted Fraternity Council Trophy for Scholastic Improvement, rewarding the Brothers for their concerted efforts in the service of College and Fraternity. Realizing both the duties and privileges of a fraternity, the Zetes showed a sincere interest in supporting the extra-curricular functions of the College and participated in all intramural sports.

At the present time, a fund raising drive is being conducted for the complete renovation of the House. A gift of $26,000 from elder Brother John Ingrahm Kinsey, II, has brought the goal of $80,000 considerably closer to completion, and construction on the project is expected to begin this June.

KIRBY DORMITORY

The Jesse A. Kirby Dormitory was officially opened in September, 1950, thus making it the newest social dormitory on the Lafayette campus. Constructed in the Georgian style of architecture, the building was modelled after the famous governors palace in Williamsburg, Virginia, and literally no expense was spared to make it one of the most beautiful buildings on this or any other campus. The gift of Allan P. Kirby, the building houses some twenty-two students and it includes a recreation room, a guest suite, a library and a lavishly decorated lounge room known for its beautiful furniture and art display.

The organization of the social group centers about the resident faculty proctor and the student elected officers. In addition to the men living there, about fifteen other men take their meals at Kirby and enjoy all the privileges of social dormitory membership. A regular social agenda consists of parties and other activities held several times a semester at the dorm. Kirby also fields athletic teams in most of the college intramural sports.

SOLES HALL

Soles Hall was erected in 1948 to provide a home for some forty men. In addition to spacious living quarters, "Soles" boasts of a modern, well-equipped kitchen and dining room plus a luxurious lounge dedicated by Thomas F. Soles to his wife. At present Soles has seventy-four members, a well-balanced group representing every field of study offered by the college. By pooling their ideas and energies the men of the dorm were able to produce a vital program of activities, entering teams in all the intramural athletic events and scheduling a full round of social events. Soles has placed first in the dormitory league bowling competition and also took first place in the dormitory league basketball program. In other activities, Soles took first place in skit night competition and came in second in last spring's step singing.

Socially, Soles schedules parties throughout the year including participation in the very successful inter-fraternity weekend. With all these varied activities the men of Soles have nevertheless been able to attain a high scholastic standing, annually ranking in the highest academic lists of the school:

WATSON HALL

One of the newest buildings on the Lafayette campus, the Watson Hall of International Affairs serves a dual role in campus life. Perhaps primarily a dormitory, Watson houses some forty-four students in what may almost be termed luxurious surroundings. Highlighting the beautiful and functional interior is the famous world clock which records the time in every major city on the globe, telling at a glance the hour in such places as London, Moscow and Bangkok.

In addition to its role as a dormitory, Watson contains classrooms and offices for studies in the International Affairs Department. Completely equipped for both living and study, Watson is an achievement in architecture, engineering and education.

At the present moment the building is being enlarged to permit increased living quarters for its students. In the immediate vicinity, the new Alumni Engineering building has recently been completed, while construction on the new Olin Hall of General Science is entering its final phase. Flanked by these buildings, the area around Watson Hall and March Field seems destined to become the showplace of the campus as well as the stronghold of an expanded educational program.

The steps of Watson provide a likely spot to chat for Eldridge, Pres.; Lekashman, V.P.; Nevius, Sec.; and Phillips, Treas. officers of the hall.

Our years at college involves more than attending classes, relaxing in fraternity houses and dormitories and cheering on our varsity teams in various forms of competition. College is in reality a testing ground where we have an excellent opportunity to display our creative talents and to exhibit our ability to receive and accept responsibility in service to our school. Whether our activities have taken us into the theatre, the field of journalism, or one of the other innumerable campus organizations, we have all contributed something to both ourselves and to Lafayette. For the interested and the hard working, advancement is the reward providing with an increase in responsibility a parallel increase in respect and approbation. It is in recognition of these exceptional contributions that honorary societies confer membership upon worthy undergraduates announcing by their selection the worth and achievements of their initiates and crowning their collegiate careers with the badge of success. These societies maintain both the tradition of the college and of their particular field of endeavor, functioning for the most part as a branch of a national organization. We at Lafayette are fortunate in being so well represented in the quantity and quality of these organizations, and we may take pride in knowing that several of these had their origin at Lafayette.

MELANGE

THE YEOMEN OF THE MELANGE STAFF

First Row: Rios, Sallada, Moss, Fried, Fleischner, and Branch.
Second Row: Houldin, Lotz, Jarden, T. Harris, J. Harris, and McKnight. Third Row: Hoffman, Barto, Pulcipher, and Bustraan.

Directly following the editorial board elections at the end of last year, the editor-in-chief and his staff got to work planning and preparing this year's MELANGE for publication. Through the late spring and summer months the general format and layout of the book was planned, and the editors set up the machinery to enable the associates to get off to a fast start in the fall. With the opening of school in September, most of the planning and theoretical work of the book was done.

Then began the tedious process of assembling the data, information, and photographs so as to fully commemorate the 1955-6 school year in enduring print. Sports-writers, copywriters, activities writers, photographers, caption writers, identifications men, editors and technical advisors all set out to compile a composite picture of the contemporary Lafayette College scene and an accurate portrayal of its students. As the year wound on, more and more material was being constantly collected, assembled, distilled, and included in the ever growing book. Advertisements were sold, patrons contacted; talks were had with printers and engravers; copy was produced, and the dedicatee selected.

With the coming of spring the work drew to a close. Now all that remained was to oversee the printing and distribution of the 1956 MELANGE. The collective endeavors of literally hundreds of people combined to bring to life the book you now hold—your record of life at Lafayette.

Mmmm boy! Gordon Wright (Business Manager), looks surprised as he and sitting: Fried and Ballard; standing: Morgan, Sallada, and Coningsby, the Business Staff of the Melange, look over the costs of this year's yearbook.

The Melange Editors—Sitting: Rios, Brown, Blackfan, Dye, Heins, Schwartz, Moss, Hays, Andrews; standing: Cingle, Fulmer, Koether, and Tokash get some advice in formulating their plans from Bob Russel, Managing Editor.

A yearbook is a curious thing. Once a year it appears, often on schedule, and is delivered into the eager hands of students who thumb quickly through its pages, find the pictures of themselves, smile happily (or grimly, as they discover their name misspelled), set the volume down and, likely as not, never look at it again until they find themselves going through a train tunnel some day with nothing else to read. But into such a publication goes a fantastic amount of work that the casual reader can only dimly appreciate. First, there is the lifeblood of the yearbook: photographs. These have to be a) planned; b) the subjects notified; c) the subjects assembled, perhaps the hardest part of the whole business; d) the picture taken; e) somebody told to stand still; f) the picture re-taken; g) the picture developed; h) the picture shown to the editor; i) the editor helped into a chair and sponged with cold water; j) the picture taken over again; k) the picture developed, engraved and, l) finally printed.

After the pictures comes the identifications: Just who is that character in the upper left corner? This is done by phlegmatic, patient people with very low blood pressure. Then comes the copy. Basically this involves opening ones veins with a blunt pencil and bleeding over the page. Then comes the layout, the planning, the advertising sales, and the countless other details that go into making up a yearbook. It has to be a labor of love. But those who labor at it learn to love even it, as time goes by . . .

LAFAYETTE

Since 1870 the Lafayette, the oldest college newspaper in Pennsylvania, has focused the attention of the undergraduate upon the various happenings of the College, and has worked as a positive force for the good of the school.

The news and sports editors of the Lafayette, Gutkin, Rothschild, Dye, and Garber gather to rate news articles from last Friday's edition.

In its news and sports columns the college man has found information; in its features he has found entertainment, and in its editorial he has found food for much constructive thought. It is an exacting job, this production of a college paper, calling for all of the time, talents, and energies of the over fifty students who create its bi-weekly editions. Before the paper actually begins to take form, the business and advertising staffs are hard at work procuring local and national advertising, and preparing ads for publication in future issues of the Lafayette. Then begins the job of getting the news of the campus, the tireless reportorial leg-work, telephone calls, interviews; the compilation of the various varsity and intramural scores for the sports page and the gathering of all of the information that will go into its printed pages. Gradually the news is gathered, the feature assignments — the columns, the cartoons, the editorials are all written and set up. Into the press office come the layout people, the rewrite men, as slowly the paper begins to take form under the constant pressure of the impending deadline. In goes the editorial, in go the photographs, and the last bits of late news, until the evening has stretched into the small hours of the morning before the paper is finally "put to bed." Then, however, even before the proofs are returned from the printer, the next issue begins to see the light of day as new assignments are handed out and the cycle is repeated. Almost simultaneously with the printing page proofs are corrected, the paper completed, and on Tuesday and Friday afternoons a little more of Lafayette life passes into written history.

Kuder, Editor-in-chief and Landis, Managing Editor survey the latest editorial in the Lafayette, our own campus newspaper.

Rogers, Andrews, Green (sitting), Kress, and Budd form the editorial nucleus for our college magazine, the Marquis.

MARQUIS

Duncan Andrews, Editor of the Marquis, meditates while proof-reading the copy for the Spring issue of Lafayette's magazine extraordinaire.

Working under a revised editorial organization, and with a seasoned and experienced staff, The Marquis this year introduced many innovations into the traditional sphere of the campus magazine. Published quarterly, The Marquis was distributed without charge to the student body and, for the first time, it was sold to the general public on the newstands of Easton. Other features were introduced, including a completely retailored layout and improved use of illustrations; a profile column, dealing with the more colorful campus personalities; a section of letters to the editor; a calendar, giving with each issue a preview of forthcoming events of interest to the student body; and many other features.

Along with physical changes in the magazine itself, a new editorial policy was introduced, which attempted to strike more of a balance between light and serious writing in the magazine. An extension of this policy was the introduction of a number of factual feature articles dealing with various aspects of campus life. A Forum page was introduced to give the student a chance to "sound off" on various topical questions and controversies, and in general, a better-balanced magazine was sought and achieved, to the approval of the campus readers.

This year, in recognition of this improvement, for the first time The Marquis became a member of the National Associated Collegiate Press, and in the fall it was awarded a First Class Honor Rating by the Press, the highest rating bestowed to any college magazine this year.

The Lafayette Press is the center of all campus publications at Lafayette making its facilities available to the editors of the Lafayette, The Marquis, and THE MELANGE. Founded ten years ago, the Press is operated by undergraduates and managers who are chosen by a student director, which is chosen by the administration. The men selected to work for the press are eligible for scholarship aid, however, they may not hold office on any of the individual campus publications. In addition to its other duties, the Lafayette Press edits and oversees the production of all official Lafayette publications, such as the Annual Report, the Freshman Manual, the Fraternity Handbook, and the College Catalogue and other material in the public relation field. Moreover, since there is no actual course in journalism at Lafayette, the Press also provides valuable practical experience for its members, especially in such fields as accounting, photography, and promotional activity. Through the hands of the Lafayette Press pass much of the material that the world outside the campus sees as Lafayette; providing an excellent level of service to the school and its students.

CALUMET

The Calumet Society, Lafayette's honorary sophomore society, has the time-honored job of instilling the members of the freshman class with the spirit and traditions that are an integral part of life at the college. It is the duty of the Calumet members to enforce such freshmen regulations as the wearing of dinks and maroon ties, the displaying of the frosh name button, and the carrying of handbooks and matches. Significant facts about the college and its history are presented to the members and they are encouraged to attend all varsity home football games. The highlight of the society's activities are the annual tug of wars with the sophomore class and with Lehigh's freshmen before every Lafayette-Lehigh football game.

Calumet officers, Koether, Treas.; Smiley, Sec.; Oehring, V.P.; and Atkinson, Pres., congregate in Pardee to discuss better ways to build frosh spirit.

Seated: Perrine, Ballard, Morgan, Koether, Atkinson, Smiley, Costalas, Lloyd, Rauch. Standing: Jarden, Rothschild, Hourihan, Wilcoxson, Weber, Jillard, Gutkin, Craig, Gustafson, Weiser, Piper, Yohe, Mendenhall, Theophilus, Fulmer.

Since 1924 the Maroon Key Society has been the honorary junior organization of Lafayette, recognizing by its acceptance those men who have shown ability and leadership during their early years at Lafayette. Following a constitutional revision in 1953, the Society has taken on a steadily increasing responsibility and record of service to Lafayette. Maroon Key men, elected by the various fraternities and social dorms, act as hosts of the College to the visiting teams, supervising their accommodations, checking transportation facilities, and, in general, maintaining a spirit of hospitality to our athletic rivals. In addition, the Maroon Key Society sponsors the annual Junior Dance, and other class activities. This year's dance was considered one of the most successful in the history of the Society, as over three hundred attended.

The duties of the Society have been varied over the years. At one time in the College's history, it was the Maroon Key that maintained the traditional freshman regulations and provided that measure of class unity that is the stepping-stone to vigorous college spirit. Although this function is now performed by the Calumet Society, the Maroon Key man is still a formidable figure to the incoming underclassman, and a man worthy of the respect of his contemporaries.

The officers of Maroon Key, junior honorary society, Klunder, Pres.; Garber, Sec.; Ellison, Treas.; and Moss, V.P., finalize plans for the best Junior Dance ever.

A half-century ago, a group of congenial Lafayette men met in one of the local boarding houses to dine together in the days before fraternity houses and dining halls. Adopting the name of the Knights of the Round Table, they soon dedicated themselves to promoting the best interests of the College, and attracting the attention and participation of other kindred souls, resolved to become a permanent organization. It was not long before The Knights of the Round Table became the highest honorary society to which a Lafayette undergraduate could aspire; and, throughout the years, the Knights have chosen from the junior and senior classes those men who, by their eminent service to the College have gained the honor and respect of the student body.

The functions of the society are numerous. Among its traditional activities is the sponsorship of the spring KRT Skit Night, and "Dad's Day," held in the fall in conjunction with Founder's Day. Also on the Knights' agenda is the direction of Sub-Freshman Weekend, at which time prospective underclassmen are introduced to the Lafayette campus, and Parents' Weekend, in the late spring, when parents and students are brought together for a round of activities on campus and a look at Lafayette. Confident of enthusiastic student and faculty support, the Knights carry on one of the finer traditions of Lafayette.

Knighthood flowers anew with Pete Reeves, Sec., Don Mitchell, Treas., Ed. Johnson, Pres., and Tom Nelson, V. Pres., officers of KRT.

John Salvador, as president of the Student Council, sees to it that the appropriation of funds to campus organizations and the other functions of the Lafayette student governing body are ably handled.

Meeting regularly on the second and fourth Tuesday of each month of the college year, the Student Council is an integral part of Lafayette's student government. For many years it has provided a valuable link between the undergraduate body and the faculty and administration, as well as acting as a special forum for interested individuals and campus groups. The Council is charged with the responsibility of supervising all undergraduate activities, and apportioning to the various campus organizations their share of the student's activity fee. Exercising careful control over the budget they are granted by the College, the Council members see to it that the available funds are spent in the manner that is most beneficial to the student body as a whole. Composed of a total of twenty-three members, the Council represents fraternity and non-fraternity members, all of whom, with the exception of the juniors, are elected by a majority vote of the student body for a term of one year. The juniors, who hold office for two years, form a nucleus around which each new-coming Council is built. Also seated on the Council are four ex-officio members: The presidents of the non-fraternity association, the Knights of the Round Table, the Interfraternity Council, and the editor-in-chief of The Lafayette.

The Lafayette College Choir under the direction of Prof. J. D. Raymond presents its annual Christmas Vespers, an integral part of every Lafayette holiday season.

Lafayette College could not be better represented than in the seventy voices of its choir, for it is through its concerts on the annual tours that the choir recruits many high school students to come to Lafayette. Their visits to different high schools leave many a prospective freshman impressed with the quality of Lafayette men, and the dinners following their concerts affords these sub-freshmen an opportunity to meet the choir members who act as representatives of the Director of Admissions in answering their questions about Lafayette. This year's tour took our ambassadors of good will from Southern New Jersey to Northern Pennsylvania, including an appearance on television over station WPTZ of Philadelphia.

Jim Wheeler inspires a capacity audience in Colten Chapel attending Vespers, with his gifted voice.

The choir holds us all in awe with their renditions of carols old and new in their own retelling of the Christmas story.

A man and his music; Professor J. Raymond, Director of Music, is a capable man who brightens the lives of his fellow men through the world's universal tongue, music.

LAFAYETTE CHOIR

The choir's main presentation comes the week before Christmas vacation when it presents its annual Christmas Vespers, a two-hour concert of Christmas music ranging from old classical songs to Negro spirituals. The preparation for this concert begins about a month before the actual event and takes a great deal of arduous concentration on the part of each choir member to show the choir at its best. Because of the excellence of the final product, it is no small wonder that the week-long concert is entirely sold out long before its presentation. Besides students, parents, and alumni, a large part of the audience is composed of people of Easton who have heard of the choir's well-established reputation and the excellence of its productions.

The student body hears the choir at religious convocation every Wednesday, but it was pleasantly surprised when it heard the choir sing some of its non-secular tour numbers at a regular convocation. Under the able direction of Professor John D. Raymond, Director of Music, the magic blending of the seventy voice ensemble presents a memorable experience for all members of the Lafayette family.

As the curtain of the Hogg Hall stage rose on Sutton Vane's fantasy-comedy "Outward Bound," the Lafayette Little Theatre and director Minott Lee Coombs' Marquis Players embarked on another bright and successful college theatrical season. The Little Theatre, which draws its male talent from the student body and its leading ladies from the ranks of local players and faculty wives, has long been an important part of the college's extra-curricular program. Each year many men gain valuable experience "treading the boards," and the outstanding actors of a given year are selected to be recipients of the Marquis Players Achievement Awards for their contribution to the Lafayette stage.

This year the Little Theatre chose an ambitious, but rewarding series of plays to present to the college and the town. Following the production of "Outward Bound," the Marquis Players presented the rollicking Oscar Wilde Comedy "The Importance of Being Earnest" to an enthusiastic audience. An event of major dramatic proportion was achieved when the thespians presented Sean O'Casey's poetic drama "Within the Gates." This was the play's Pennsylvania premiere, and indeed was the first time the play was given in an eastern college or university. Rounding out a busy year, and one that has seen much kudos directed toward Mr. Coombs and the actors of Lafayette, the Little Theatre closed with the production of Shakespeare's "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Roughly analogous to society's Blue Book or Burke's Peerage on an undergraduate level is Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Each year, Who's Who publishes the names of those undergraduates who, by their achievements, deserve the rating of "big men on campus." The basis for membership in this select group is extraordinary performance in character, activities, scholarship, and leadership. Early this fall 21 seniors were selected from all phases of undergraduate activity for inclusion in the national book. The seniors, the number of which is determined by the college's enrollment, are selected by an anonymous committee composed of representatives from the faculty and the student body. In each case, the decision of the committee regarding any given individual must be unanimous; as only men who have made significant contributions to the betterment of the college are considered.

PI DELTA EPSILON

Tom Nelson outlines plans for the annual banquet to Mosbrook, Riley, Kuder, Pesky, Hanbicki, Sitkin, and Mitchell member of Pi Delta Epsilon, honorary journalism fraternity.

Organized in 1909 at Syracuse University, Pi Delta Epsilon was founded to stimulate an interest in collegiate journalism, in both the fields of editorial work and news writing, and in the business management of undergraduate publications. Its members who must have completed at least two years of college work, are chosen in the spring of each year from students who have served on the boards of control of one or more campus publications, in either the editorial or business departments. At the present time there are eighty-three chapters of Pi Delta Epsilon located in American colleges and universities; and the number of chapters is continually growing. As an honorary journalism fraternity, the society has taken for its purpose "to elevate the cause of journalism; to foster the mutual welfare of student publications; to develop the truest spirit among its members; to encourage loyalty to their Alma Mater, and to reward the journalist for his efforts, service and accomplishments by admission to its membership." To carry out this last purpose, the society annually sponsors a national Editorial and News-Story Competition for which prizes are awarded for undergraduate excellence in the various fields of campus journalism and feature writing. The Lafayette Chapter of Pi Delta Epsilon is the thirty-sixth to be installed, having been granted its membership in 1923; and since that time it has striven to promote at Lafayette the highest ideals of responsibility and service to the press.

"Resolved: that the non-agricultural industries of the United States should guarantee their employees an annual wage." With these words, the 1956 debating season opened for the Debate Society of Lafayette, and the team was launched on a round of intercollegiate tournaments that carried it up and down the eastern seaboard to meet some of the strongest college debating groups in the nation. Sparked by many new members, the team had a successful season in this exacting field where a favorable decision may often hinge upon a slip of the tongue or the mis-handling of an obscure point in inductive reasoning.

Those who plan elaborate undergraduate ceremonies would find themselves hopelessly ensnared in traffic difficulties were it not for the existence of the Formal Ushers. Clad in their familiar white jackets, the ushers aid in such college functions as Commencement, athletic events, Opening Convocation, and other campus activities throughout the year. It is their job to see that protocol is observed, that people are seated in the right locations, and that in the event of any emergency, rules of order and decorum are maintained.

At almost any important varsity encounter, moreover, WJRH is standing by ready to broadcast a play-by-play description of the contest to its listening audience. "Attention!" That familiar cry echoes across March Field each Monday at 1615 hours to inform us that the R.O.T.C. is on the march

R.O.T.C. DRILL

There is probably not an officer living who will not tell you that drill, ceremonies, and mass formations are not essential to the esprit de corps and fighting efficiency of a military unit. Since drilling and the giving of commands is such an integral part of the making of a soldier, the Lafayette College Reserve Officer's Training Corps assumes this vital task. Thus, in the fall and spring of each year the cadet corps may be seen on every clear Monday afternoon practicing marching, close order drill, and the manual of arms. In the spring of each year a gala review is held, in which the entire corps participates, and at which time the various departmental awards are made to outstanding cadets and the formations are reviewed by visiting state, local and military dignitaries.

For those students who are unusually proficient in drilling, or who show special aptitude and interest for it, the drill team furnishes an excellent opportunity to learn and display some of the more intricate military formations. Clad in special uniform, and drilling apart from the rest of the corps, the Drill Team perfects an involved series of movements which are presented for audience entertainment at special reviews and at the annual Scabbard and Blade Military Ball.

The quadrangle, with Pardee in the background, is never more beautiful than it is in the Spring and spirits are never higher. This is how we will remember Lafayette long after our textbooks are yellow with age.

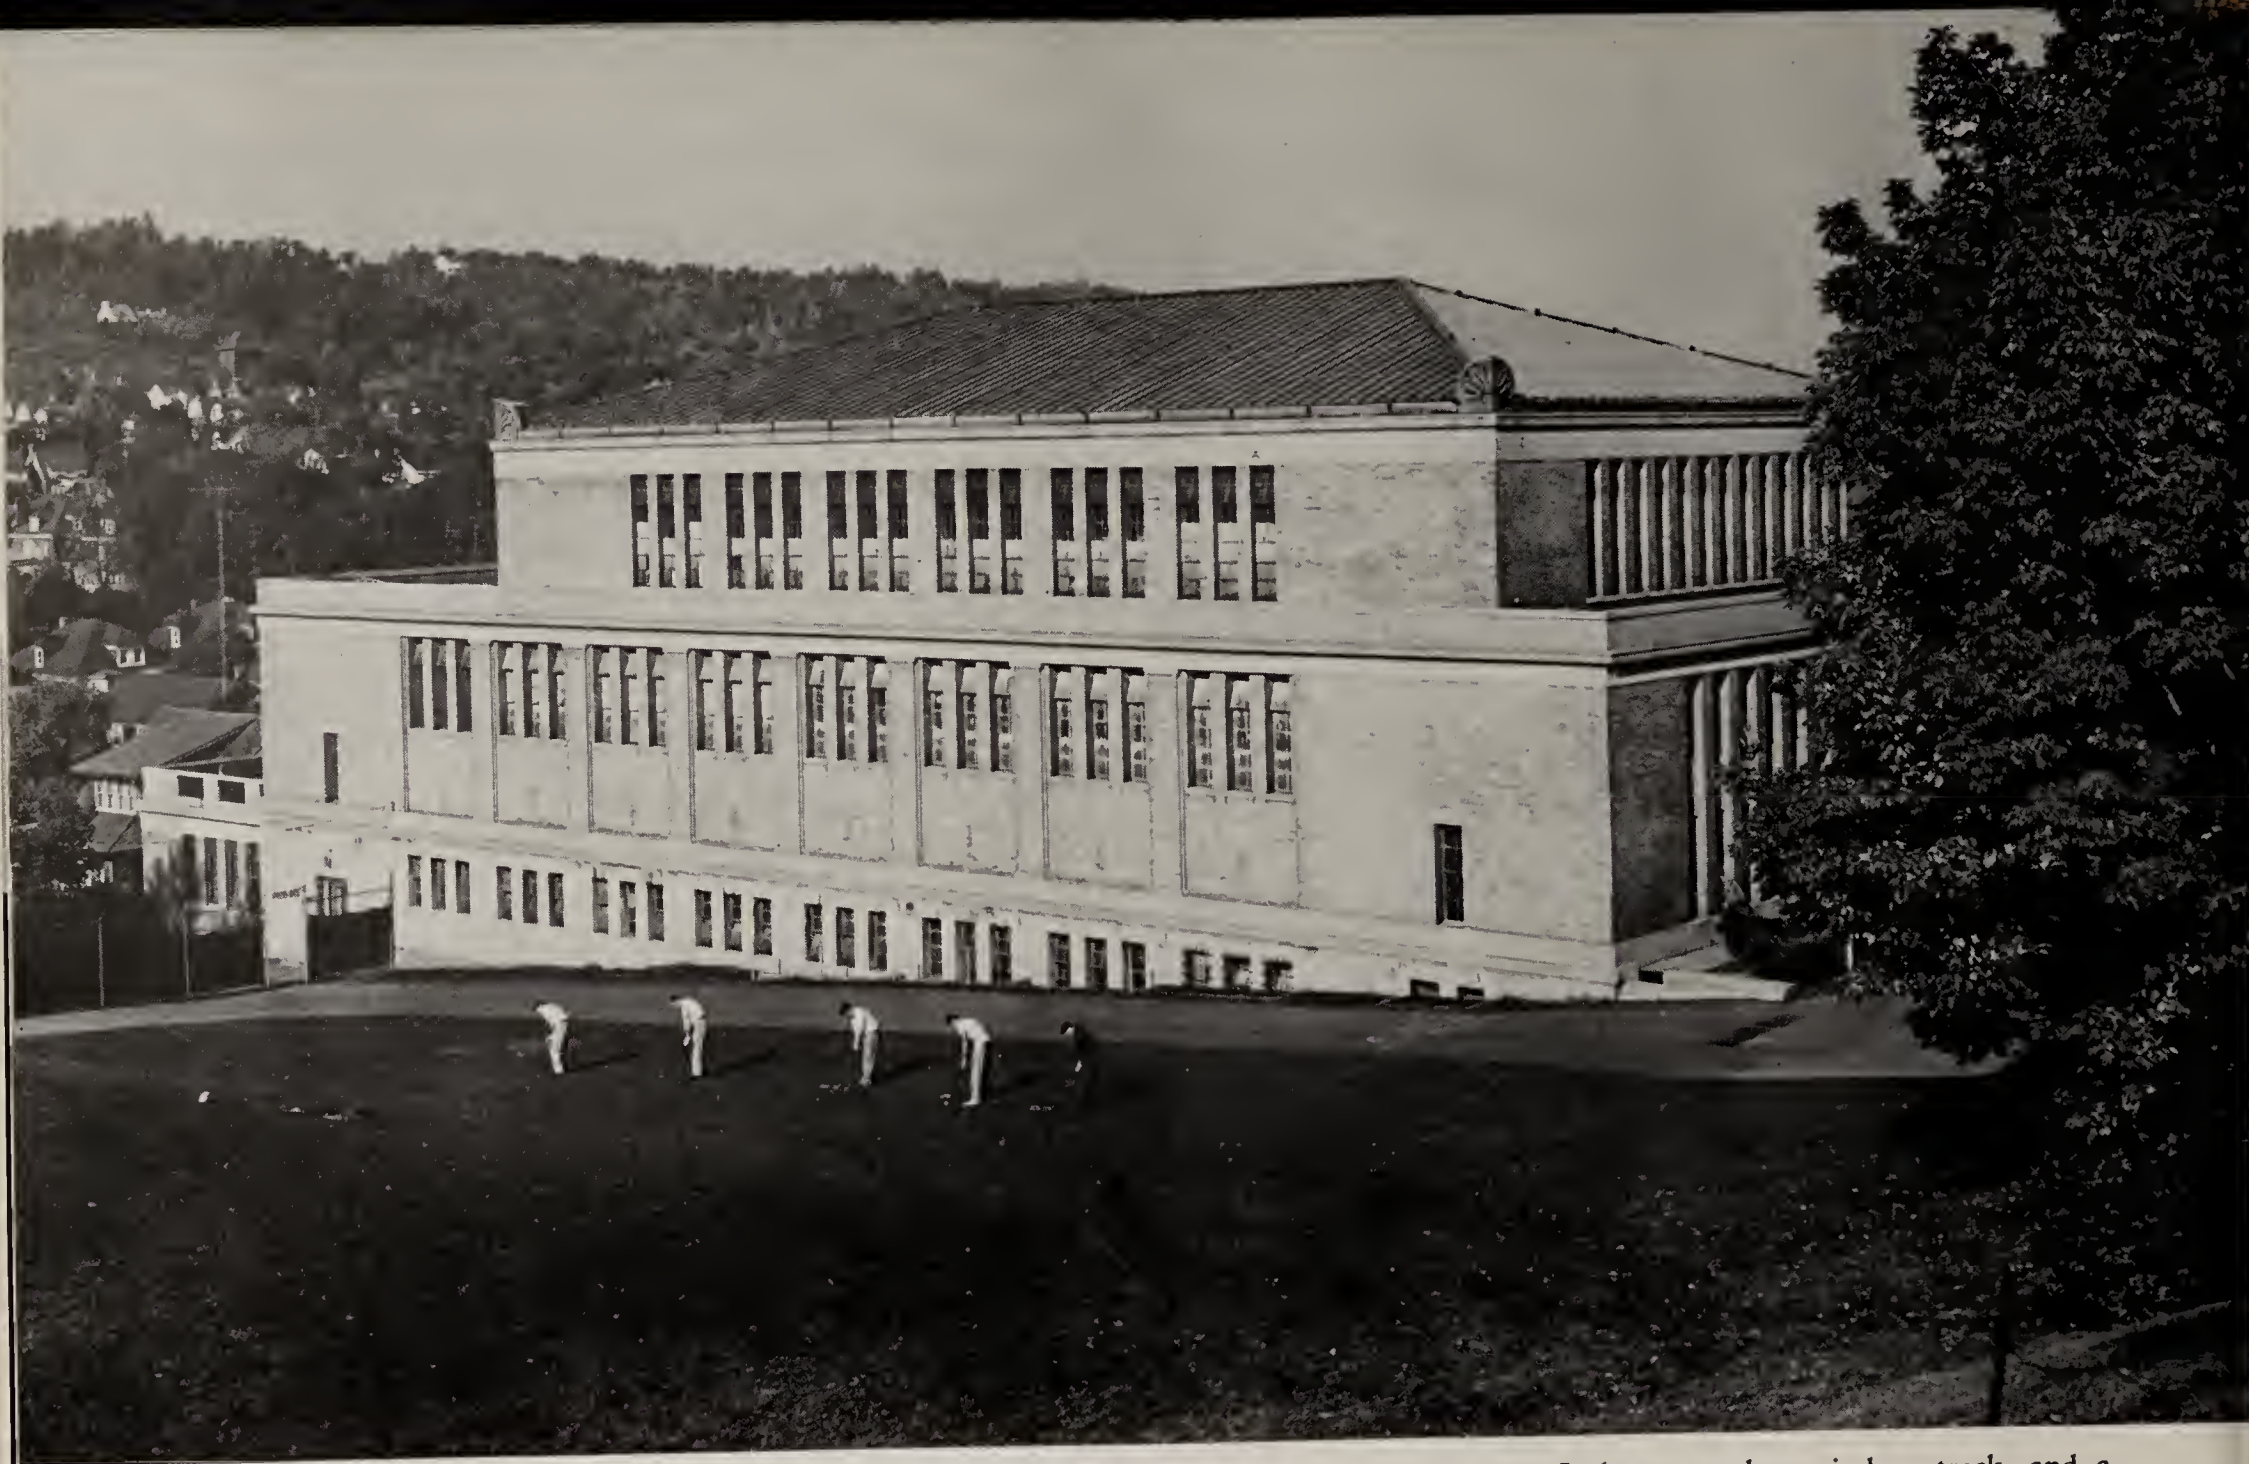

The past year has been a highly successful one for our school in the realm of sports. In an athletic program that completely spans the school year from football and soccer in the fall to baseball and lacrosse in the spring, Lafayette managed to produce several championship teams, which adds greatly to the enjoyment of the student body and to the reputation of the school. Long hours, days, and weeks of conditioning and practice, of training and preparation saw the Maroon achieve a record of all-around success seldom paralleled in the history of the school. However, the demands of scholarship and academic standing were constantly kept paramount in both the minds of the players and coaches so our winning record was made doubly valuable by the knowledge that success in the field was co-equal to success in the classroom. No introduction to the world of athletics can be complete, however, without mentioning the extensive intramural program maintained by the administration. For the most part governed and directed by the students themselves, the program permits every undergraduate to participate in the sport of his choice, and it recognizes no distinction between a member of a fraternity or social dormitory and a non-affiliated student. We at Lafayette can well be proud of our athletic standing and the opportunities for athletic enjoyment provided by a benevolent administration.

Alumni Memorial Gymnasium affords the many facilities needed by the many athletic teams. It has a pool, an indoor track, and a basketball floor besides handball courts and lockers.

ALUMNI GYM

Alumni Memorial Gymnasium is the home of all the indoor sports at the college and is the headquarters of the school athletic department. Although this building is the result of a long and gradually improving physical education program, it has in recent years become wanting in many facilities, and at present, plans are being made toward improving and renovating the structure.

The cornerstone of the gymnasium was laid as part of Commencement Day exercises. Completed two years later, it has become the permanent center of all athletic activity for both students and faculty.

STUDENT ATHLETIC COUNCIL

The Student Athletic Council is the campus organization which represents the student body in formulating the athletic policy of the school.

Composed of fifteen men, the council includes a member of each varsity team and represents a cross section of the entire student body. Officers for the organization are selected by the entire student body in annual schoolwide elections.

The Varsity "L" Society is composed of those men who have earned a letter as a member of any of the college varsity teams. These men are organized principally for two main purposes; one the formulation of a program to obtain sufficient funds for sweaters, and second the sponsorship of their annual spring banquet, at which every varsity squad member participates.

First Row: Murray, Schmid, Faust, Phelps, McKnight, and Erb. Second Row: Herrick, Adelman, Sweet, McCooey, and Sayenga, members of the Varsity "L," gather in Hogg Hall to discuss ways to improve means of recognition for varsity athletes.

CHEERLEADERS

This year the Cheerleaders under the leadership of co-captains Dave Runyon and Jack Sallada have done a remarkable job in raising school spirit to a new peak here on the hill.

The big addition to the squad was Leo Pard, a seven foot mascot Leopard, as a new symbol of the school. Dick Faust received the honor of becoming the first Leopard, and his antics and hi-jinx at the football games added greatly to each afternoon's entertainment.

Next year the cheerleaders will have the custodianship of the brass cannon, symbol of football supremacy among the Middle Three. Fired after every touchdown, the cannon returns to Lafayette after being held captive by Lehigh and Rutgers.

MARCHING BAND

One of the most loyal followers of the 1955 varsity football squad was the Lafayette College band. Under the direction of John D. Raymond, the band attended every varsity game, with the exception of the Dartmouth contest providing both pre-game and halftime entertainment with a spirit which was readily applauded by both the Maroon's and the opposition's cheering sections.

The sixty man squad entered into its second season with a collegiate air, sporting charcoal slacks, maroon coats, white bucks, straw hats, and gray and maroon striped ties. The unit sparkled as they crossed the midfield in their gaudy attire, and proved a welcome change to the plain uniforms of past years.

In order to produce a snappier unit, the band combined with the R.O.T.C. department and held various marching sessions to prepare for the Saturday afternoon contests, placing a great emphasis on precision drill and parade.

This past season also marked the initial efforts of the recently formed fraternity, Mu Upsilon Sigma. This fraternity, advised by John Raymond, devised the pre-game and halftime procedures, and its success has proven that it will steadily increase both in membership and prestige in forthcoming years. Jim Vorosmarti, a member of this fraternity, was selected to head the band in the capacity of Drum Major, leading an organization of which the entire school can be proud.

"Cheer up boys" says Band Director J. Raymond while his loyal band members plod through the rain behind him.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

The complete Intercollegiate Athletic program of the college is directed and coordinated by the Director of Athletics. His job includes, along with the general management of the program, the scheduling of other teams, drawing up of budgets, recommending of coaches, and purchasing of all equipment.

William H. Anderson has been director since 1945 and is well known to all students as a fine leader and a gentleman. He graduated from Lafayette in 1919, having gained much recognition as an athlete and scholar in his undergraduate days. He coached basketball for the Maroon several years after graduation and then returned again to his Alma Mater in 1945 as director and coach.

Athletic Director William Anderson checks our schedule to try and fit in an extra wrestling match while his boxer sits contentedly by. The outstanding spirit and leadership shown by Bob Fyvie and Jack Burcin, co-captains of the football team, led our eleven to a very successful season on the gridiron.

Members of the band are: Seniors: Daykin, Hays, and Martocci; Juniors: Bieber, Boyer, Cingle, (student pres.) DeVore, Dunham, Fatzinger, Goodell, Heckler, Shattuck, Shotwell, Tempest, and Vorosmarti (Drum major); Sophomores: Alkire, Barrett, Bennet, Boettler, Christophersen, Dent, Fried, Graham, Horvath, Kauders, May, Medlar, Morgan, Publow, Rossman, Tiedemann, Warner, and Wheeler; Freshmen: Bustard, Byars, Chapin, Clayton, Cox, Feather, Foster, Haering, Hale, Hartmann, Hays, Hillier, Hobbs, Jones, Joseph, Kayser, Koch, Lee, Mallay, Margiotta, McBride Metzgar, Miller, Pennington, Quimby, Schenck, Schwartz, Shaw, Smith, Stavros, Turner, VanArx and Prof. John D. VARSDITY FOOTBALL

The outstanding spirit and leadership shown by Bob Fyvie and Jack Burcin, co-captains of the football team, led our eleven to a very successful season on the gridiron.

Three short years ago, football here on the hill was at its lowest point in years, and despite the efforts of the Maroon gridders, Lafayette faced a dismal year of defeat and disillusion as the team couldn't win a single game. This year, however, Lafayette fans can look at the 1955 season with a great deal of pride, as the Leopard gridders compiled six victories against only two defeats.

To the players these victories meant the fruitful result of long hours of practice and play, during which time they had developed into a powerful machine of teamwork and precision. To Coach Steve Hokuf and his staff, the builders of this machine, it was the golden result of many hours of planning, scouting, and instruction. Their team had beaten Dartmouth, a powerful Ivy League team, topped a strong Rutgers aggregation for the first time in ten years, and, in addition to others, routed a potent Lehigh team for the third straight year, an achievement which meant that the seniors on the team had never once tasted defeat at the hands of an Engineer eleven.

Bryan Satterlee shakes off a Muhlenberg tackler on the way to scoring the lone touchdown of the game.

The Lafayette College Football team opened its 1955 schedule by defeating a scrappy and determined Muhlenburg squad, seven to nothing.

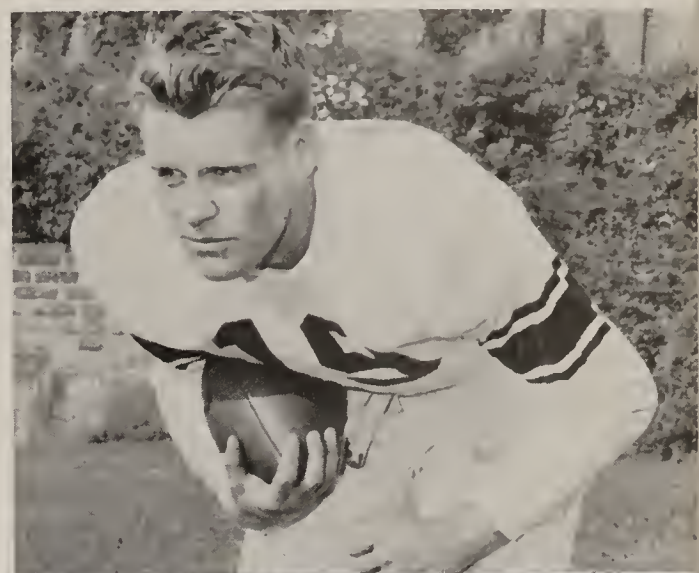

Hampered by a constant rain, neither team was able to mount a consistent offensive drive, as a combination of fumbles, penalties and dogged defensive opposition, halted drive after drive.

The Leopards score came midway in the second period on an 89 yard sustained drive sparked by sophomore quarterback Joe Bozik and senior veteran Bryan Satterlee. Bozik combined a savage running attack with several key passes, one alone covering 35 yards, and completed the touchdown march with a final handoff to Satterlee for the score.

The Lafayette Leopards swept to their second victory in as many starts as they rolled over a completely out-classed Carnegie Tech eleven, 41-14. Throughout the afternoon, the Maroon could do no wrong as the Pard's gained seemingly at will.

In the fourth play of the game, the Maroon set their pattern for the day as a 65 yard pass play, Bozik to Say-enga, tallied six points. By the end of the first half, the Eastonians had gained a twenty-seven point advantage that proved insurmountable as the Lafayette substitutes finished out the afternoon.

A powerful Delaware football squad handed the Maroon its first defeat by scoring fourteen points in the first half of their game at rain soaked Fisher Field. The two tallies proved more than enough as the Leopards notched but a futile six points the rest of the afternoon. Charley Kozischek tallied Lafayette's lone score in the third quarter, but good defensive play by Delaware completely tied up the Leopards for the rest of the second half and insured victory for the visitors.

Soon after the opening kickoff, Norm Dion plunged over for the first Maroon score with Joe Bozik adding a second period touchdown on a short run. Frank Mattison successfully converted after both tallies. Dartmouth scored through the air just before the half, mainly on the efforts of Bill Beagle, highly touted Indian passer, but when Bryan Satterlee closed out Lafayette's scoring in the third period, the rough Maroon line hampered Beagle consistently and kept the Indians from mounting any concerted drive. The victory marked the first Lafayette success in the Ivy League since 1923 and brought the Pard's season record to three and one.

Steve Hokuf's gridders made it four wins in five starts so far this season as they treated a large Founder's Day crowd to a 34-13 pasting of the Bucknell Bisons.

Joe Bozik once again starred for the homeside as he quarterbacked his team superbly. Going over once himself, Bozik also handed off to Frank Mattison, Jack Slotter and twice to Bryan Satterlee to complete the afternoon's scoring for the Leopards.

The victory was sweet for the Hokufmen as they thus gained revenge for the heartbreaking one point defeat to these same Bisons the year before.

Norm Dion is spilled after a 5-yard gain in Lafayette's 15-14 loss to Gettysburg.

An underrated and highly spirited Gettysburg eleven handed the Maroon its second loss of the season ekeing out a hard fought 15-14 win.

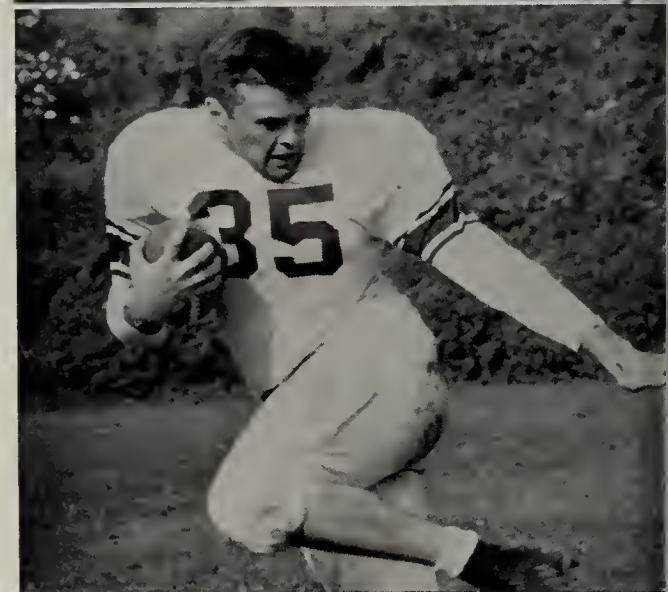

Gettysburg scored first but the Eastonians regained the lead as Norm Dion scored. The drive, beginning deep in Leopard territory, featured a spectacular 40 yard pass play from Bozik to Don Sayenga. A later Bullet touchdown made the score 12-7, until Jim Soltesz, unsuccessful in two conversion attempts, iced the game with a field goal. Quarterback Al Caesar, playing a superb game, passed to Jack Burcin for the final Maroon marker, but the one point margin stood up and spelled the winning margin.

The Lafayette Leopards finally ended an eleven year Rutgers' jinx as they toppled the men from the Raritan, 16-7. A chilled I.F. crowd of 9000 watched the visitors score first before Frank Mattison copped a 45 yard drive by plunging over for the first Maroon marker.

This was the end of the scoring until the fourth quarter when Bozik tallied on an option play, Mattison again converting. Later Charlie Kozischek and Mike McCooey combined for a two point insurance play, nabbing the Scarlet quarterback in the end zone for a safety.

LEHIGH

An inspired Lafayette football team ended its season campaigning, by the convincing routing, 35-6, of Lehigh at Bethlehem. The win brought the Hokufmen's record to 6-2 and marked the Maroon's 50th victory in the 91 game series. Playing in a blinding snow storm, the Leopards again and again made sustained scoring drives, while, with but one exception, the Engineers were held impotent.

After winning the toss, the Eastonians elected to kick off, gambling on the weather conditions to provide a fumble deep in Brown and White territory. The strategy backfired, however, when Lehigh star Bob Naylor returned the kick to his own 41. A scant six plays later, the spirited Engineers had scored, with Naylor tallying from the Pard nine yard line. Although tackle Bill Duemce missed the extra point, Lehigh had seized an early six point lead.

A mud-bespeckled cheerleader, with fists clenched, looks hopefully downfield as Lafayette chalks up the first tally in a 35-6 victory over Lehigh's eleven.

"I'm sitting pretty," said the smug Lafayette Leopard perched on his favorite limb overlooking the bashful Bushkill after the Maroon handed Lehigh a 35-6 trouncing in the annual football fracas, which for the third straight year went to an underdog Leopard eleven.

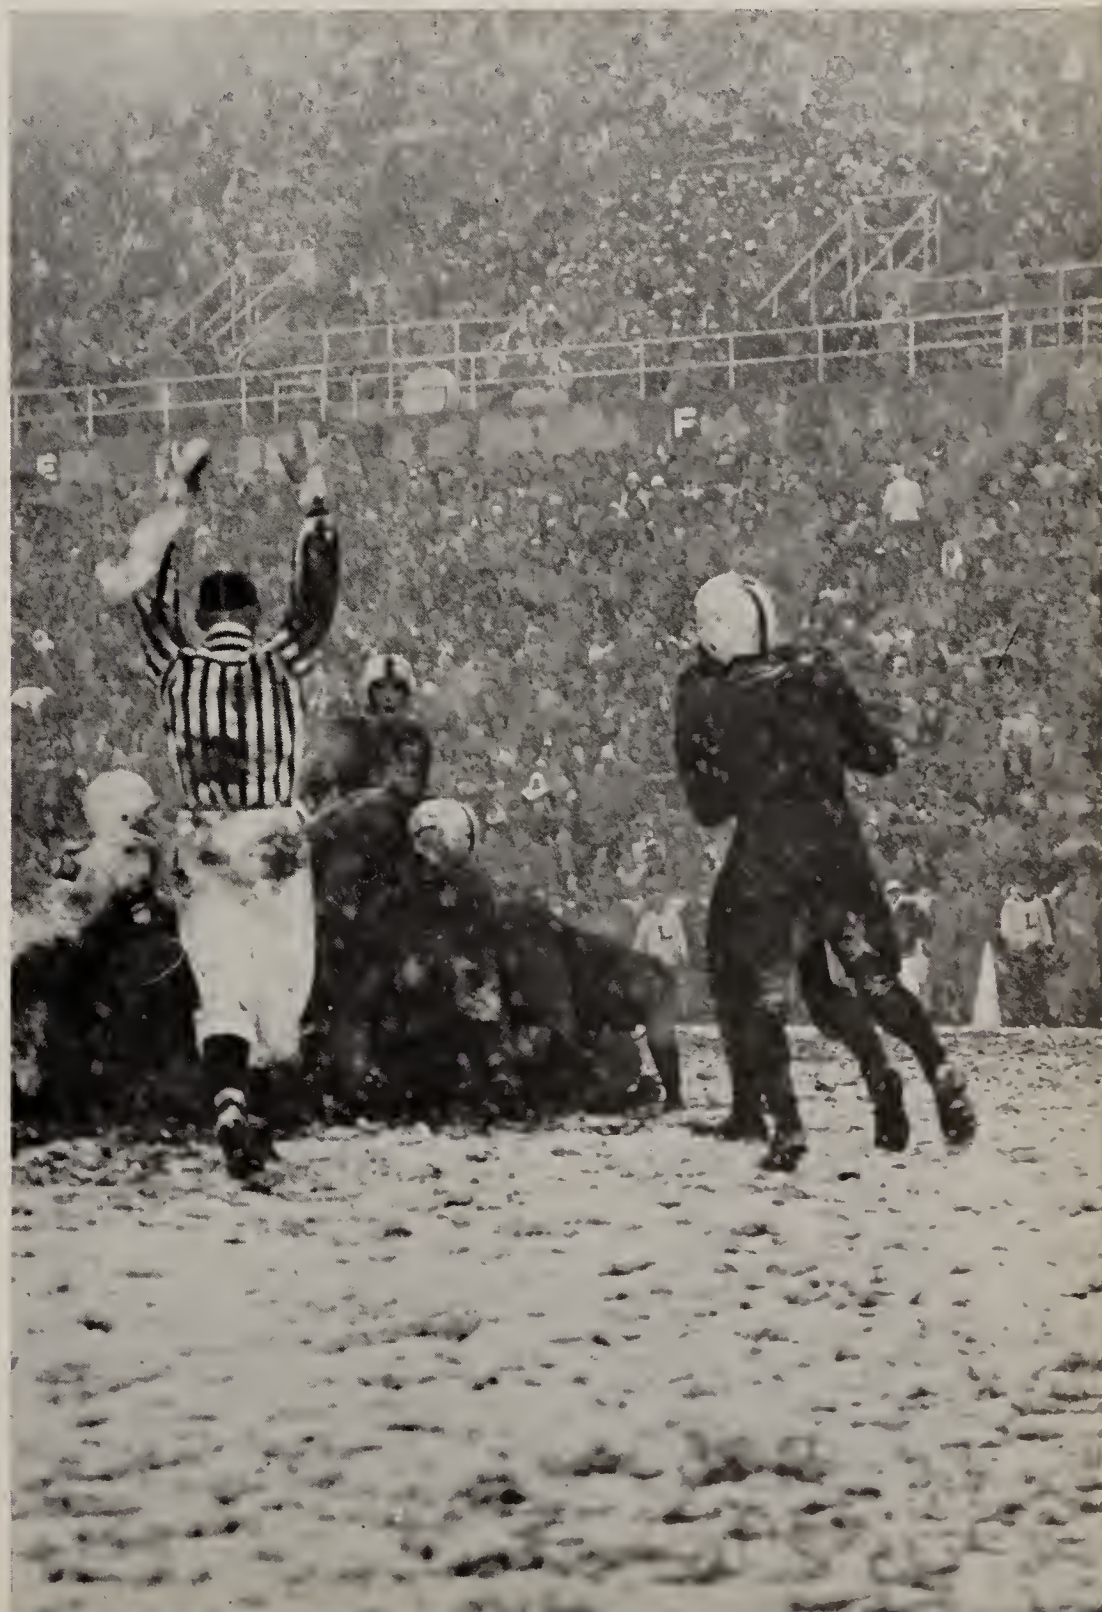

The Leopards, however, were not to be denied. Sparked by quarterback Joe Bozik, the Maroon marched 58 yards to even the score three minutes later. Fullback Frank Mattison converted after Bozik's 18 yard scoring play to give the Eastonians the lead, which they never relinquished. Only a few plays after the following kickoff, the crowd was thrilled again as Mattison, playing a stand-out game, intercepted a Naylor pass at midfield and returned it to the Lehigh 18. Bozik went over seven plays later, and then, following a bad pass from center, made the extra point good by running through the Engineers to the end zone.

The Maroon made the score 21-6 late in the second quarter as Charlie Kozichek capped a sustained 60 yard march when he scored on a one yard plunge. The drive took the Pards eleven plays, as a Bozik to Don Sayenga pass ate up most of the yardage and set up the score.

In the second half, the Eastonians overcame what had become almost impossible playing conditions when after a Kozichek first down and a penalty for a personal foul, Satterlee crashed across the Brown and White goal. The final score in the last period was made possible when Dick Jones scooped up an errant Lehigh pitchout on the Brown and White 47, carrying it inside the 10. Satterlee again scored as Mattison converted.

Seniors Don Sayenga, Jack Burcin, Dick Jones, Dick Reichenbach, Bob Fyvie, Bill Hardy, Bob Burcin, John Salvador, Bryan Satterlee, Charles Kozichek, Frank Mattison, George Bartlett, and Norm Dion all played outstanding games as they brought the Little Brass Cannon, symbol of Middle Three Supremacy, home to Easton for the first time since 1944.

Snow, cold and dampness couldn't prevent the Maroon from going over for its fifth touchdown in its 35-6 romp over Brown from Bethlehem.

Lafayette's freshman football team, under the able direction of George McGaughey and Dave Curly, ended a winning season with a hard-fought 13-6 victory over a strong Lehigh eleven. Played under far from ideal conditions at the home field, the Leopard Cubs spotted the Little Engineers an early period score before roaring back in the later periods to even the score and then to forge ahead. Spearheaded by quarterback Jim Archdeacon, the Maroon sent halfback Dick Fritz and Dave Claus into paydirt as Roger Estler clinched the second drive with his game-deciding conversion.

Opening the season with Muhlenberg, the McGaughey men whipped the Mules by two touchdowns, bringing home the victory, 12-0. Unfortunately, however, the Maroon ran into trouble in their next two outings, losing first to the Delaware Blue Hens by a single point, 7-6, and then being swarmed under by a powerful Rutgers team, 28-2. Hofstra provided the fourth game on the schedule and after a quick Dutchman score, the Little Leopards found themselves and rolled up twenty points, winning 20-6 in a driving rainstorm.

Culminating their season with the Lehigh victory, the freshmen finished with a 3-2 skein, showing power and ability that will provide a wealth of varsity material in later years.

FROSH FOOTBALL

In order to give every student on the campus an opportunity to participate in some form of sport, Lafayette has constantly placed great emphasis on its intramural program. Of the various intramural programs played here, football is perhaps the most spirited and competitive. Indeed, some of the first signs of Fall is the appearance of fraternity and dormitory teams on the quadrangle preparing plays and formations for the coming season.

This year, divided into three fraternity leagues and one dormitory league, the end of the season found Delta Upsilon, Kappa Delta Rho and Phi Delta Theta victors over their fraternity opponents while Newkirk emerged victor in the dormitory league.

In the semi-finals Delta Upsilon won over Phi Delta Theta and Newkirk topped Kappa Delta Rho, both games ending by the score of 12-0 while in the final game Newkirk's Bulldogs overcame Delta Upsilon 14-0 and thus walked home with the coveted trophy.

SOCCER

The 1955 Soccer season could not be considered one of great success and achievement, as their record for the season provided a meager two wins as against seven losses and two ties. However, the Maroon booters performed a great deal better than their record indicates dropping five contests by only one point and two of these in overtime.

The season was highlighted by a 4-1 win in overtime over a strong Stevens squad, an aggregation which the Leopards hadn't beaten since 1936. In the next tilt, Coach George Davidson's charges held Temple to a 0-0 deadlock on March Field, also reversing a record of past defeat.

Traveling to Lancaster to open the season, the Maroon booters suffered a heartbreaking defeat in overtime by the score of 4-5, to a scrappy F & M squad. In the second contest, the Leopards bounced back to defeat Wilkes College, 1-0, but the third and fourth games once more found the Eastonians on the short end of the score losing to LaSalle and Haverford respectively.

The only relatively bright spot in the next few games occurred when the Leopards battled favored Seton Hall in a scoreless deadlock, gaining a hard fought draw in double overtime.

Five seniors bolstered the lineup this year, and played outstanding ball both offensively and defensively throughout the season. They were co-captains Jim Murphy, center half, and Pete Reeves, right half, while Charlie Ippolito, inside right, Al Pesky, left half, and Andy Feah, right full rounded out graduating contingent. The remainder of the starting lineup was made up of Bill Webster at the goal, Bill Wilcoxson at left full, Bob Stingle at outside left, Bob Lotz at inside right, Del Menges at center forward, and Harry Gruszecki at outside right. Other standouts who saw unlimited action were Dave Reeves, who alternated with Lotz at inside left, John Larson who saw a great deal of action at left half in place of Pesky and Pat Tidey.

The squad this year was under the reins of new mentor George Davidson, an excellent coach, who worked hard, and took an unusually keen interest in his team.

CROSS COUNTRY

The Lafayette Varsity cross country team under the reins of Coach Art Winters finished another credible season. First row: Dumond, Jarden, Bagger (Capt.), Blackmon, and Rude; Second row: Einstein (Mgr.), Piper, Gartner, Rogers, Lermond, Atkinson, and Winters (coach).

This year's cross country team under the tutelage of Coach Art Winters got off to a fine start as the Leopards gained four victories and a tie in the opening five contests. At mid-season, however, the thin clads ran into trouble as they dropped their remaining three tilts to Rutgers, LaSalle and Lehigh.

The opening meet with Swarthmore ended in a 28-28 tie, a rarity in cross country, as the points scored are usually an odd number. The Leopards then went on to defeat Albright, Temple, Muhlenberg and Haverford before encountering their first setback.

Entering the Middle Atlantic Championships and competing over an arduous five-mile course at Cedar Park in Allentown, the Leopards emerged sixth in a strong field of ten. Running for the Wintersmen this year were Bill Rude, John Bagger, Fuller Atkinson, Pete Rogers and Bill Sherman.

Sigma Chi this year won the Intramural Cross Country Championship over the grueling two-mile course. Their team: Freimark, Stockman, Heivly, Mendenhall, McKnight.

INTRAMURAL

Over a hundred representatives from fraternities and social dormitories took part in the annual Fall Intramural Cross Country Meet, which Sigma Chi Fraternity won with a low score of 16 points.

Larry McKnight of Sigma Chi was the individual winner of the race while Bob Kile of Phi Kappa Psi and Carl Mendenhall, another "Sig" captured second and third places respectively. Delta Upsilon finished close behind the victors while Phi Delta Theta placed third.

FRESHMAN

The Freshmen cross-country team posted its first victory in three years this season by defeating Muhlenberg in Cedar Park, 18-45. Although they were unable to gain another victory during the season, they managed to eke out a fourth place in the Middle Atlantic competition with Joe Stefanowicz and Dick Denman leading the way. A well balanced squad, the freshmen should prove valuable addition to next year's varsity team.

Coach Winters smiles approvingly as he reviews the performances of Standing: Baird, Broderick, Show, Denman, and Rohed; Kneeling: Johnson, Werner, Kennedy, and Falarkey; Missing from picture: Stefanowicz, all members of the freshman cross country team.

Jay Whitten looks on approvingly as Hank Whitten, his father and coach of the swimming team, gives last minute instructions to co-captains Bob Tunnessen and Ernest Seiter before a meet.

SWIMMING

The Maroon Natators, under the coaching of Hank Whitten, posted a 5 won, 7 lost record in its regular season meets this year. However, this slate does not portray an accurate picture of the success of the mermen. For the most part the Leopards competed out of their class, meeting such eastern standouts as Colgate, Rutgers, Penn, LaSalle, Princeton, and Lehigh. In their own league, so to speak, the Maroon lost only to West Chester, but avenged this defeat in the Middle Atlantics.

In this opening contest, the tankmen swamped a weak Penn Military College squad by 66-18, but were overcome in the second meet by a strong Colgate aggregation, 32-52. In the third and fourth contests the Leopards scored major victories over powerful Delaware and C.C.N.Y. squads, 60-24 and 52-32, respectively. The next two meets found the mermen going down to defeat at the hands of Rutgers and Penn, giving them an even 3-3 skein at the halfway mark. Temple offered little opposition to the tankers as they sank the Owls, 56-28. However, LaSalle and Princeton dropped the Maroon below the 500 mark with successive defeats, followed by an uneventful win over a weak Swarthmore team, 58-26. The Whittomen closed out their regular season by going down to defeat at the hands of Lehigh and West Chester.

The swimming team, Sitting: Jacoby, Rasmussen, Asch, J. Whitten, and Jones; Diving board: Brunswick, Zeyher, McFerren, and Detwiler; Standing: Piper, Tunnessen, Seiter, Runyon (Mgr.), and Whitten (Coach) is always ready for a dip.

A proud swimming team surrounds their happy coach who holds this year's Middle Atlantic's Swimming Championship Trophy.

MIDDLE ATLANTIC

The Lafayette Tankmen completely dominated the Middle Atlantic Collegiate Swimming Association Meet by hammering out a convincing 30 point triumph over a field of seven other teams, thus giving the Leopards their second straight M.A. crown.

Dave Zeyher won three medals for the Pards as he copped the 229 and 100 yard freestyles and the 400 yard relay. Captain Ernie Seiter, meanwhile, successfully defended his title in the diving event displaying his usual excellent form and precision. Dave Detwiler was the other individual winner for the Maroon, taking the 440 freestyle as the Leopards also won both relays to score a total of 93 points to runner up West Chester's 63.

INTRAMURAL

Pi Lambda Phi won the Intramural Swimming championship this year by scoring a total of 18 points to the 16 points totalled by runner-up Phi Kappa Psi. The Pi Lams took both the 150 yard medley relay and the 200 yard freestyle relay, and scored heavily in the other events.

The individual winners of the events were: Klein of Phi Psi in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle, Fitz of Zeta Psi in the 50 yard breaststroke, and Day from Sigma Nu in the 50 yard backstroke.

Zeta Psi took third place in the competition, garnering 12 markers while Phi Delta Theta's 9 points earned them fourth place in the meet.

The Pi Lambda Phi team, Kneeling: S. Rader, Kolbrener, and B. Rader; Standing: Feller, Blumenthal, and Frankel won the intramural swimming meet with plenty to spare.

Captain Ernie Peters drives in for a successful layup in the 85-83 decision over Princeton.

BASKETBALL

Led by Captain Ernie Peters, seniors T. Walker, G. Young, E. Knapp and B. Werner with juniors J. Radcliff and S. Murray and sophomore B. Mantz, furnished the school with a team of which it could be proud. Although handicapped by a poor start at the outset of the season, the Leopards went on a mid-season winning spell, winding up their campaign by notching fifteen victories in their last seventeen outings.

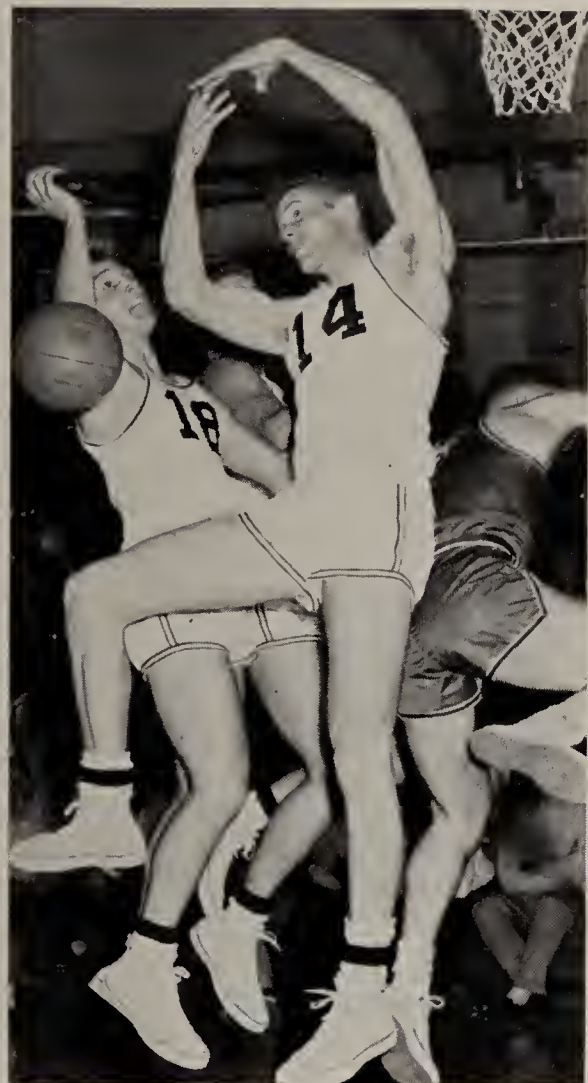

Highlights of the season were impressive victories over Muhlenberg and St. Joseph's and a one point loss to NCCA representative Temple on the Lafayette court. A high scoring club, this year's Maroon aggregation set several scoring marks and completely outclassed many of its opponents, several times tallying well into three figures. The Leopards appearance in the National Invitation Tournament put a finishing climax to the season, and insured Coach Davidson's charges a proper recognition for their successful efforts.

Knapp jumps and is destined to "dunk one" in Lafayette's second triumph of the season over Rutgers.

The Maroon courtmen opened the '55-'56 season with a 73-41 victory over Swarthmore. However, this proved only to be a warm-up in preparation for the next contest when the Tigers from Princeton invaded Alumni Gymnasium. It turned out to be one of the most exciting see-saw contests of the season, with the Maroon just squeezing out an 85-83 victory. Eddie Knapp played the best game of his college career, dumping in 27 points to lead all scorers, as in the next game Stu Murray paced the Leopards to a 97-86 win over Delaware.

With springs in their feet, two Lafayette men, Bob Mantz and Stu Murray fight a Temple rebounder unsuccessfully for control of ball.

Jim Radcliff and Ed Knapp audition for Sadler-Wells while leaping to deflect a Bucknell rebound early in this year's basketball season—the Leopards won 98 - 45.

VARSITY TEAM

The basketball squad this year once again represented us at The National Invitation Tourney in New York. First Row: Karetsky, Brett, Peters, (capt.) Murray, Warner, and Knapp. Second Row: Gustafson, Young, Galtere, Walker, Mantz, Radcliff, Jones, Mack, and Coach George Davidson.

The Leopard three game winning streak came to an end as the men from Easton traveled to Madison Square Garden in N. Y. C. only to fall before a good Manhattan College five 81-76. Despite a three point half time lead, the Maroon faltered and were swept under by the Jaspers' fine second half display.

In their next game the sleeping Leopards fell prey to LaSalle at the Palestra in Philadelphia by a fourteen point margin 95-81. Ed Knapp and George Young led the Maroon scoring, but as a team, the visitors could do little, as the red hot Explorers tallied on over 50% of their shots, in gaining the victory.

Finally, however, Ernie Peters led the team to victory over CCNY to bring the Leopards back to their winning ways before Lafayette journeyed to Buffalo for the Christmas holiday to compete in the Queen City Tournament. In the first round, last year's tourney champion, Canisus defeated the Maroon, 91-70. Lafayette bounced back to defeat Westminster in the next round 72-63 with Jim Radcliff leading the way, but the Eastonians days were numbered as powerful Niagara had an easy time and breezed home 89-69.

Todd Walker's hook shot is destined to fall short in Lafayette's second trouncing of the year over Lehigh—80 - 67.

A clutch basket during the last minute of play by Bob Werner and two fouls by Ed Knapp gave Lafayette a 70-67 win over Moravian and started the Maroon mid-year splurge that carried them to 11 successive victories. Strong outside shooting by Rider put a scare into the Maroon cagers in a close contest before the Leopards aided by Murray's 25 points eked out a 77-73 decision. The next two games provided a breathing space for Coach Davidson's charges as they smothered Lehigh 67-40 and then trounced the Bucknell Bisons 98-45. Upon encountering a tougher opponent, the Maroon played their best game of the season to date in downing the highly touted Muhlenberg Mules, 87-81.

Scranton was the sixth straight victim for Lafayette as they fell, 70-63 with Jim Radcliff's 21 points high for the night, while during mid-semester the Maroon added three more to their skein defeating Albright, St. Joseph's and Wilkes. The St. Joseph's game played at Philadelphia was an important one as a Hawks victory may well have ended tournament hopes for the Pard. Todd Walker paced the club with 15 points in the 79-68 struggle.

"Tipsie" Werner jumps high in the air to capture a rebound from a Princeton man in Lafayette's second victory of the season.

Back home again the Davidsonians set a new Alumni Gymnasium scoring record as Lafayette mauled Rutgers 110-63 in tuning up for their second game with Muhlenberg. The Mules battled Lafayette down to the wire, but six straight points by Stu Murray gave Lafayette a dramatic 58-57 victory and put Lafayette in contention for tournament consideration.

A captain and his coach; Coach G. Davidson and captain Ernie Peters were an almost invincible duo throughout the '55-'56 hoop season.

CAPTAIN, COACH, and MANAGERS

The high flying Temple Owls broke with the Maroon's eleven-game winning streak by taking a thrilling 66-65 contest in the home lair of the Leopards. Guy Rogers late game play sewed up the contest for the visitors and offset the work of Lafayette's Stu Murray, the game's high scorer.

Back once again on the winning ways, Davidson's men disposed of Lehigh, 80-67, behind Jim Radcliff, Stu Murray, and Ernie Peters. The Maroon victory, by the way, marked the 28th consecutive Eastonian victory over the Engineers, who have not defeated Lafayette in basketball since 1942.

On their last road trip of the campaign, the Leopards took three in a row from Bucknell, Gettysburg, and Rutgers. The trip was highlighted by record breaking scores of 103-76 over Gettysburg and 111-69 over Rutgers.

In the final game of the regular season, however, St. Josephs avenged an earlier season defeat at the hands of the Pards, edging the Davidsonmen, 84-80. Jim Radcliff harvested 35 points for the losers, but his work was more than balanced by a consistent Hawk attack which proved too much for the home side.

A vital part of the basketball squad is the managers: Shomon, Unkel, Branch, and Smith.

MANTZ

For the second consecutive year the Lafayette College Basketball team competed in the National Invitation Tournament in Madison Square Garden, culminating a somewhat uneven but successful 1955-56 season.

Pitted against a fine St. Francis of Brooklyn team, the invading Eastonians fell victim to the jinx that has deprived them of victory in their past ten contests in the Garden, bowing to the Terriers by a 85-74 score.

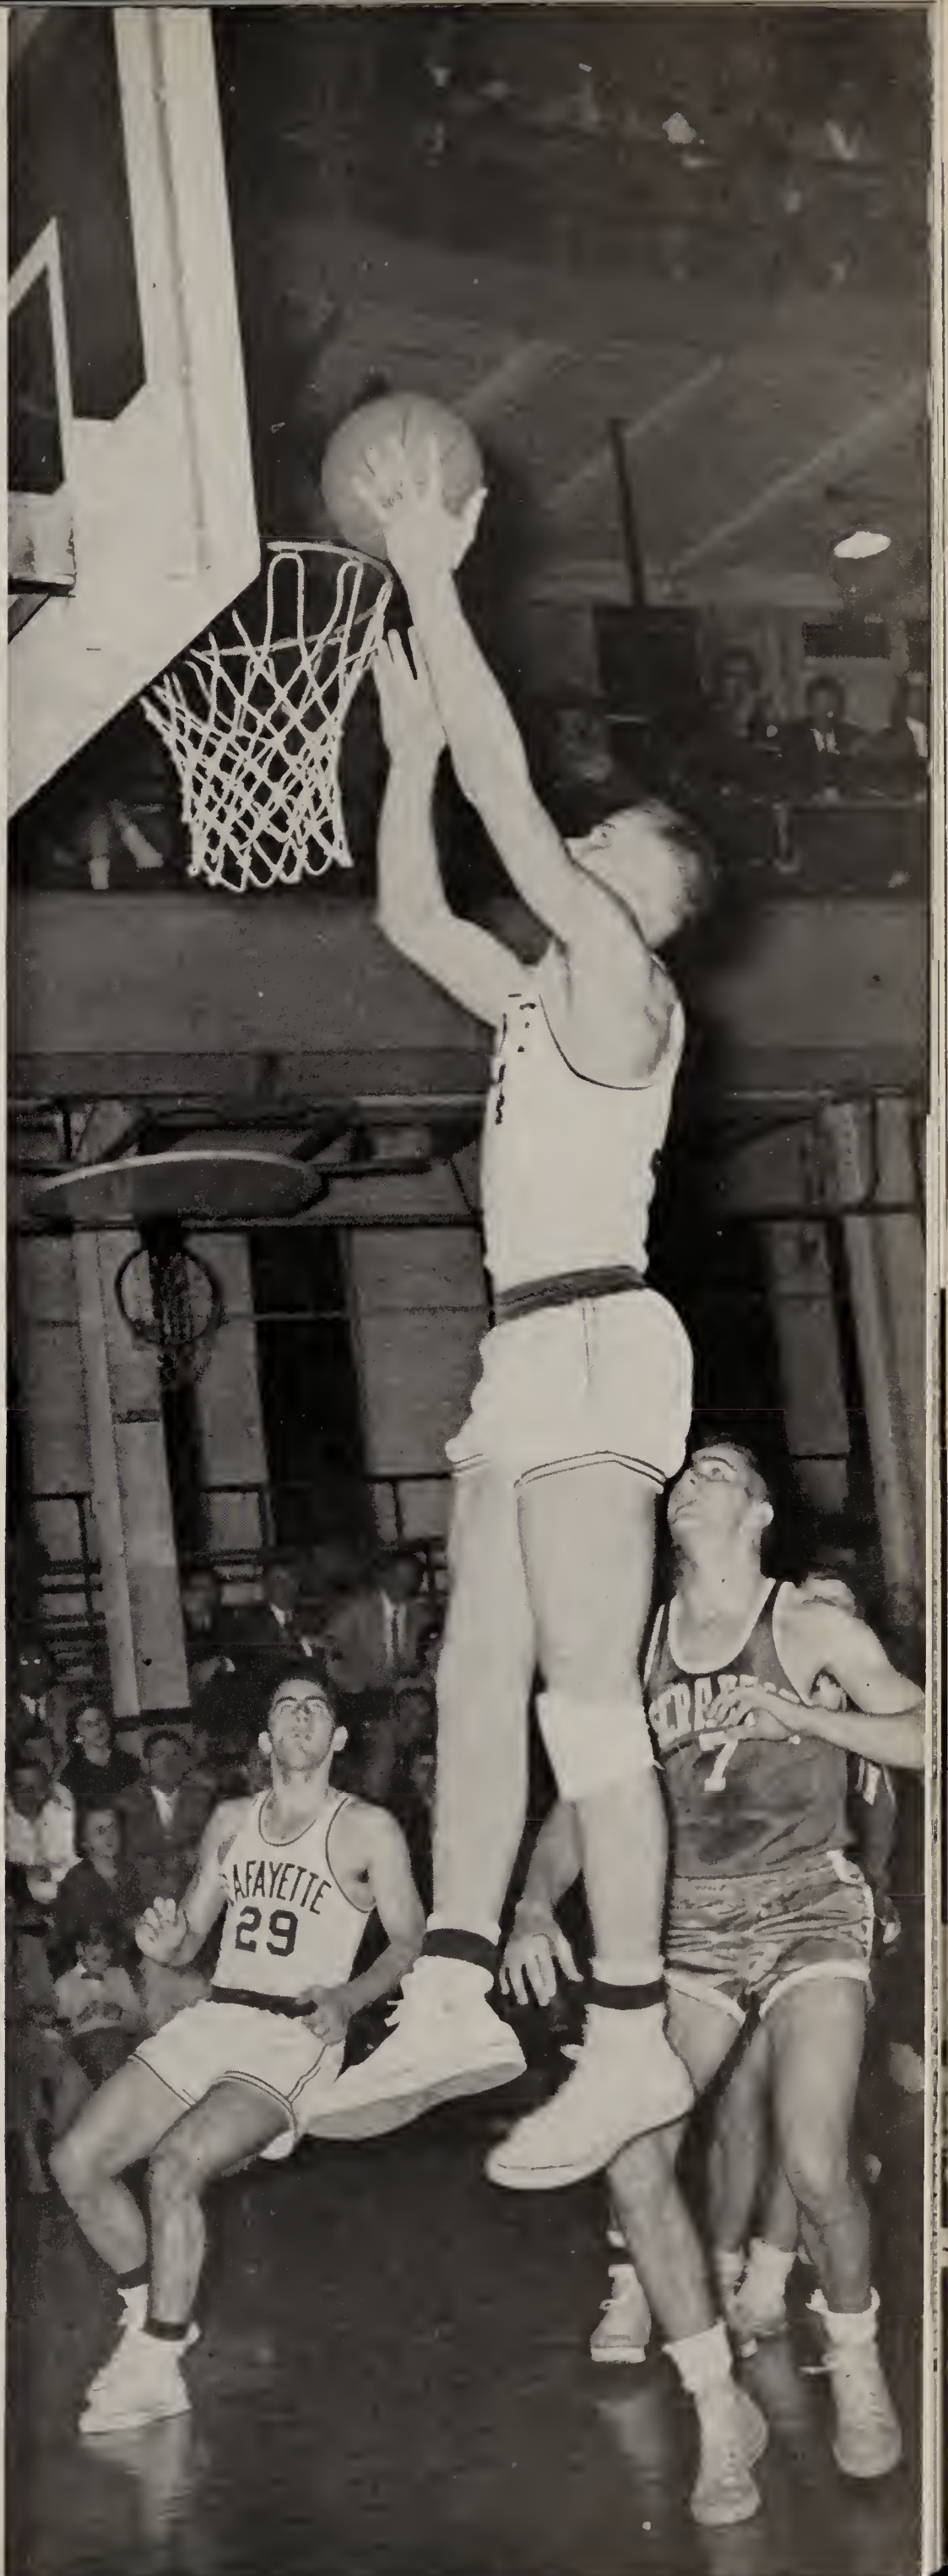

Despite the seemingly high margin of victory, the Leopards played well, consistently driving from behind to match the score and again to gain the lead. However, the loss of big Bob Mantz in the last quarter proved decisive as the Terriers dominated the backboards, and although a closing surge by the Maroon nearly evened the score, it fell a few points short of the needed quantity. As the minutes swept by, the Brooklyn five managed a successful semi-freeze which drove the hustling Leopards to frequent fouling in their desperate attempts to get the ball, and greatly increased the margin of victory.

Lafayette's greatest moments of glory came in the closing minutes of the first half and then again in the early part of the second half. Just when St. Francis pulled away to a comfortable margin and Lafayette seemed out of the tournament, the Leopards came roaring back to tie up the game and dominated the play. However, the third St. Francis surge proved fatal as their seven point splurge in the third quarter ultimately proved insurmountable.

Stu Murray was the only Leopard to hit consistently throughout the game, scoring a total of 22 points and leading his mates in rebounds. However, George Young and Jim Radcliff, added greatly to the Lafayette cause, sparking the Maroon when they needed it most.

Jim Radcliff literally dunks one in Lafayette's 76-62 romp over Scranton in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium.

The freshman basketball team, First Row: Vacca, Salvati, Kohler, Strohecker, and Gelbert (coach); Second Row: Hannemann (trainer), Washington, Crean, Martini, and Hjelte; and Third Row: Jones (mgr.), Sterline, Comes, LaDonne, and Franks, proved that Lafayette need not fear losing its basketball supremacy for quite a while.

FROSH BASKETBALL

Members of the Lafayette Freshman Squad watch the ball as it rims the basket.

Utilizing a scoring punch which netted a total of 1242 points for the season, Charlie Gelbert's freshmen basketball charges recorded another winning season with their 77.8 average per game, as against their opponents' 68.5 output insured an overall 12 won 4 lost slate. The frosh's highest game tally was reached in their last contest when they scored 111 markers against The Mack Printing Shops vanquishing 37 points. Their most severe setback came when Mattel and Kessler of the baby Mules scored 30 and 27 points respectively to hand the Leopards an 87-64 loss. Two of the four teams that beat the freshmen, Rutgers and Muhlenberg, had previously gone down to defeat to the Pardlings with only Princeton and Rider ending the season with a clean slate against them. Following the example of the varsity, the frosh took arch-rival Lehigh to the cleaners twice, 63-60 and 86-74.

The team was lead by Richie Kohler, Joe Sterlein and Ernie Franks, all of whom averaged 11 points a game, while the other freshmen on the team, were: Dick Vacca, Eddie Washington, Marlin Strohecker, Skip Hjelte, Fred Salvati, Gerty Crean, Don Martin, Roger Comes, and Fred LeDonne. These men should prove a welcome addition to Coach Davidson's varsity in the coming years.

INTRAMURAL

Bottom Row: Tiger, A. Wilson, Fredericks, and M. Wilson; Standing: Machiorlete, Masters, Downes, Murray, and Radcliff—coach, won the intramural basketball championship this year for the Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity.

A well-balanced Phi Kappa Psi aggregation gained the intramural Basketball crown this year advancing undefeated to the final game. Led by Richie Masters and Andy Wilson, the men of the Grey Barn drew a bye in the quarter final before defeating Pi Lambda Phi 56-49 in the title match.

Captain Jim Lambert, Ron Dinger, Bob Chew, and Pete Schutte brought the Intramural Bowling trophy to the S.A.E. house this year by handily defeating Sigma Chi, Kappa Sigma, and Phi Kappa Tau in the championship matches.

In the regular season the S.A.E.'s posted a terrific 23-1 log, averaging approximately 160 per man, to gain their payoffs. The Strollers topped the highly touted ROTC-A unit to become undisputed champs in the dorm league.

I.M. BOWLING

Capt. Clinedinat gives some bowling pointers to interested men. They are: Morris, Rossman, Puckette, and Randolph.

Coach Eisenhauer gives Sayenga and Hutchison a few tips while the remainder of the wrestling team, First Row: Schleikorn, Sinibaldi, and Cherry; Second Row: Georgion, Mgr., Zaratany, Stern, Beyland, Mgr., Dillon, Hannemann and Heivly, look on.

WRESTLING

The Maroon Matmen continued their winning ways this season, dropping but one regular season match to Wilkes College, and chalking up a 10-1 final record. The Grapplers then went on to win handily the Middle Atlantic Championship, held this year at Muhlenburg.

Wrestling at Lafayette has become one of the most outstanding sports of the college, as the team has compiled an overall slate of 41 wins, 3 losses and 1 tie in the past three years, a record which speaks for itself.

Coach Frank Eisenhauer has done an excellent job in the years he has coached wrestling and has always come up with a winning combination. This year's team was well balanced in all weights. Garth Heivly represented the 123-lb. post, with Lee Schleikorn at 130 lbs., Al Zaratany at 137, Middle Atlantic Champions, Ralph Hutchison and Larry Dillon at 147 and 157 respectively, Bob Stern at 167, Pete Sinibaldi at 177, and Middle Atlantic Champion, Don Sayenga at heavyweight. Sayenga by the way, compiled a phenomenal record of 11 straight pinning efforts during the season.

Three men highly instrumental in bringing the Middle Atlantic Wrestling Championship to Lafayette, co-captain Ralph Hutchison, Coach Eisenhauer, and co-captain Don Sayenga.

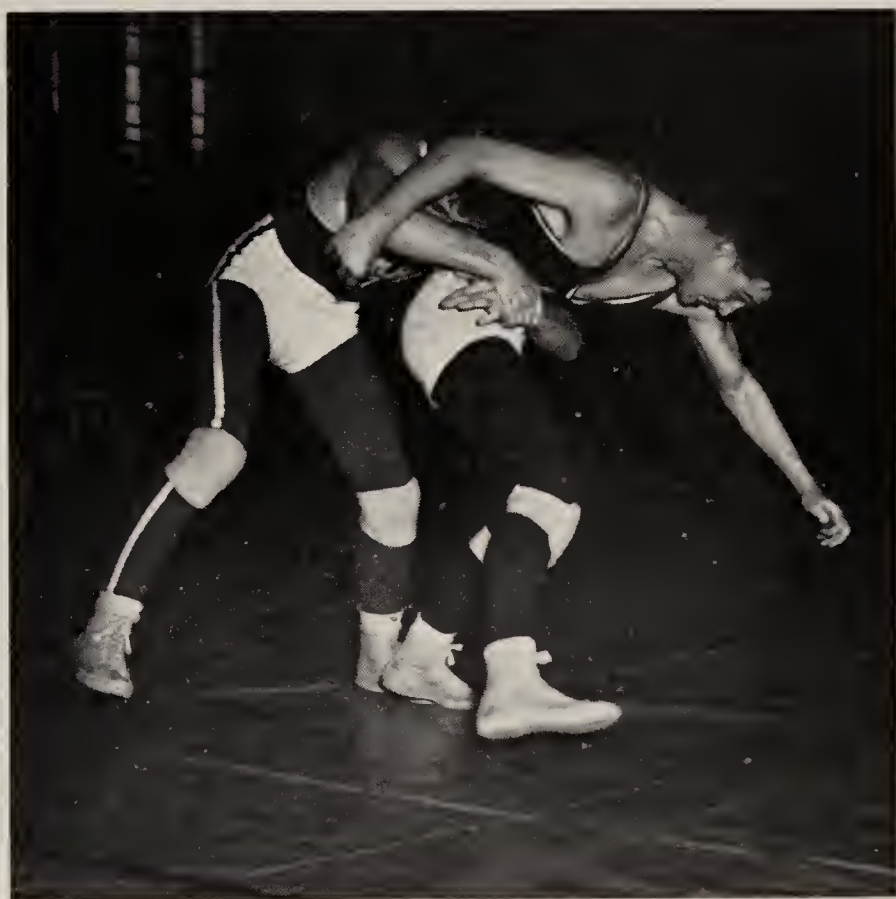

Sinibaldi flips his Wilkes College opponent over his back and proceeds to win his match handily.

Hutchison rises from the canvass in an amazing escape from his Temple adversary's clutches and goes on to pin his opponent in the third period of their match.

Led by senior champions Ralph Hutchison, Don Sayenga, and Larry Dillon, Lafayette broke the Gettysburg stronghold on the Middle Atlantic's wrestling title, this year, by a convincing victory over the Bullets. Other teams competing in the tournament were Bucknell, Delaware, Muhlenburg, Ursinus, Haverford, and Swarthmore.

It was a team victory as the Maroon placed 7 out of 8 grapplers in the semi-finals. Co-Captains Sayenga and Hutchison gained their second straight crowns and were undefeated for the season as the Pards scored a total of 34 points to Gettysburg's 19.

Sayenga is about to pin Mitchell of Gettysburg in one of the "big man's" roughest matches of the year.

Dillon looks disturbed but goes on for a victory in his match against Gettysburg.

Under the coaching of Captain Clinedinst and Sergeant Handeland, the Maroon Riflemen compiled a mediocre 2 won, 4 lost record this year. However, despite the record, the team has been improving steadily over the past few years and interest in rifle marksmanship has been growing on the campus. The Maroon dropped their opening match to Lehigh, 1378-1302, but came back strong to gain an impressive win over LaSalle, 1341-1302, in the second match. The following three matches found the Maroon falling at the hands of powerful Penn, Villanova, and Drexel squads, respectively. The sharpshooters entered the victory column once again in the final match of the season to hand Drexel a 1346-1341 setback, to avenge the previous defeat. Other matches with Lehigh, Dickinson, Penn, and Temple were scheduled but cancelled as a result of the fire in South College which destroyed the rifle range.

Co-captain Rudi Prusok led Lafayette in scoring in every match, averaging around 279 points. Alvin Morris, the other co-captain, also scored well in all the matches. The rest of the team was composed of Ron May, Don Puckette, John Randolph, Bob Horn, Bob Rossman, and Paul Narkiewicz.

The rifle team competes in many post and "live" matches each year. Here Capt. Clinedinst (coach) is flanked by Prusok and Morris, co-captains.

The 1956 Lacrossmen will be out to better last season's record of 1 win against 7 losses, and all indications show that the team should do just that. Charlie Best has taken over as head coach this year and has done a fine job in getting the team rounded into shape for the '56 campaign. Although the loss of fine regulars through graduation will be felt, the return of many veterans and a promising crop of sophomores point to an improved and highly successful season.

A senior midfield composed of Charlie Ippolito, Pete Reeves, and Vinny Alto will center the squad while returnees Norm Hume, Gordy Wentworth and Warren Mann will furnish the attacking punch for our netmen. A strong, veteran defense composed of Dick Graham, Soc Hiotakis, and Bob Thomas will see much action in front of sophomore Gary Rauch, who will undertake the job as goalie for the team. Such newcomers as Harry Beiswenger, Hank Habbersett and Fuller Atkinson should provide the reserve strength needed to give the Bestmen a winning year.

Opening their campaigning against Swarthmore, the Maroon will meet Adelphi, their only victory last year on the afternoon of spring I-F, then they encounter CCNY, Stephans, Drexel, Delaware, and Penn before winding up the season at Lehigh.

Coach Charlie Best and manager Nathan Finkel have high hopes for a successful lacrosse season.

"Oh well, I really did need the time to study," thinks a "bedrizzled" Jack Sallada as "Jup Pleuvius" rains out the season's first baseball game.

Howie Fredericks slides home in the Yale game to give the Maroon their first run in their 3-0 victory.

The Lafayette College Baseball Team is the pride of the campus having gained an outstanding reputation in the past several seasons. In 1948, 1953, and 1954 Lafayette won the District 2, N.C.A.A. Championships and the '53 and '54 teams played in the College World Series in Omaha, Nebraska. The 1955 team won the Middle Atlantic Collegiate Conference Championships and was in the District 2 playoffs held last year in Allentown.

The most important factor in determining the success of any team is a good coach, and in this department the Maroon baseball team is fortunate to have such an outstanding mentor as Charlie Gelbert. Gelbert, former shortstop for the St. Louis Cardinals, is embarking upon his eleventh year as coach of the Leopards, during which time his teams have compiled an enormous record of 148 winning efforts as compared to a mere 77 defeats.

A veteran of long baseball experience, Gelbert, upon graduation from college, joined the St. Louis Cardinal's baseball organization in 1927 and in a few short years he became the shortstop for the parent club. He was a member of the 1930 team which won the National League Championship and the 1931 team which won the World's Series. As his record shows, Gelbert is one of the leading college baseball coaches in the country, and Lafayette fans can always be confident that their team will have a successful season. 1956 should be no exception.

Watts rounds first on a long double to right-center in the Yale baseball game.

Lafayette's varsity baseball team embarks on a grueling twenty-nine game schedule this spring well supplied with veterans and promising material in almost every department. Pitching, however, remains an unknown quantity in Coach Gelbert's mind as he must seek replacements for three missing front-line hurlers. Roger Gordon, bulwark of the '55 squad, has graduated, while Dick Fitzgerald, a highly promising southpaw sporting a 1.9 earned run average, has entered professional baseball. The third mainstay from last year's nine, Tom Maurer, left school before the year began to enter the Navy.

To fill the gap left by these veterans, Gelbert will draw from a crop of talented sophomores from last year's freshman squad and three remaining holdovers from last year's varsity, Bill Tate, Pat Tidey, and Howie Stonehart. Bruce Bechtold, ace of the freshman squad, has shown much promise in pre-season drills, while Tom Murphy, Les Franklin, and Al Caesar are all being groomed to take a large share of the pitching burden during the season.

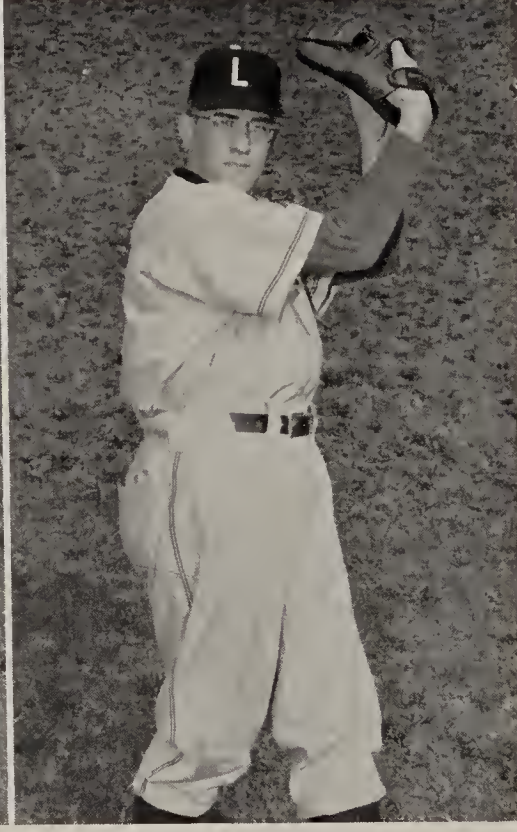

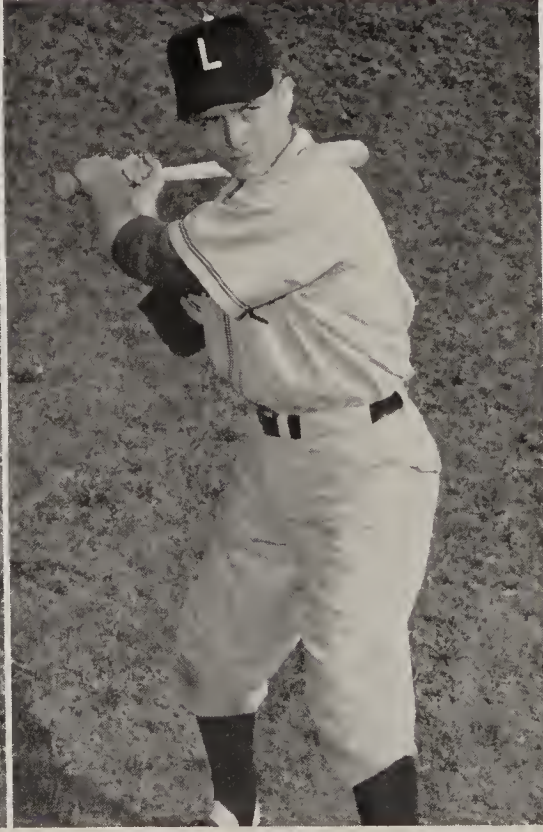

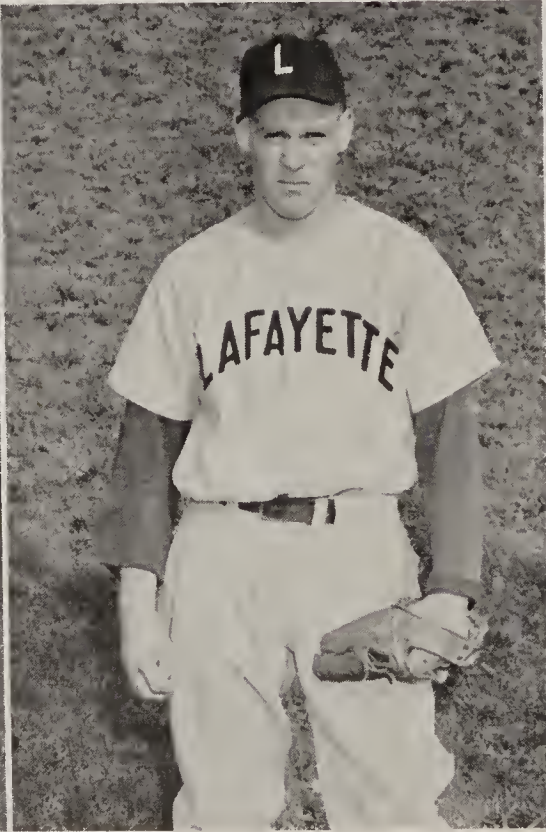

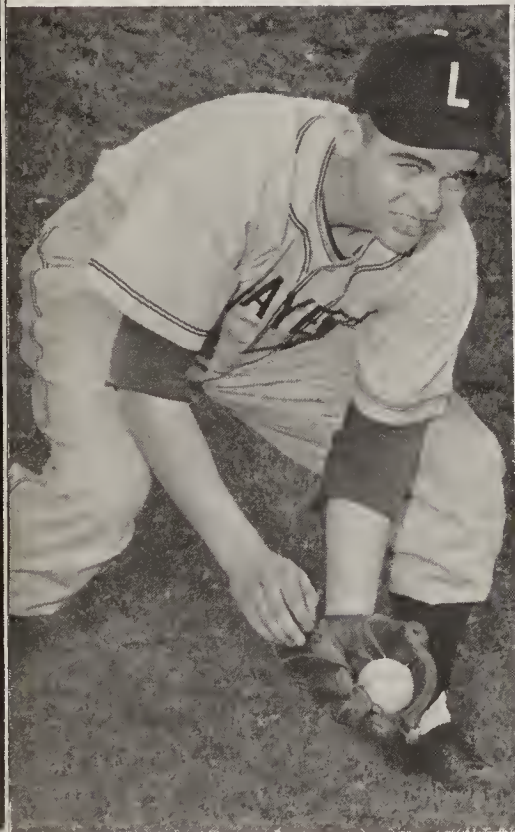

In virtually every other department, however, Gelbert can count on a wealth of experience and talent with a strong fielding team well supplied with hitting power. Last year's keystone combination of shortstop Ernie Peters and second baseman Howie Fredericks returns promising deft ball handling at the keystone corner and power at the plate. Stu Murray and Tom Good, last year's third basemen, will have strong competition from sophomore flash Al Caesar at the hot corner, while Tom Morgan, a stand-out on the freshman team, brings sparkling fielding and a fine batting eye to the infield. Paul Reiter, a returnee from last year at first base, may face strong bids from both sophomores and the possibility of conversions from other positions before he earns a starting berth.

STONEBACK

Pitcher Howie Stoneback covers the plate on a wild pitch as a LaSalle runner scores. The Leopards lost 7-5.

The outfield is also loaded with talent as four men are returning from last year, since George Watts one of the best hitters on the team in 1954, seems to have completely recovered from the chronic ankle injury which kept him sidelined for most of the past season. Bob Machiorlette, another senior, played centerfield last season, drove in 18 runs, and led the team in homeruns with six. Juniors Gordie Brown and Jack Slotter fill out the list of returning veterans. Brown saw duty both in right and left field last year, hit an even .300 clip while Slotter, the regular leftfielder, was the lead off man in the batting order and a standout defensively.

Behind the plate, meanwhile, three outstanding sophomores will be vying for the regular catcher's position in competition with holdover Ron Adams. They are Ted Sloan, Carl Mendenhall, and Charlie Rose.

GOOD

MACHIORLETTE

The 1955 edition of the Maroon baseball team culminated a highly successful season by winning the Middle Atlantic Collegiate Baseball Conference championship. In the regular season, the Leopards lost only 5 of the 23 games they played, and of those 5 losses, 4 were by only 1 run.

After opening their season with a shattering 15-3 victory over Moravian, the Maroon suffered their first setback at the hands of LaSalle in the second contest, 6-7, before embarking on their first road trip. Returning home with impressive wins over Seton Hall, Georgetown, and Delaware, the Leopards dropped their second heartbreaker to a strong Penn State aggregation, 4-3.

Throughout the remainder of the season, the Maroon played consistent ball, their only shutout coming at the hands of Lehigh's Frank Yurek, who handicapped the Eastonians with the aid of three Engineer batters to win 0-3. Defeats by Colgate, 4-5, and Temple, 1-2, were the only other blemishes on the slate as the season ended with the Leopards defeating Fordham, Rider, and Princeton.

Entering the District 2 NCAA playoffs, Charlie Gelbert's charges were eliminated in the first round by Ithaca College. Walter Judd, the winning pitcher completely stymied the Maroon, striking out 18 batters and giving up but one Leopard safety in nine innings of almost perfect hurling.

Overcoats are in evidence as a chilled crowd of Lafayette faithful cheer their team on to an early April victory over Yale, 3-0.

The gloves are put away, the players are in the showers, and the hopes for tomorrow's game high as dusk descends on the deserted diamond.

Sigma Chi takes their second season as softball champs. Kneeling: Parker, Pelesh, Myers, McEvoy, and Florence. Standing: Schaffroth, Karasic, Shaddock, Bartlett, Barber, Cingle, Nelson, Heivly, and Harfst.

Left: Bob Machiorlete reaches first base safely on his long single to center, but to no avail, as Moravian beat us 7-4.

INTRAMURAL

Behind the fireball pitching of Neal Pelesh, Sigma Chi copped the Intramural Softball Championship in 1955. The Sigs knocked off Theta Delta Chi, in a high scoring contest, 19-15 in their semi-finals contest, while the other semi-final game saw Newkirk outscore D.U., 6-3.

In the finals, Sigma Chi beat Newkirk, 10-7, in a close contest to gain the coveted trophy. The Sigs will have the same team back this year with the exception of Pelesh.

Sayenga goes through his paces in the high hurdles preparing for the opening track meet of the coming campaign.

Coach Art Winters gives track team captain Charlie Myers a little pre-meet advice.

VARSITY TRACK

Effort is spelled all over Myers face as he leaps to a winning jump in his first effort of Lafayette's infant track season.

The 1956 Track Team, under the watchful eye of Coach Art Winters, will have to work hard to better last season's record of 6 wins against only 1 loss.

Captain Arnie Forrest lead the Maroon to their first 1955 victory over Haverford, $68\frac{1}{2}$ - $57\frac{1}{2}$, by winning the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Other winners in the opener were Charlie Myers in the broad jump, Bob Sweeney in the mile, Bill Rude in the 440, Jerry Spacek in the shotput, and Jim Radcliff in the high jump. In the second meet the Leopards proceeded to drub Swarthmore, 85-41, before emerging 4th in their class in the famed Penn Relays.

The single defeat of the season came at the hands of a star-studded St. Joseph's team, $57\frac{2}{3}$ - $68\frac{1}{3}$, who went on to win the Middle Atlantic Track Championship.

In their next meet the Maroon jumped back to their winning ways by soundly trouncing Muhlenburg by a 99-27 score, with Myers, Sweeney, Barber, Radcliff, Rude, Moss, Rogers, Spacek, McGrail, Frey, and Ulin leading the onslaught.

As a team, the cindermen placed fifth in the Middle Atlantics, scoring a total of $18\frac{1}{2}$ points, but the meet was highlighted by the efforts of Ken Barber and Jim Radcliff, who together, broke the school high jump record with leaps of 6 feet $2\frac{3}{4}$ inches.

The Leopards closed out the 1955 season with successive wins over LaSalle, Rutgers, and Lehigh by tallies of 65-61, 72-59, and $80\frac{2}{5}$ - $45\frac{1}{5}$ points, respectively.

Bill Rude breaks the tape in the 440 yard run in 49.2 sec. in the Temple meet which Lafayette won 88-38.

Dick Jones displays championship form in the discus throw. The coach has high hopes that he will break the school record this season.

St. Joseph's and LaSalle will again provide the keenest competition for the Maroon cindermen this season, in a schedule which no longer includes Scranton. Rutgers and Lehigh are expected to give the Maroon trouble since both teams have gained a great deal of depth from last year's freshman teams, while newcomer Temple adds an unknown quality to the seasons contests.

Captain Charlie Myers, Middle Atlantic Champions, Ken Barber and Jim Radcliff, Bill Rude, Pete Rogers, and John Bagger head the list of returning veterans to this year's squad.

Myers and newcomer Bryan Satterlee, will handle the sprints for the cindermen. Satterlee was also a stand-out on this year's indoor mile relay team as Rude, Rogers, and sophomore Jim Hourihan, the other members of the relay team, will compete in the 440 and 880 events.

In the mile and two mile contests, Lafayette will be represented by veteran seniors John Bagger, Larry Sherman, and juniors Bob Moss and Bill Lermond.

The jumping events look very strong with Radcliff and Barber, M.A. champs and co-holders of the college high jump record, leading the way. The pole vault will be handled by sophomore Fred Graf and senior Bob Burcin, while Captain Myers will represent our team in the broad-jump. Don Sayenga, Jim Sweet, and Billy Gano provide the scoring punch in the high and low hurdles.

In the weight division Jones, Taylor, Forman, Craig, Blackfan, Grube, and Schiava will all vie for starting positions.

Ken Barber, on whose shoulders rest our high hopes for the high jump, gets in shape for the first meet with Temple.

Sam Ziltz knocks over the bar in an attempt to clear six feet.

MILE RELAY TEAM

On Pete Rogers, Bill Rude, Bryan Satterlee, and Jim Hourihan lie our hopes for success in the mile relay this Spring. They performed well during the indoor track season.

This year, Lafayette sponsored the first indoor mile relay team in the history of the college. The team composed of Bryan Satterlee, Jim Hourihan, Pete Rogers and Bill Rude, ran in the N.Y.A.C. Indoor Track Meet in Madison Square Garden, placing a very respectable third in competition against the top collegiate relay teams in the east.

In previous meets, the talented four won their heat in the Inquirer Games at Convention Hall, and placed third at two other outings in the Garden.

Fore! Wardell gives a few pointers to Hock, Lohr, Schissel, and Parr (capt.), members of the golf team.

The 1956 golf team is out to better last season's 5 won, 6 lost record, and from all indications they should have no trouble. The team will have four veterans returning from last year's squad along with many other promising candidates.

Those returning include last year's co-captain Bill Parr, Richie Locke, Art Schissel, and Charlie Hock. This year's captain is Al Wardell, a standout of several seasons ago, who is returning to college after a hitch in the service. Senior Bill Lohr who didn't play last year will be back to add more strength to the Maroon in the coming campaign.

There are a few outstanding sophomores however, who could make it difficult for the old timers to keep their positions. Mike Holden is expected to aid the Maroon cause a great deal as he placed second in the Pennsylvania State Juniors Tournament last year. In all, a record number of 25 candidates turned out at a pre-season meeting.

The '55 season can be termed successful in spite of a mediocre record, as the golfers faced many of the finest golf teams in the East. Co-captain John McDermond led the team in the number one spot, often shooting in the seventies. Number two man was Art Schissel, third was Richie Lock, with co-captain Bill Parr and Charlie Hock filling out the fourth and fifth positions.

GOLF TEAM

Sutphen returns a bundle of athletic equipment to George Dickey; the man to see about everything from sneakers to catcher's masks.

Five returning lettermen will provide a strong nucleus for coach Bill Kuebler's version of Lafayette's 1955 varsity tennis team. Seniors Lee Kane, Chuck Dumond, Ted Patterson, and Wayne Erb will constitute the backbone of the squad, while juniors Harvey Milowe and Bob Rios and a strong turnout of underclassmen will round out the squad.

Playing the same schedule as last year, the Kueblermen will encounter especially strong opposition from Swarthmore, Haverford, Bucknell and Lehigh.

The 1955 season got off to a slow start as the netmen dropped their first two matches to Bucknell, 3-6, and Haverford, 2-7. In the first home match, however, the Maroon came back strong to drub LaSalle, 9-0 and from there they went on to win handily against St. Joseph's, Rutgers, Albright, Lehigh, and Franklin and Marshall. A powerful Swarthmore team set back the Maroon netsters, shutting them out by a 0-9 score, but the Leopards made the season a success with a convincing 8-1 triumph over Muhlenburg.

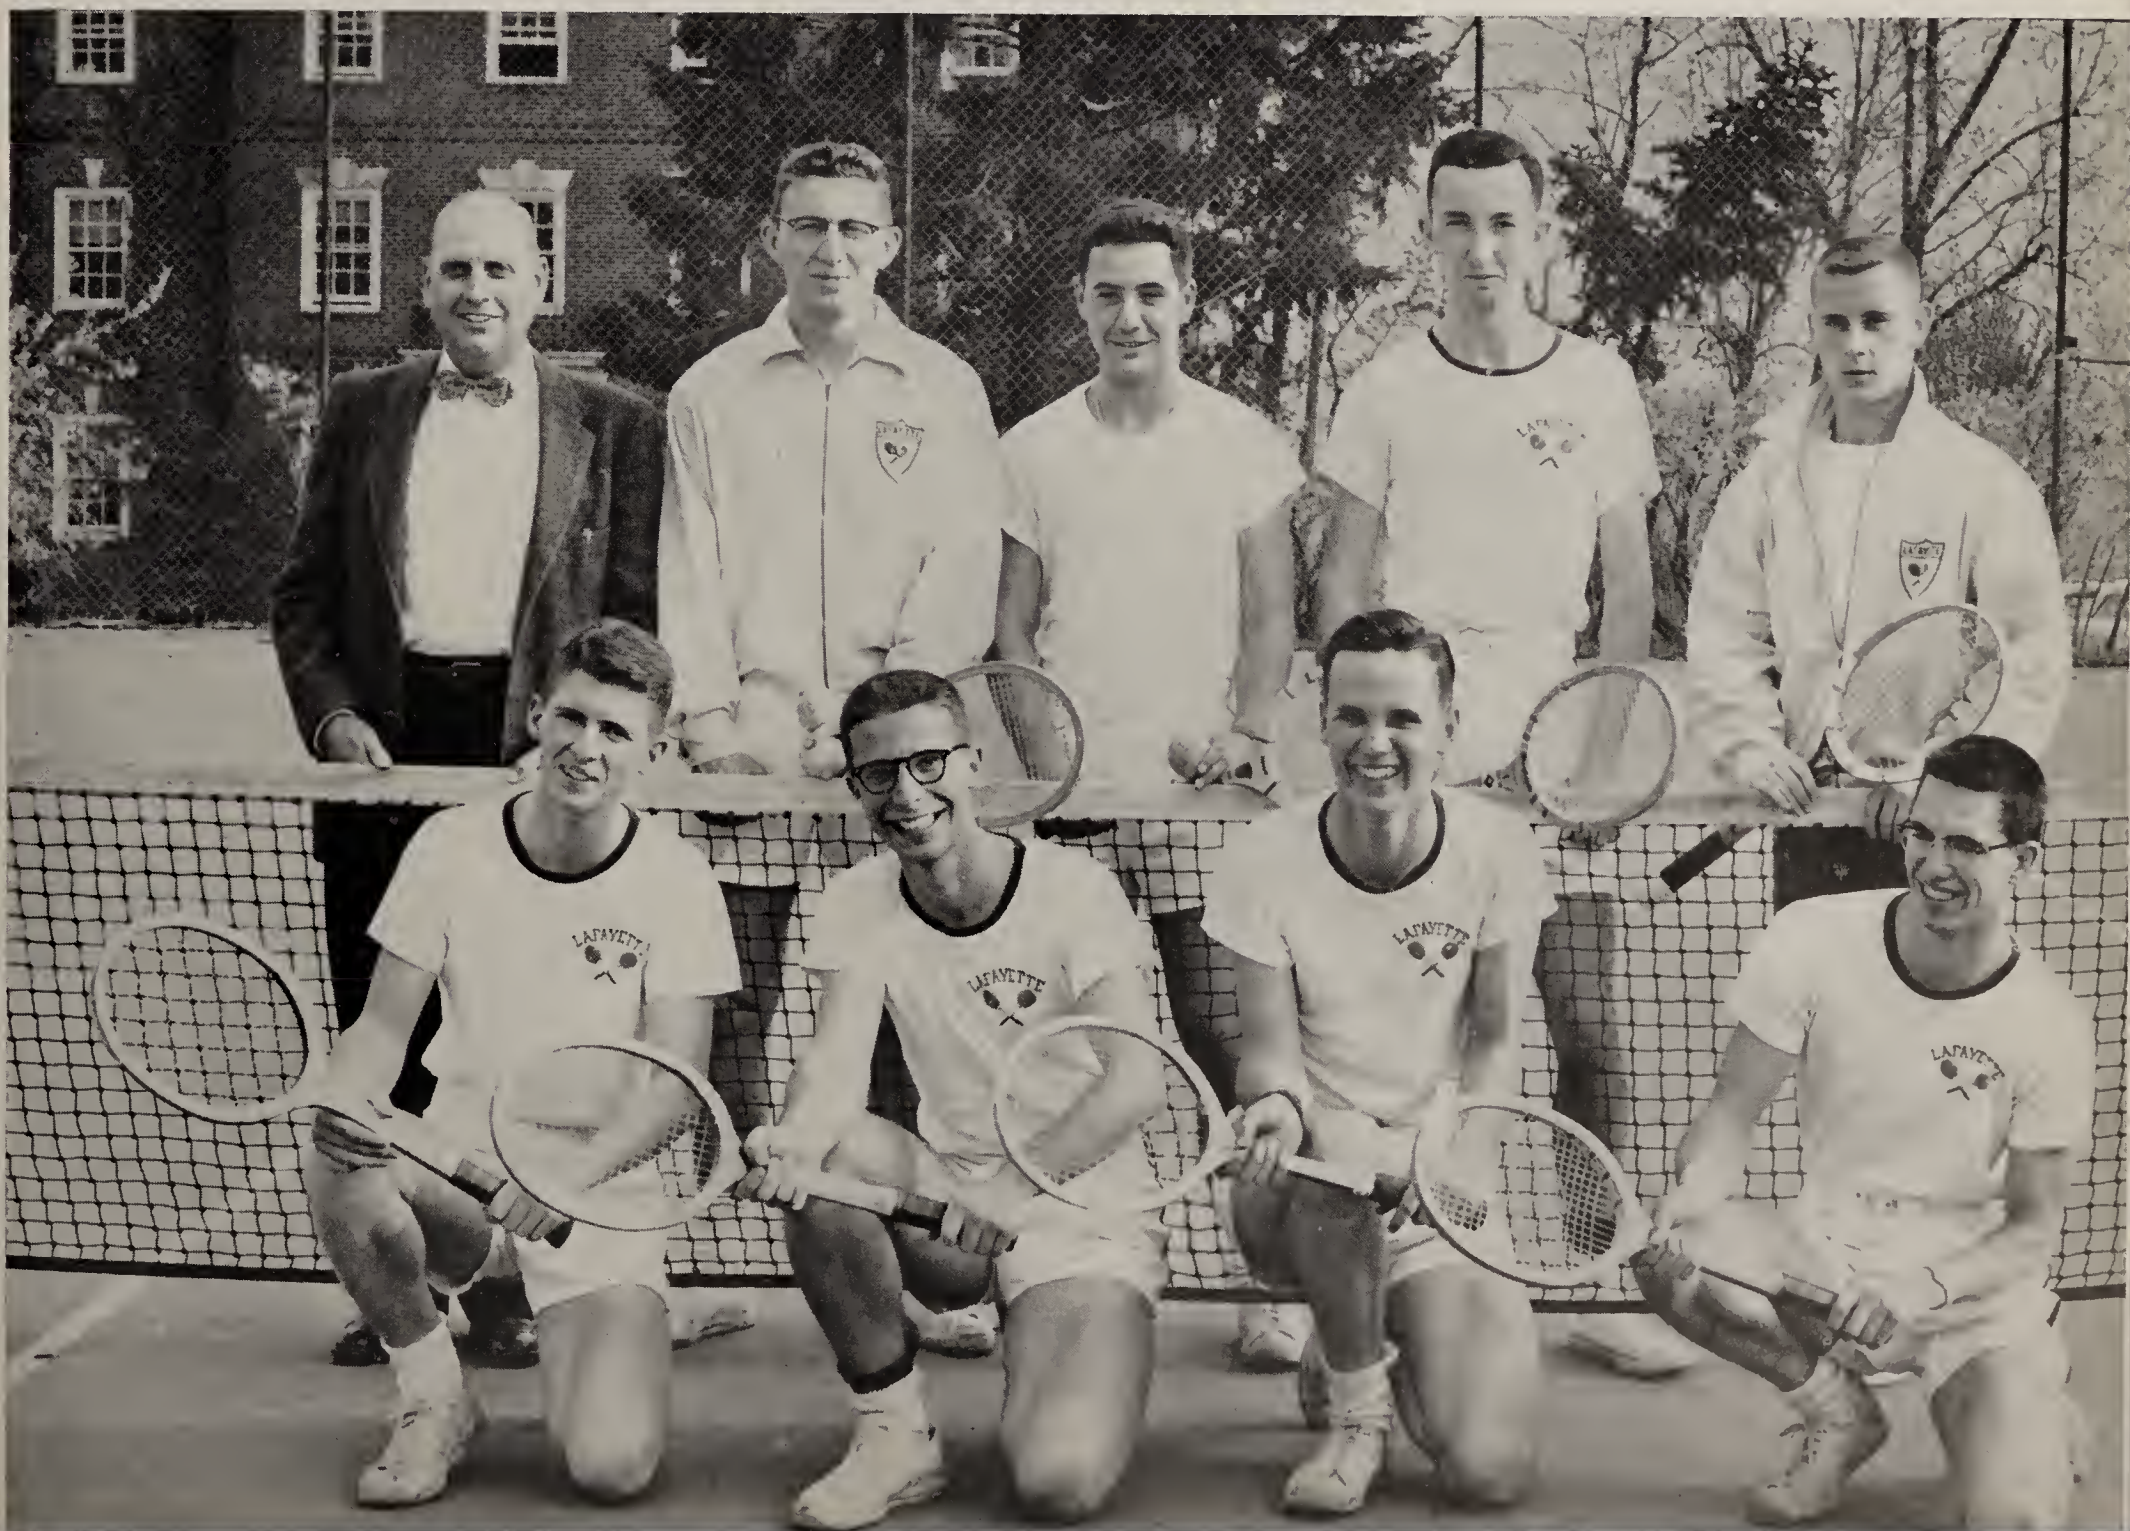

This year aside from their regular schedule, the Maroon plans to compete in the Middle Atlantics at Delaware, rounding out what should be a big year for the tennismen.

Tennis coach Kuebler discusses the schedule for the year with Reeves (Mgr.).

The busy life of the campus, the demands of scholarship and the work done in extracurricular activities, no matter how necessary and beneficial to the student would soon become tedious and difficult to him were it not relieved from time to time with a change, in the pace of regular campus activity. The social holidays with their gay round of parties and dances, offer a time of relaxation and enjoyment to the undergraduate, permitting him to forget the cares of college life for a few hours and allowing him to lose himself in gaiety. Other parties and dances during the year supplement these larger activities and offer periodic moments of relaxation to the hard working student. On special dates such as Founders Day, Skit Nite, and Parents' Day, to name but a few, the undergraduate is offered the opportunities to enjoy festivities which have become traditional with Lafayette. Religious activity highlighted by the annual Religious Emphasis Week present a moment for reflection and consideration as visiting clergymen lead discussions in theology and religion and the problems confronting it in the present day. In all these activities, in the which of parties, step singing contests, skit nite programs, and Religious Emphasis Week, the men of Lafayette relaxed, and found in their gaiety a part of college life that they will long remember.

"An Evening in Paris," music by Les Elgart and pretty young girls helped make fall I-F a huge success.

Sparked by the theme of "A Night in Paris," the fall Interfraternity Weekend opened Lafayette's autumn social season in a gala fashion, as the Alumni Memorial Gymnasium was transformed into the Left Bank, with the Eiffel Tower rising over the various fraternity "cafes" that lined the walls. Highlighting one of the most successful I.F.'s in recent memory was music provided by the ever-popular Les Elgart, who alternated his mellow brand of dance music with the smooth tones of Walt Simpson throughout the evening. As the golden lights winked on and off in the blue gauze sky of the gym, there was almost a touch of spring in the air and Paris seemed very near indeed.

The following day, Saturday, saw the festive spectators in the Fisher Field stands, witnessing the Lafayette Leopards win a hard-fought game with the powerful Red Knights of Rutgers. After the game, chilled spirits were warmed at numerous fraternity teas and open houses about the campus. A special entertainment feature on campus for both nights was the Little Theatre's production of Sutton Vane's "Outward Bound," which drew enthusiastic approval from the holiday audience. The evening's fraternity festivities, ranging from jacket and tie affairs to toga and pajama parties, were enlivened by local and imported jazz bands, and as Sunday faded into memory, the curtain was rung down on fall I.F., 1955.

I.F. BALL

A pretty girl is like a melody. Miss Gail Gilbert, the queen of the fall Interfraternity Ball.

The thrills of an I-F leaves us moments we can remember long after college days are only fond memories.

Les Elgart's "sax" section gives "their all" in the waning moments of the fall Interfraternity Ball.

A traditional, and greatly appreciated feature of Lafayette's I.F. dances over the years has been the annual crowning of the Interfraternity Queen. Due to the high calibre of this year's contestants, the judges were faced with an unusually difficult job of selecting a queen, but they bore up manfully under the strain and finally chose, as Lafayette's ideal of beauty, Miss Gail Gilbert, a junior from Douglass College, New Brunswick, New Jersey. The winning beauty was presented with a trophy at the dance by Editor Armin Kuder of The Lafayette; and the evident admiration of the Lafayette audience well justified the judges' choice for the autumn Queen.

Gail Gilbert rises to the microphone for her coronation as queen of the I.F. Ball. She received a bouquet of roses and a loving cup.

By far and away the most successful and popular dance of its kind in recent years, if not in the history of the college, this year's Junior Dance drew a record number of 300 couples and elicited much favorable comment from the Class of '57 and the college as a whole. The semi-formal dance, which was held in the gym, was high-lighted by the "hurricane jazz" of Benny Snyder and his orchestra, who provided an enjoyable evening of uninterrupted music, featuring 40 minutes of swing time followed by a colorful 20 minutes of dixieland each hour.

The one break in the evening's music came when Socrates Hiotakis, editor-in-chief of THE MELANGE, presented to Miss Carole Ann Bauer, Queen of the Junior Dance, a loving cup from the yearbook and a corsage from the Maroon Key Society, the sponsoring organization.

JUNIOR DANCE

A highlight of each winter's social agenda is the Junior Dance, unusually successful this year.

Soc Hiotakis, Editor of the Melange, presents the Queen of the Junior Dance, Carol Ann Bauer with a loving cup during coronation.

MILITARY BALL

Ken Barber, President of the Scabbard and Blade Society commissions Phyllis Boorstein an "honorary colonel" at the Military Ball as the "honorary captains" look on.

The Scabbard and Blade Society again sponsored its annual formal dance, the Military Ball, which was held in the Alumni Memorial Gym. The affair saw a large turnout of undergraduate couples, who were captivated by a simple but unique array of parachute decorations which added neatly to the atmosphere of the dance. After the very difficult but pleasant duty of selecting an honorary colonel, the judges chose Miss Phyllis Boorstein, who was awarded the honor.

Music for the dance was provided by Matt Gillespie and his fourteen-piece band which provided the dancers with a varied program of "swing style" mambo and dixieland music. During the intermission, the ROTC drill team gave a fine display of precision marching and close order maneuvers.

The Pentagon would really rock if word got around that Phyllis Boorstein, Queen of the Military Ball, was appointed an Honorary Colonel!

Through hail, snow, sleet and Bailey Bridge tie-ups, the members of the Lafayette Club, Kneeling: Seeley, Regina and Lilly; Standing: Troxell, Horvath, Reed, Bugen, Roscioli, Zarbatany, and Toloczko, our commuters, always make their "eights" even if they are a little late sometimes.

LAFAYETTE CLUB

In 1952 commuting and non-fraternity students began to organize a group that later was to become known as the Lafayette Club. The organization aimed at improving the scholastic standing of its members, encouraging local high school students to attend Lafayette College, promoting good will between the college and the community, and providing its members with opportunities for participation in social and athletic activities. The well knit group of thirty active members has succeeded in fulfilling its goals, being especially well represented in intramural and varsity sports and in sponsoring dances, not only for the benefit of their members, but for those local alumni who were not members of fraternities or social groups while they attended college. It is in continuing work of this kind that the organization hopes to gain further recognition for commuters and non-fraternity men in all phases of campus life.

The Cosmopolitan Club is an organization where foreign students may acquire a better understanding of the American way of life, and providing American students with a chance to study and learn about other nations. The club's members represent: Afghanistan, China, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Germany, Greece, Guatemala, Iran, Japan, Korea, Panama, Syria, Viet Nam and Yemen.

At the beginning of each school year the club gives a reception and a tea to welcome the new foreign students and introduce them to the members of the faculty and the Club.

Holding monthly meetings for the discussion of important current issues in various countries. The club holds an annual joint meeting with Cosmopolitan Clubs of other colleges in the area. This year the Club also held a joint meeting with the Cosmopolitan Club of Centenary Junior College.

On the lighter side, the society sponsors two dances a year, and provides members with a picnic at the end of each school year as a farewell to its graduating members. It also participates in dinners and parties given by the Dean of Students and other members of the faculty.

COSMOPOLITAN CLUB

Both foreign and domestic students, Seated: Khuong, Abdu, Samii, Thomas, and Jurf; Standing: Michel, Cho, Quelguejeu, Farokhrooz, Walker, Harding, Harned, Farzanegan and Dean Hunt are members of the Cosmopolitan Club which emphasizes an appreciation and understanding of varied peoples and cultures.

Dorm Row, in a frame of Springtime, is the center of Freshman life at Lafayette. It is eventually to be replaced by new buildings.

DORM ROW

In well near half a century, dorm row has been the heart of all college activity. Containing as it does the book store, the post office, and numerous dormitories, the passing of Newkirk, Blair, Knox and McKeen Halls will mark the end of an era at Lafayette. Scheduled to be levelled during the coming summer to fulfill the aims of the New Era Building program. The land where the present edifices now stand will eventually either be occupied by an extension of Kirby dormitory or the erection of a new structure.

An old freshman tradition could not ever be dampened by the wrath of Jupluvius—the ushering in of the football team at the first game.

A huge bonfire, a cheering student body, and devotion to our Alma Mater makes each year's pep rally before the annual Lehigh football fracas an event that we will remember long after our sheepskin is yellowed and our youth is a memory.

FRESHMAN ACTIVITIES

First Row: Flanzbaum, Runyon, Hait, Rios, and Castalas; Standing: Jarden, Sallada, and Delucia all members of the Campus Chest meet to formulate plans for the new South College drive.

CAMPUS CHEST

The annual Campus Chest drive is a campaign organized, directed, and paid for by the student body. This year, the funds received were distributed among Patna University in India, the National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students, The Japan International Christian University, and to Jerry Dunham of the class of 1957. The money given to these organizations goes to help other students either start or complete a college education.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Alpha Phi Omega has been very busy this year renovating the YMCA Camp, knocking down a brick wall which was in the back of Saint Johns Church in Easton, and spreading good will for the college by cleaning out the basement of Saint Peters church here on the hill.

Alpha chapter has also sponsored a successful scant swimming meet, adding this event to many of its other deeds performed by the National Service Fraternity.

SOCIETY

The Earl Orwig Society is a group in which men interested in lives of service in the ministry gather bi-weekly to discuss seminaries and the events of everyday life. Seated: Winship, K. Milhous, Slack Nevius, Douglas, R. Milhous; Standing: Evans, Wendell, Grieb, Piper, Cresswell, Howard, Richards, Bustard, and Powell.

Inspirational in nature, the Earl Orwig Society gives the pre-theological student at Lafayette an insight into the Christian world. The group holds two seminars each month, as students and faculty alternate in conducting discussions of theology and the methods of preparation for Christian service. Performing a vital service for the College community, the society is not only composed of pre-theological students, it also extends invitations to all those who are undertaking some phase of full-time Christian work.

HOGG HALL

Hogg Hall which contains the College Inn, Radio Station, and many offices is the center of many hours of relaxation for the Lafayette man.

HILLEL SOCIETY

This year, the Hillel Society, under the guidance of Rabbi Alexander Feinsilver from Easton and its capable president Charles Brill, has functioned actively to supplement Jewish life for the members on the campus. Many discussions were held, some led by the Rabbi and others by guest speakers, at which time pertinent and provocative subjects were debated. The society has also held services at Hogg Hall, and a special Hillel Service was held at the Temple Covenant of Peace here in Easton at which time a beautiful set of Prayer Books was presented to the members. Also along the same lines the society, in cooperation with the Easton Chapter of B'nai B'rith, gave the College library a gift subscription to the Jewish Book Club, a gift which the men of Hillel hope will become an annual donation. Highlight of the Hillel's social season was a joint dance sponsored with their neighboring Lehigh chapter, a successful affair with dates from the neighboring colleges of Cedar Crest, Beaver, and Centenary Junior College.

The Hebrew students on our campus gather periodically for spiritual guidance and healthy discussion at the Hillel Society. First row: Hollander, Fost, Hersh, Brill, and Rabbi Bernfield; Second row: Cohen, Fischbach, Trutt, Kraham, and Flanzbaum; Third row: Rosenbluth, Kramer, Weinman, and Rawitt; Fourth row: Wiener, Strauss, Marcus, Seidel and Schwartz.

NEWMAN CLUB

The Newman Club is a society of culture and fellowship established for Catholic students attending non-Catholic and secular colleges and universities. Primarily it acts to deepen the spiritual life of its members and enrich the temporal activity through a well balanced program of religious, intellectual and social activities. The club has as its most desired goal, the setting of high standards of moral and ethical behaviour of Catholic students. An international organization, and the largest Catholic Collegiate association in the United States, our chapter is a member of the Middle Atlantic Province of the Newman Club Federation.

Organized at Lafayette in 1946, the club at present encompasses nearly all of the 300 Catholic students on the campus. Beginning the new school year on September 18, 1955, the members celebrated a mass in Hogg Hall, and then on September 26, it held its first formal initiation ceremony for all members, including the newly accepted freshmen.

First Row: O'Connor, MacIntosh, Hamerstone, Stockman, Martocci, Hage, Jones, Sloan, and Brett. Second Row: Adelmann, Barzuna, Bozik, Hourihan, Velten, Father Muldon, Kozischek, O'Donnell, Greenhalgh, Mozzochi. Third Row: Sayers, Halsey, Tunnessen, Vavecchia, Kitson, Fatell, Bargo, Pisarra, and Rossi. Fourth Row: McGrail, Gaudey, Bengel, Norton, Van der Kieft, Reis, Morgan, Rose, Birney, Wojtowicz, McGill.

The IntersVarsity Christian Fellowship furthers friendship through Christ and sponsors religious gatherings with students from other campuses. Standing: Frasca, Masland, K. I.V.C.F.

An international campus religious organization, with over 350 chapters in the United States and Canada, the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship is devoted to "personal evangelism, to witnessing to the saving power of Christ as personal Lord and Savior, and in making the Bible an integral part of Christian living." Via an enthusiastic program carried on throughout the year, the IVCF seeks to strengthen religious faith and promote the cause of Christian unity.

The West wing of South College was completely gutted in a flash fire which attracted thousands of spectators late in February. The steeple, newly re-enforced, toppled on the street, a mass of charred timber.

FOUNDER'S DAY

President Ralph Cooper Hutchison prepares to congratulate S. H. Bingham who has just been presented his honorary degree by Dean R. G. Crosen while Judge W. H. Kirkpatrick, President of the Board of Trustees looks on at Founder's Day festivities.

President Ralph Cooper Hutchison smiles approvingly while Prof. H. W. Streeter watches Dean R. G. Crosen put the headdress on L. B. Wescott, Dr. of Human Letters at Founder's Day ceremonies. To the far right is Dr. Thomas Watson, member of the Board of Trustees who also received a degree.

Dr. Ralph Cooper Hutchison, Lafayette College President, addressing a luncheon at Hogg Hall after the dedication of the Olin Memorial Engineering Building.

Attorney General, Herbert Brownell, addresses a Founder's Day crowd composed of seniors, faculty, parents and friends gathered in the gymnasium.

Comfortable living, combining both leisure and study, is found in New McKeen Dormitory; a building whose completion this fall was made possible through the generous gifts of Lafayette alumni and friends.

Founder's Day dawned bright and clear in 1955, and the crisp blue October day provided a fitting background to one of the most rewarding and important events in the history of Lafayette. This year, in addition to the regular granting of honorary degrees which traditionally characterizes Founder's Day, President Ralph Cooper Hutchison formally dedicated New McKeen "to the God of wisdom and understanding."

Following a reading by Joseph Graft, deputy chairman of the Greater Lafayette Fund, the list of donors who had given one or more rooms to the new dormitory was read. The formal ceremonies were concluded by a dedicatory prayer offered by Chaplain Currie, and the singing of the alma mater. The assemblage then adjourned to the gymnasium to hear a speech on the menace of communism by Attorney General Brownell which was broadcast coast to coast on the NBC program "Monitor." Brownell, and Senator Margaret Chase Smith, along with other notables in the world of commerce, engineering, and industry, then received honorary degrees from the college, and a successful Founder's Day drew to a close.

Our U. S. Attorney General, Herbert Brownell, reaches the end of his Founder's Day address with a few well-chosen words of advice for seniors soon to take their place in our society.

Miss Pennsylvania proved herself to be not only beautiful but also talented and a delightful mistress of ceremonies at K.R.T.'s annual Skit Nite!

The fourth annual Skit Night, sponsored in the gym this year by the Knights of the Round Table, was generally agreed to be the finest the college had ever sen. The entertainment in all cases was of high quality, and the three winning skits were especially noteworthy, and indicative of the considerable amount of time and talent expended. Phi Gamma Delta, which took third place, brought to the stage a humorous satire of South Pacific; which showed much originality and considerable care in construction. Second place winner Delta Upsilon introduced a new element, the chorus, into the age-old story of a freshman's career at Lafayette, and contributed greatly to the audiences' enjoyment with song and dance numbers and fine technical operations. The Robert B. Meyner trophy for the outstanding skit was presented this year to Soles Hall for its production of "Let's Put the Horse Back in Opera," which saw the elements of horse and grand opera mixed in a particularly effective combination.

SKIT NIGHT

A particularly attractive feature of this yera's K.R.T. Skit Night was the appearance of Pam Ulrich, Miss Pennsylvania of 1956, as mistress of ceremonies. Miss Ulrich appeared on schedule, much to the delight of the record number of Lafayette men attending the festivities, and proceeded to perform with the poise and assurance of a star. Highlighting the evening by awarding the Governor Meyner Skit Night Trophy to the winning group despite the lack of microphone during the early part of the program (which in no way diminished Miss Pennsylvania's considerable charms), the whole production was an extremely polished one, including as an added attraction the singing of The Marquis Four, a student quartet which drew a round of well-deserved applause for its effort.

"They went that away!" says the sheriff to the "beautiful" angel. The "bad men" of Soles Hall ride a victory with their well done "horse opera" of KRT's annual Skit Nite.

A group of Lafayette's most well-rounded men, scholastically, athletically and extra-curricularly, receive the honor of being initiated into KRT at the Dad's Day Dinner.

DAD'S DAY

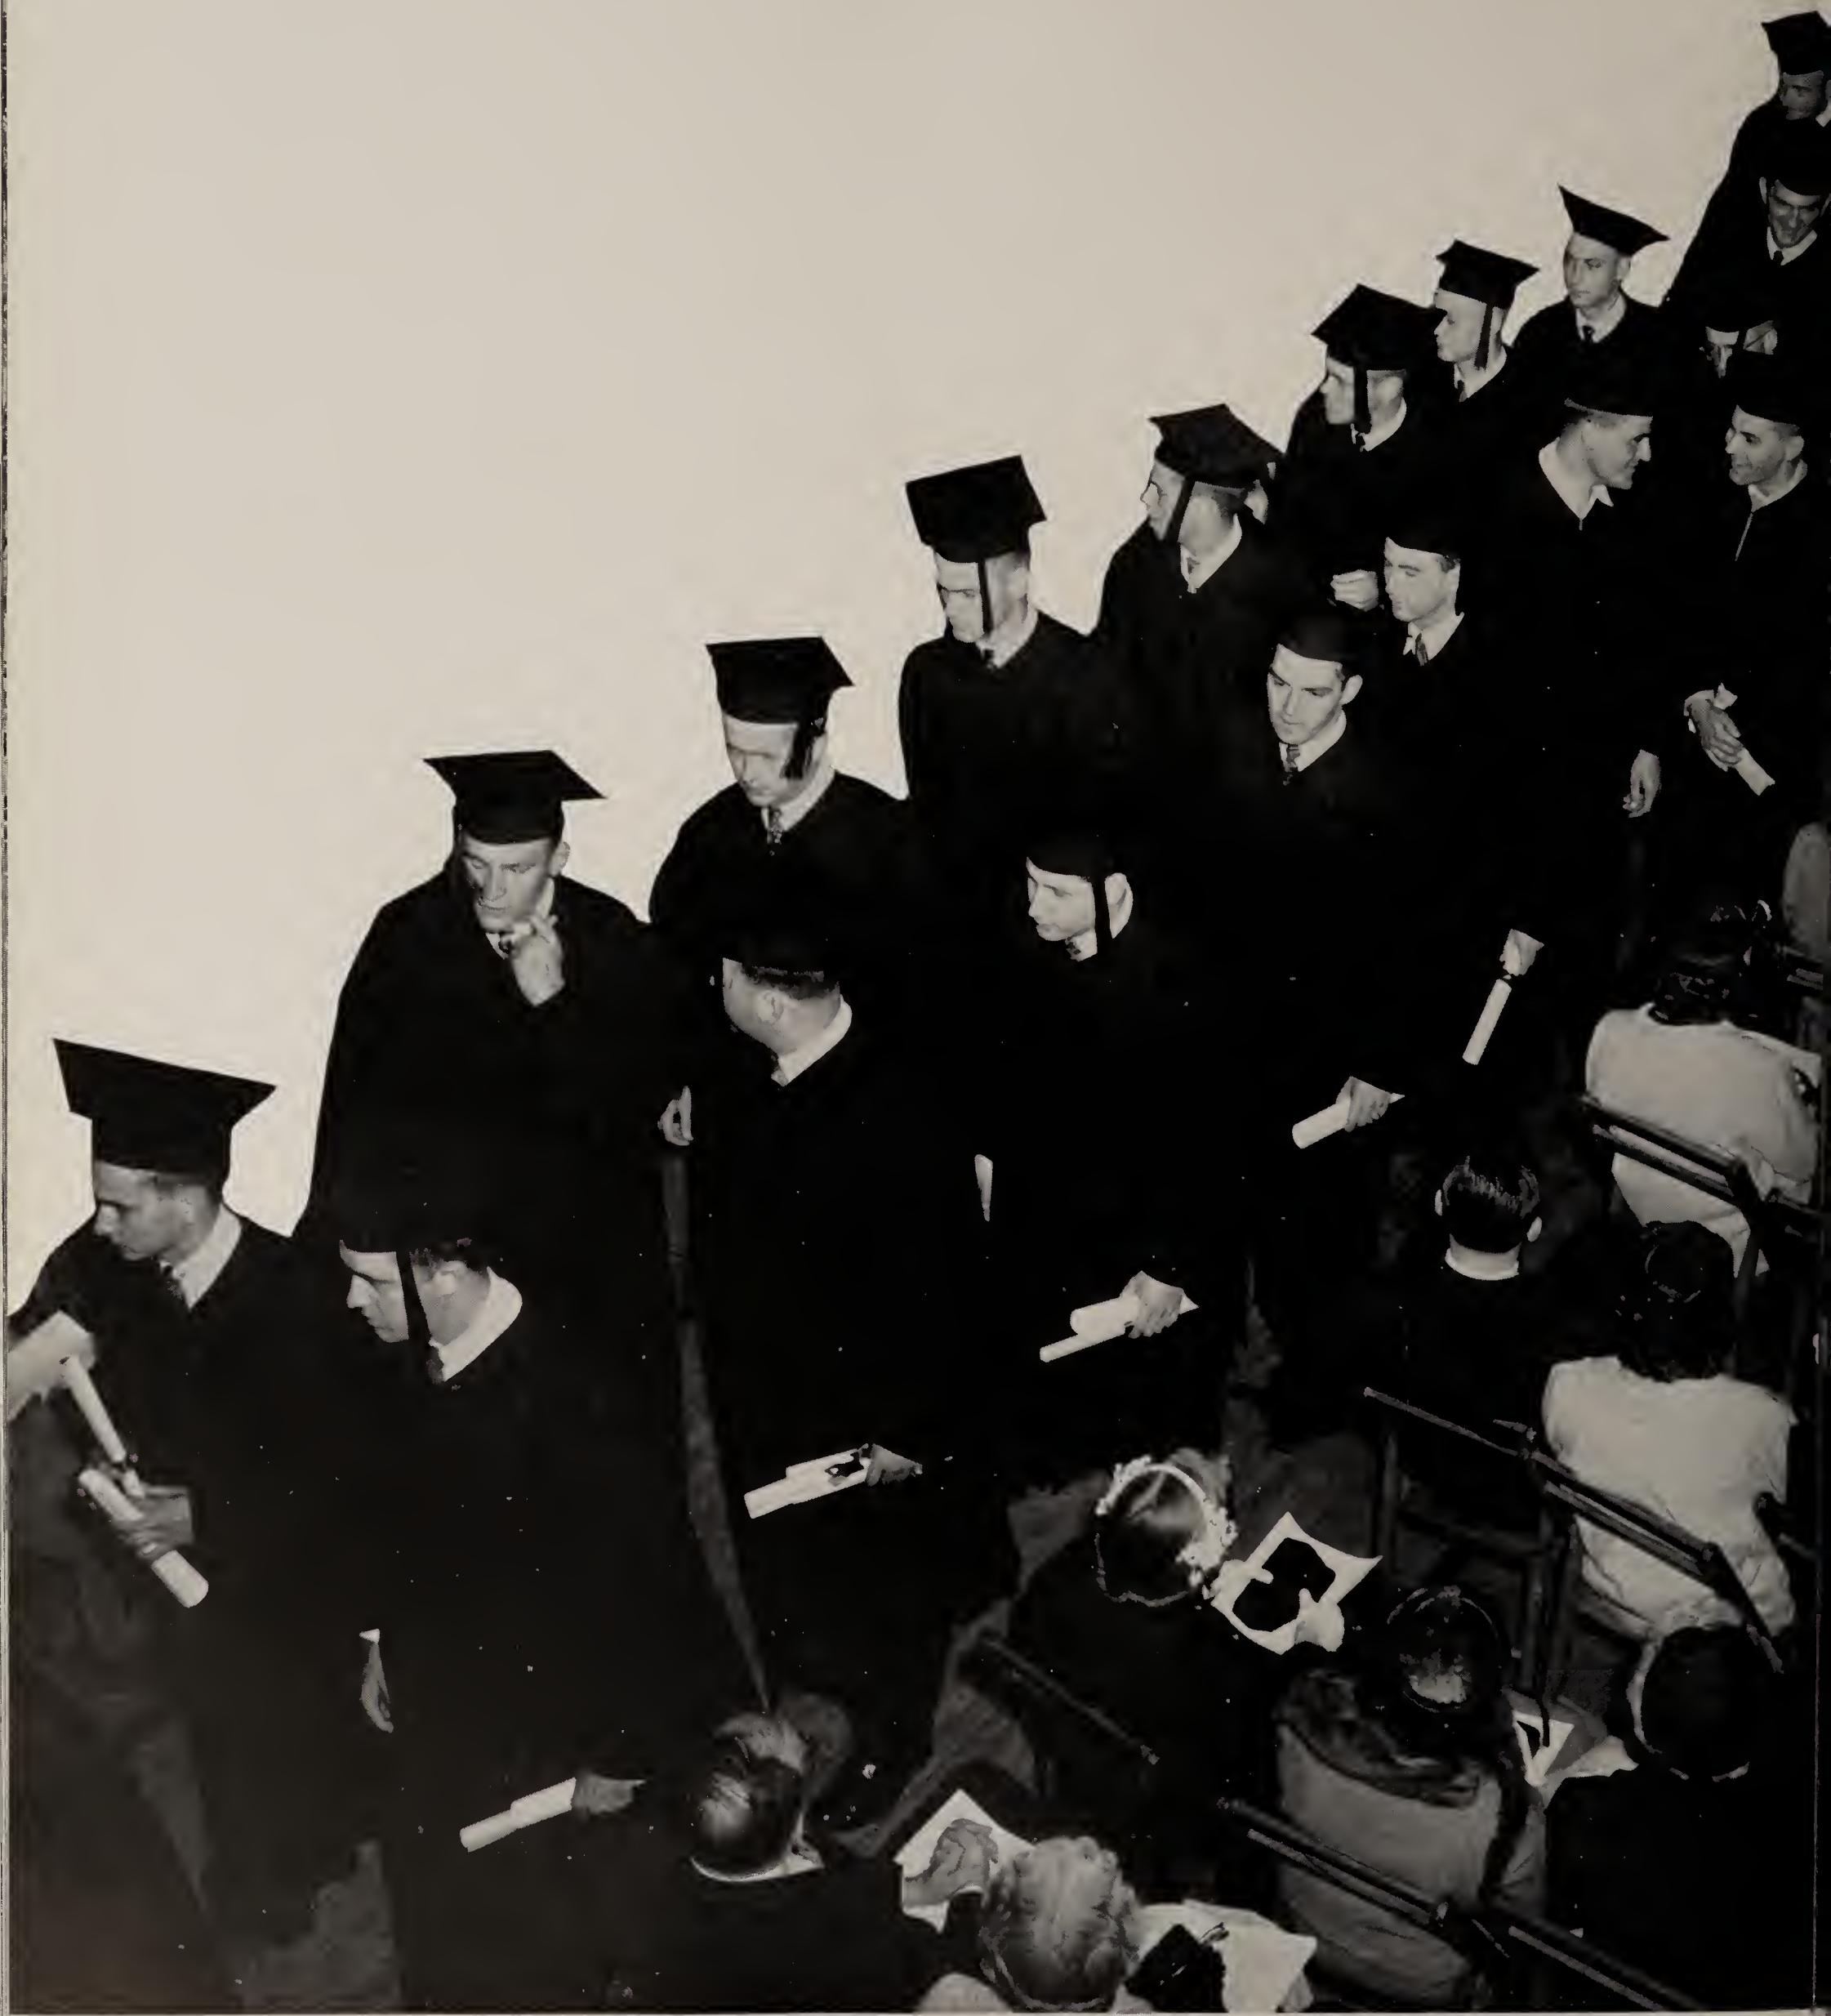

The annual Dad's Day activities were commenced this year by a special convocation in the gym, at which time, Attorney General Herbert Brownell spoke as part of the Founder's Day exercises. Then the visiting fathers had lunch with their sons at the various dorms and fraternity houses on campus, after which parents and students adjourned to the stadium to view the Lafayette-Bucknell football game. The day was ended with a special banquet in the gym where the newly-elected members of The Knights of the Round Table were officially initiated into the society.

Zap! you're cured! Dr. Dimwit gives a willing? member of ROTC his shots during the Delta Upsilon production at Skit Nite.

Brr, It looks cold at this Phi Gamma Delta skit, but "Bloody Mary" (center near mike) is trying to warm things up a bit.

The graduating senior at Lafayette has far more than a mere certificate to demonstrate the fact that he has successfully fulfilled the requirements of four years of schooling. During his undergraduate days here, he has participated in a life particular in its demands, yet fruitfully generous in its rewards. As an engineer or as a liberal arts student, he has come to know intimately his classmates and his instructors and he has gained a wealth of knowledge and experience far superior to the more academic callings of the classroom. Proficient in his chosen field, he has proved by his success in a difficult and exacting undertaking that he has attained for himself the seeds of knowledge destined to carry him to the head of his profession. The friends he has made and the memories which he is certain to retain will remain a part of him throughout the rest of his life, continuing a heritage to be renewed again and again whenever he returns to his campus. Whether he is soon to enter the service, to enter a graduate school for further study, or to begin his chosen career, he remains a symbol of the continuing heritage of Lafayette and a mark of the success of an ideal which has endured for over a century.

ALUMNI SECRETARY

Alumni Council activities are spearheaded by secretary Joseph Bell, class of '28, the only man ever to hold the position of full-time secretary for our Alumni organization. Says Mr. Bell, "The aim of the Alumni Council is to see that Lafayette College is correctly interpreted to the Alumni and friends of Lafayette."

The principle instrument in carrying out this aim is our Alumni magazine, the Lafayette Alumnus. In addition to newsnotes about the alumni, the Alumnus includes an account of Lafayette activities, news and interviews with the faculty. Other Alumni activities include the Alumni fund and the organization of class reunions.

Never let it be said that our Alumni Council is looking only upon fond memories of yesteryear. On the contrary—the Council has encouraged the activity of freshman class officers; actively encouraged sub-freshmen to select Lafayette as the college of their choice and recently conducted a self-study program to determine the program of studies which best prepares students for their future vocations.

The important job of keeping close the tie between alma mater and alumni is capably handled by Joseph E. Bell, Alumni Secretary.

ALUMNI COUNCIL

McLean '25, Weber '25, McKean '30 (Pres.), Waters '23, Bell '28, O'Brien '38, Gamsu '14, and Rahn '30, members of the Alumni Council meet to discuss plans for Alumni Weekend.

PLACEMENT BUREAU

The Placement Bureau's main objective is to make available personal interviews between visiting recruiting representatives of industry and individual members of the senior class. After the student has indicated his job preferences, the bureau undertakes the difficult feat of scheduling meetings between the undergraduate and the desired firms.

However, the Placement Bureau also renders valuable work in aiding and advising students undecided about their future careers, furnishing material and information about positions in various fields, and rendering him every assistance toward the selection of a proper career. Included in the wide range of the Bureau's endeavors is their work in placing graduate students in the fields of their choice and in serving summer employment for the men of all classes on the campus.

Headed by Samuel B. Nickel, the success of Lafayette graduates attests to the value and worth of what is certainly a highly successful undertaking in a difficult field.

The most important part of the senior's life is preparing for his occupation after graduation. The placement bureau in its Hogg Hall headquarters brings together students and prospective employers.

COMMENCEMENT

We all live for that day when our four years of labor will be realized in a sheepskin and handshake from Dr. Hutchison.

A class assembled for the last time in the gym realizes that the friendships made during the years and the problems solved, will tomorrow be just fond memories.

And suddenly, the Day arrives. Or rather, the Commencement Day season arrives. For no one day seems adequate to contain all the trappings which the simple severing of academic bonds has taken on in this precise and occasionally practical age. The interminable orations and ceremonies that beguiled a more leisured generation have vanished; but if the sheer number of men to be graduated today demands a more accelerated though slightly less picturesque, procedure, there remains a good deal of color about the whole business.

There are always those hardy few who are uncertain, up to the final moment, whether or not they will graduate; and there are those to whom the sartorial mysteries of gown and mortar board will never be fully revealed. Then there are the alumni, back for class reunions and general reminiscence; and a more colorful group would be difficult to find. There are the banquets, and the processions, and the speeches, and the annual deluge of parents, relatives, and friends, and suddenly, somewhere along the line, the day arrives and as four years are condensed into one piece of paper the young graduate is suffused with traditional nostalgia and the rather disquieting thought that it's now time to go out and get a job.

Certain fortunate individuals, members of the ROTC, have this latter problem thoughtfully solved for them when, at this time, they receive their commissions in the Army Reserve. And certainly color is not lacking here. There is always the traditional dollar given to the enlisted man who gives the fledgling officer his first salute.

On this day, it seems, everybody wins.

A father beams proudly as he and his family congratulates their son, a newly commissioned second lieutenant in the U. S. Army.

COMMISSIONING

FOUR YEARS AGO

In the immediate vicinity of Lafayette, is a small city of establishments both on college hill and in Easton which provide the college man with every article of equipment and impediments from neckties to varsity sweaters and ice cream cones. These people of the Lafayette community have a distinct relationship with the school and more intimately with the student body. However, a great deal of their work often passes unnoticed by the average student. Their subscriptions to the organs of the college, the Lafayette, the Marquis and the Melange, contribute in large measures to the success, perhaps even the existence of these publications. Furthermore, their contributions to the Campus Chest, the College Church, the Maroon Club and other school sponsored activities add greatly to the fulfillment of the work of the college administration. Composed of Lafayette alumni and the school's staunchest supporters, these people have gone out of their way to make our years here a success. The men of the Class of 1956 would like at this time to express their sincere appreciation and indebtedness to these men and women of the Lafayette community who have done so much during these four years past, to make our undergraduate days successful.

"Jahn & Ollier Again"

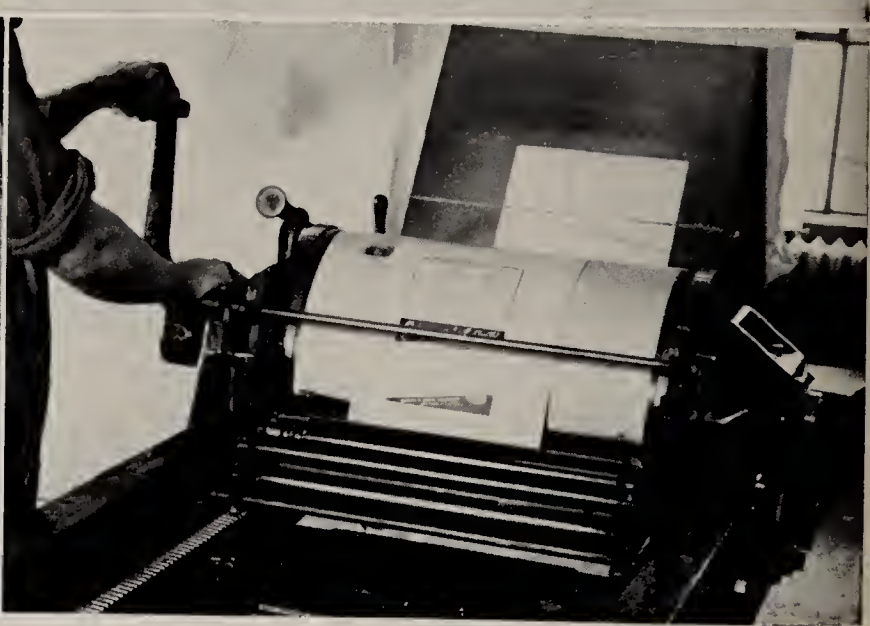

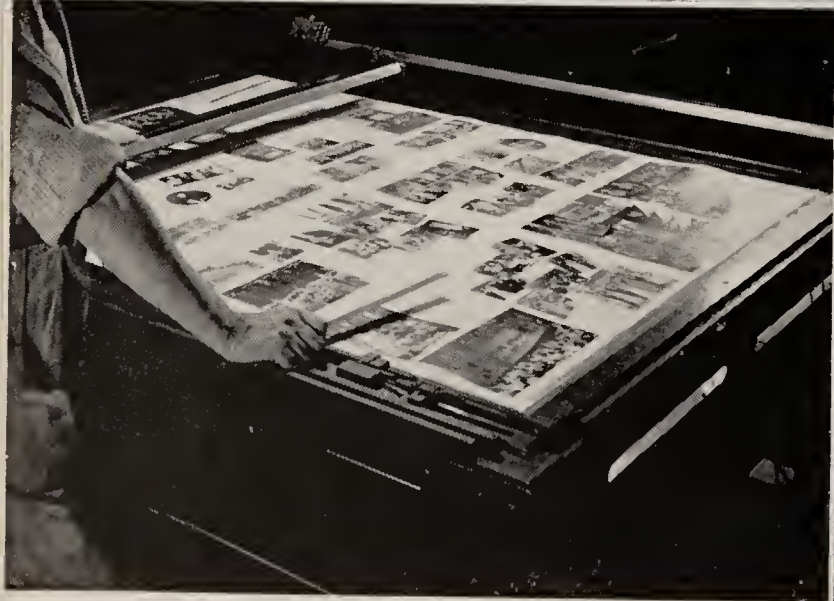

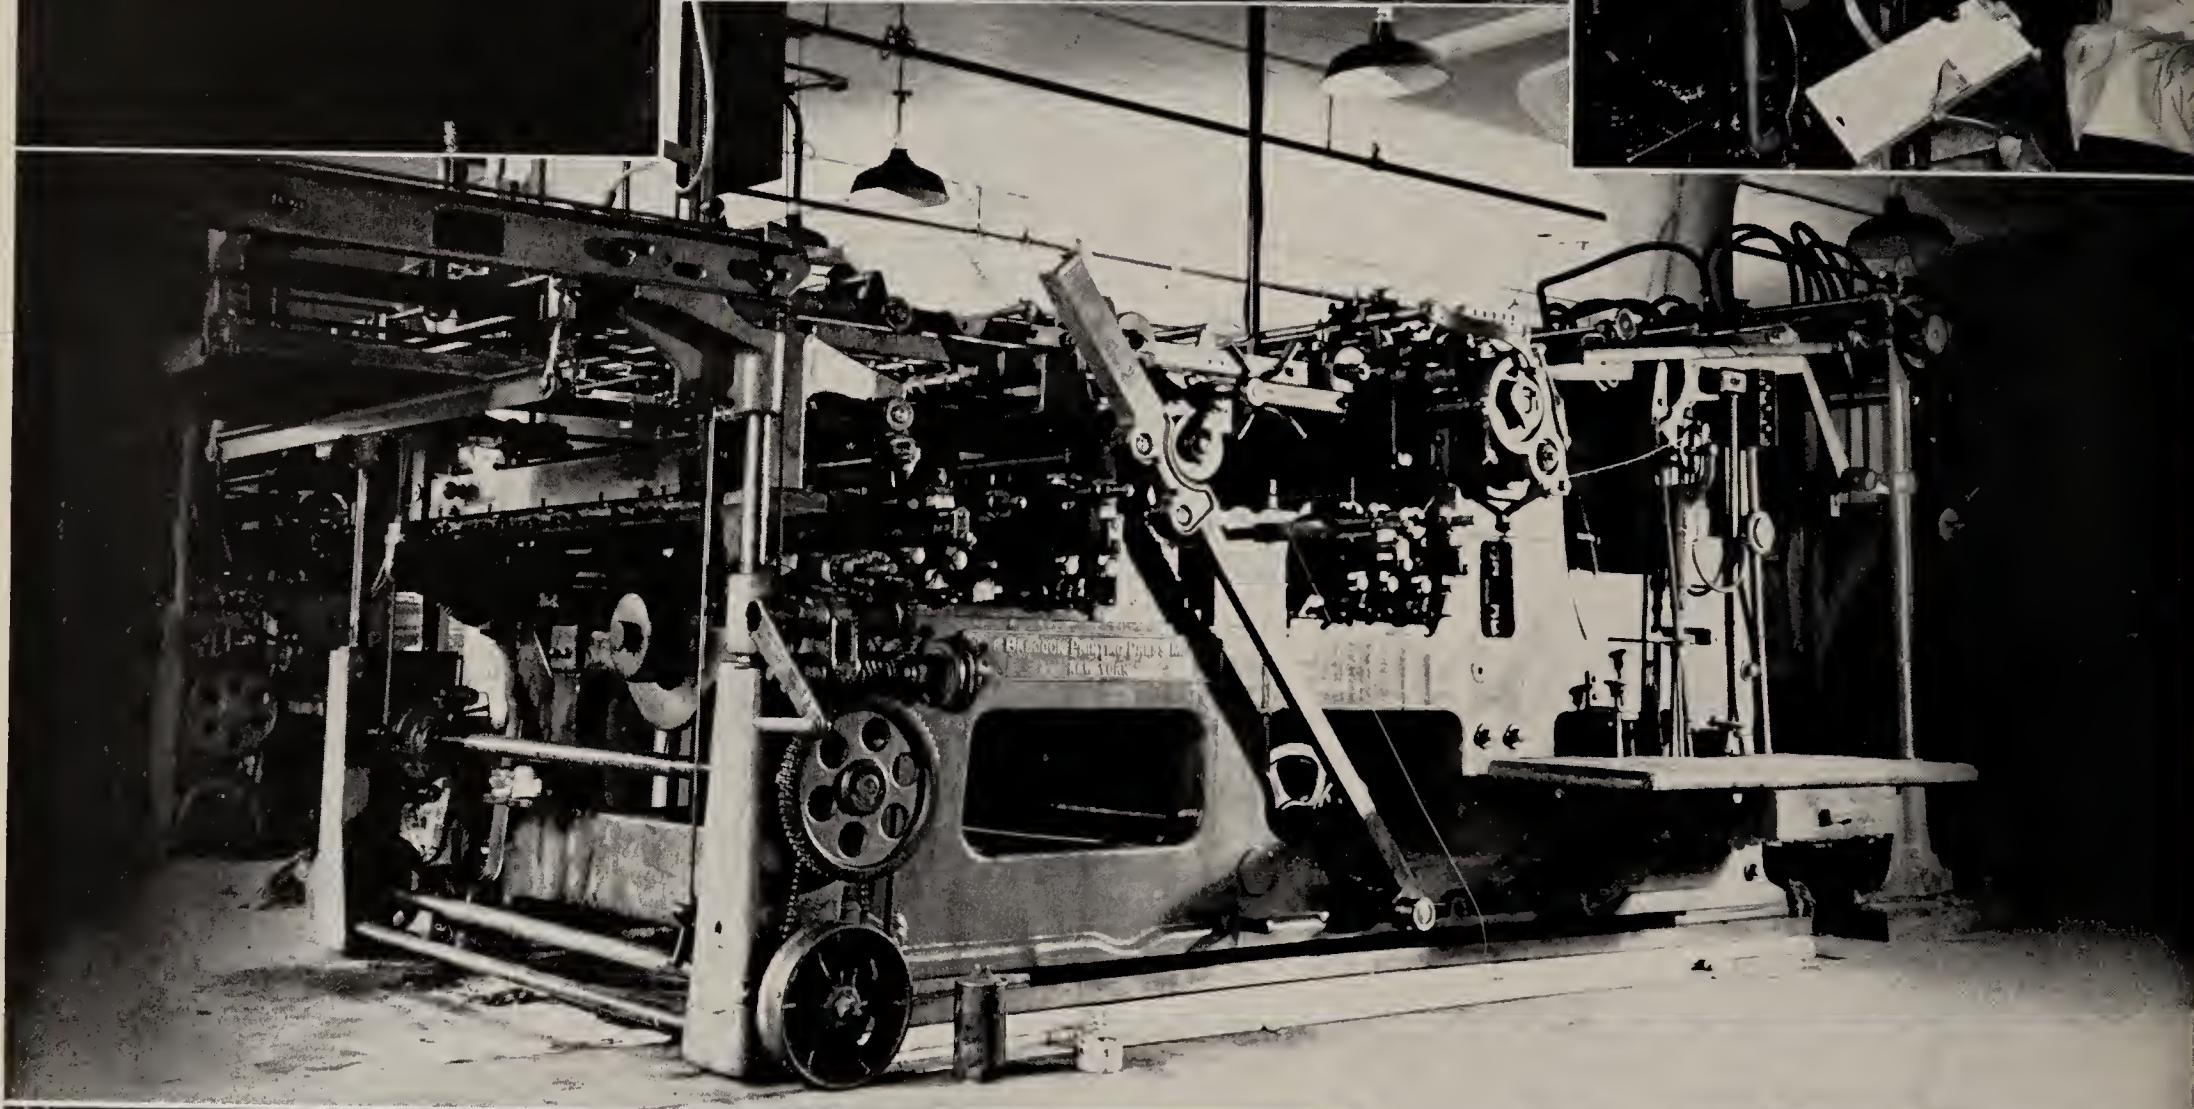

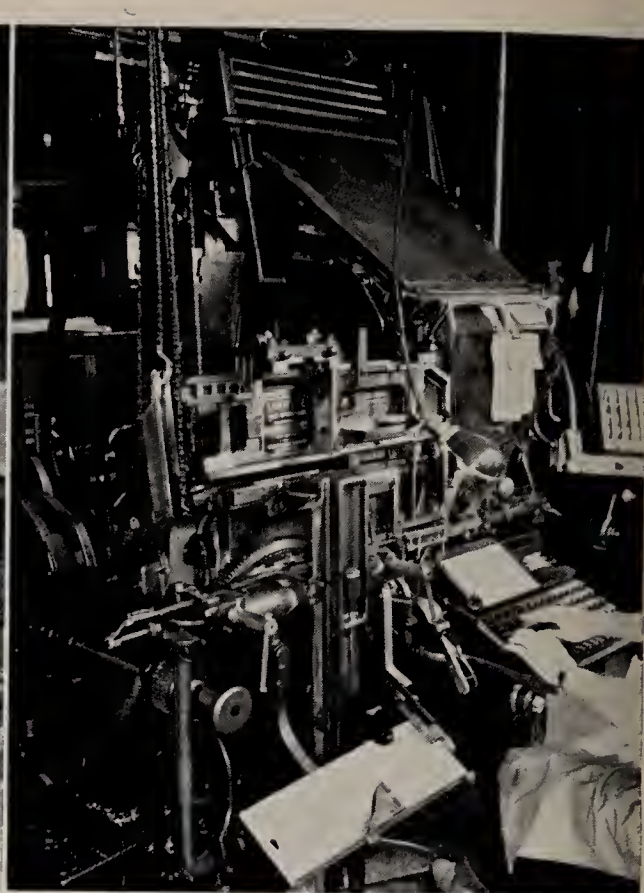

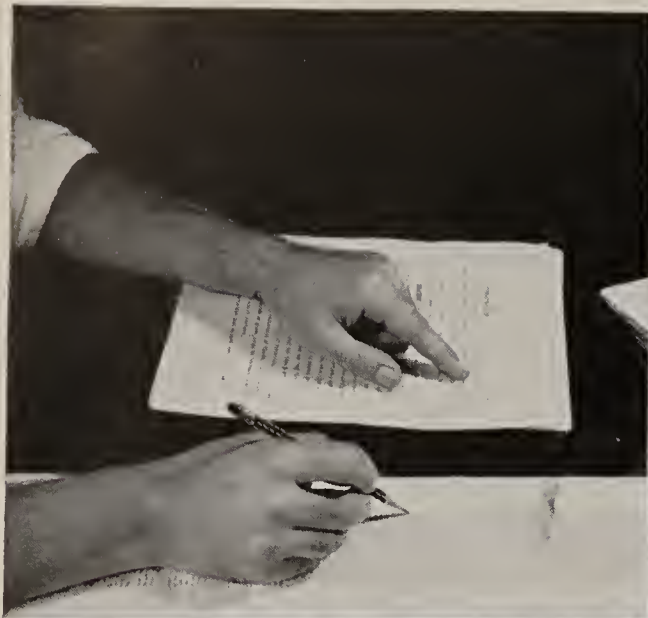

A familiar and reassuring slogan

FAMILIAR...because it has appeared in thousands of the country's finest yearbooks for the past half century.

REASSURING...because those years of specialized experience bring complete service, outstanding quality and dependable delivery to the yearbook staffs with whom we work.

WE WISH TO THANK:

The Faculty and Administration for their advice, encouragement, and understanding during picture schedules, deadlines, and meetings.

The Presidents of Fraternities, Honorary Societies, and Activities for their help and wholehearted cooperation during picture schedules and write-up interviews.

The Class of 1956 for their encouragement and advice during the entire production of the Melange.

The Student Council, and especially Pres. John Salvador for their tremendous financial assistance and advice without which the book could have never become a reality.

President Ralph Cooper Hutchison for his time and effort on behalf of the MELANGE. His many hours this past Summer made it possible for a new and improved financial system.

Our advisor, Bob Wietzel for "cutting the red tape" and his advice, co-operation and interest.

Bob Alexander, Editor 1954 MELANGE and Tom Nelson, Editor of 1955 MELANGE for their technical advice and for their wholehearted support during the planning and production of the book.

The Patrons and Advertisers who gave so generously in order that our job could be financially feasible.

The Easton Express for their help in getting athletic shots for us when we were stuck.

The Brothers of Phi Gamma Delta who spent a fretful school year answering telephones, taking messages, donating their time and labor in tight pinches, and for their fraternal advice and encouragement.

Mr. William O'Connor, the smiling Irishman with the Swiss Alpine Hat from John and Ollier Engraving Co., for his invaluable professional assistance granted always with patience, good will, and unfailing humorous remarks on the classic Lafayette-Lehigh rivalry.

Mr. Nason Clark, of Clark Printing House, for his sincerity and integrity to whom nothing was impossible, who never failed to give his all on our behalf. It was a pleasure and an honor to have worked with him.

Mr. Marvin Merrin, of Merrin Studios, for fine technical assistance in getting the required pictures, for the very excellent senior portraits, and for his encouragement, time and effort.

Photographic Director Bob Chamberlain and his staff, whose co-operation and help in times of crisis was never failing.

The Staff of the 1956 MELANGE, whose devotion to their jobs made this book possible, giving up countless hours to carry out unglamorous tasks, these men, listed on the next page, were the working force, working behind the scenes in the production of the MELANGE.
